Marriage a School.

Earrings or Trousers?

DR. M. S. TAYLOR wires from Chicago: "Contribute your opinion on legalizing companionable marriage. I am to debate with Judge Lindsey in Orchestral Hall, Clarence Darrow presiding."

That question was settled when Eve appeared from Adam's rib. Woman is naturally monogamous, is determined to make man so, will do it eventually, and marriage is the school of monogamy.

A COMPANIONATE marriage expresses doubt, proves lack of the confidence on which marriage should be based, and while it is perfectly legal now, divorce being legal, it is a poor, cold-blooded sort of marriage.

FORTUNATELY, the average young couple have no doubts whatever, and only regret the marriage cannot last a million years, just to prove it.

Sometimes they are disappointed, nearly always through the husband's fault. But meanwhile, the children have been born, blessed with the influence of trust and affection.

THE value of a man depends on the respect of his father and his mother for each other.

If husband and wife start marriage in doubt, each leaving the door open for escape, the children's inferiority will reflect their parents' "I may decide to quit" marriage.

The important thing in marriage is the quality of the children, and the next generation.

THE Latin races, conferring in Havana, decide that the right to revolt should not be taken from any people.

Revolution underlies nearly all governments on these American continents, including our own. It would be foolish to suggest that all good revolutions have occurred, and that all, hereafter, must be bad.

MEXICO'S government, facing a religious revolution, started the discussion, suggesting that any port held by revolutionists should be isolated, outside nations keeping away from it. A Cuban representative objected, upholding the right of any people to rebel, and other delegates supported his view.

UNCLE SAM, a sort of Gulliver among Lilliputs, feels like a fish out of water at the conference. His neighbors are smaller, not so rich, in some cases envious and hostile. He cannot allow himself to be bound by any resolution or limitation approved by the Latin republics—not even if they should agree unanimously.

THE United States must make and carry out its own plans, and at most, can listen, sympathetically, to what the smaller American republics have to say, without permitting them to make rules controlling the United States, or in any way limiting its rights. That is the fact and might as well be put plainly.

THE Prince of Wales, hopefully discussing trade revival, wonders whether human beings invented earrings or trousers first. Man's passion for adornment, he thought, probably produced earrings before clothes.

HE IS right about that. Darwin tells of Patagonian ladies, living in a climate often bitter, that would not think of coming from their huts to let a stranger see them until they had painted their faces and arranged their hair. But they did come out without one stitch of clothing.

A British nobleman, by the way, owns a pearl earring taken from the ear of King Charles the First, after his head had been cut off.

DANIEL WILLARD, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, celebrates his sixty-seventh birthday, saying, "I refuse to be more than fifty years old"

In less than five hundred years, fifty will be really younger than thirty-three is now, and seventy-five will be the prime of life.

THE natural life of man would be one hundred and forty if he understood the machine in which he lives, and took care of himself.

Other animals live ten times the age at which they mature, physically, and men should do the same.

OUR troubles will come, in America, when our natural resources are exhausted—coal, oil, iron, forests, etc.

At present we are busy using, wasting. Some day we may be busy regretting. Emil Kekich, sent to Sweden by Herbert Hoover's Department of Commerce, reports that Sweden has solved her forest problem.

The annual growth of timber in Sweden exceeds the annual cutting by 100,000,000 cubic feet, or twelve hundred million lineal feet.

NO NATION can avoid exhaustion of oil, coal and iron, in the long run. But forests, supplying heat, houses, and wood alcohol for engines, could keep civilization going.

Our best hope is in the ability of science to find something better, when one thing goes—kerosene in place of whale oil, electric light in place of oil. Power of sun, tides, the earth's interior heat, perhaps to replace coal and oil.

SISTER SHIP OF S-4 LOST SINCE SATURDAY

A squadron of U. S. Navy submarines was combing the Atlantic in the vicinity of Cape Hatteras today, searching for the submarine S-3, sister ship of the sunken S-4. The S-3 became separated, during a severe gale Saturday night, from the naval contingent with which she was headed south for winter maneuvers at Guantanamo. Nothing has been heard from her since.

BREAKS, BARES FALL

Tells Her True Story

"Gloria Sigmann," Pittsburg's girl of mystery, told her true story in Morals Court today. She told Judge A. D. Brandon that her right name is Mary Martin and that her home—at least, her last home—was in Tuscaloosa, Ala. "Gloria" was found semi-conscious in Smithfield street late Friday. She told the judge a dramatic—and pitiful—tale of becoming a drug addict while attending school, there partaking of morphine along with several schoolmates "just for the thrill."

MARY MARTIN

By ALMA MOUX SCARBERRY.

Mary Martin, of Tuskaloosa, Fla., is a child of a destiny so cruel one wonders how life can be like that.

From a school girl prank, wherein she and four other girls took morphine "just for a thrill—to see what it was like," to jail bars and Morals Court. But at the end of her trail, Mary found peace and friends, the first understanding she has had in years.

Mary is "Gloria Sigmann," the mystery girl who fainted in the street here Friday night and since has refused stoutly to tell her story. Cold and stubborn as a stone wall, suddenly she broke down and cried it all out in the matron's room to me.

Judge Brandon, who is always kind, understood. And Mary will be placed in a hospital, not an institution, and treated. She is sick. Sick of life and the trouble that has been her lot in her 23 years.

Here is her story, told for what it might mean to other girls who are thrill seekers. It is a real "sob story."

Mary, five years ago in school, took the first step in her downward career, when, with her school friends, she took the "dope." It was great fun. She slept and had amusing and interesting dreams. One can understand her attitude, for she is brilliant and had a mind that demanded seeing things and doing things for herself. Just reading about them wasn't enough.

Mary's father and mother are old-fashioned people who know but one code. A woman is either good or bad. So when Mary finished school and went on the stage, that was too much. They told her not to come back home.

Then Mary fell in love. She crept back to her home with a great sorrow in her heart, begging them to take her back. But they didn't. She was a bad woman and they never wanted to see her again. She was no daughter of theirs.

When Mary remembered the night the girls took dope and how nice it seemed to dream pleasantly and not worry she felt she had found a way out. So after a while she went back on the stage in a revue touring the south—a "dope fiend." But no one suspected it.

An overdose caused her to wander away and she swears she doesn't know how she got here to Pittsburgh.

But Judge Brandon believes she is worth salvaging. She has a fine mind and a real desire to be a better girl. So here she has found those who will give her a chance to come back. And had she had love and understanding for her weakness in the first place, she might have been a different girl.

"5 and 10" Fire Routs Crowds

Fifth avenue and Diamond street were jammed with spectators, when fire was discovered in the kitchen of the J. G. McCrory Five and Ten Cent store, 342-48 Fifth avenue, shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Grease in the kitchen ignited, according to August Anton, chef, and followed the draft's flue to the roof.

There was more excitement among the crowd on the streets than among the store patrons.

2 Bombers Held for Court

The dynamiting of the home of Tony Cuccarese in Stowe township yesterday was deemed a step nearer solution today when George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, filed charges of bombing against two suspects and arraigned them before Alderman George J. Anderson. They were held in $2,500 each for court trial.

The defendants are Ross Ficaria

SINGER'S SOUR NOTE BRINGS POLICE TO CHURCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—A discordant choir service at the Friendship Baptist Church (colored) here yesterday was to be echoed in police court today.

The trouble started when Deacon Thomas Chapman, leader of the choir, felled Brother Casey McGurck Jones, a baritone, with a blackjack after the latter had emitted an alleged sour note.

George Washington McGocock, a basso, thereupon tore the telephone from the wall and felled Deacon Chapman.

When police, led by Sergt. Patrick Mulrihill, reached the church they found the choir, grouped around two unconscious forms, singing "Throw Out the Life Line, Someone Is Sinking Today."

CREW OF 41 AT GALE'S MERCY

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The submarine S-3, sister ship of the ill-fated S-4, is missing somewhere in the Atlantic south of Cape Hatteras, the Navy Department announced today.

The S-3 left Hampton Roads Friday with the naval contingent going South for winter maneuvers at Guantanamo, and broke away from the control force during a heavy gale about sunset Saturday evening.

Nothing has been heard from her since, and the Atlantic is being combed by her sister submarines, the S-7, S-8, S-9, S-10, S-11, S-12, S-13 and other vessels.

"NO UNDUE ANXIETY"

Naval officials professed to feel no undue anxiety for the missing submarine, declaring it was not unusual for submersibles to become separated on long sea journeys. Nevertheless the failure of the S-3 to communicate with the convoy has caused some uneasiness.

Rear Admiral Brumby, who directed the salvage operations on the S-4, is aboard the U. S. Cruiser Camden directing the search for the S-3.

The S-3 carried a complement of four officers, four petty officers and 33 men.

The search for the missing submersible is being carried on both on the surface of the sea and from the air.

The new airplane carrier the U. S. S. Saratoga has joined in the search and is sending her planes

EARL DOUGLAS HAIG

Haig, War Leader, Dies

By International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Earl Douglas Haig, one of Britain's outstanding military commanders, is dead.

Haig's death occurred last night, but news of it was not made public until early today.

Haig collapsed while he was undressing last night, and death followed shortly from heart failure.

His death has caused a sensation throughout Britain, due to its suddenness.

It was remembered that only last Saturday he attended a Boy Scouts' rally at Richmond and at that time appeared in excellent health.

Death came to Earl Haig at the Princes Gate residence of his brother-in-law, W. G. Jameson.

Fannie Hurst, famous novelist, who is writing of the Pittsburgh district mines and miners for The Sun-Telegraph, visited many mining communities in her search for material for her stories. She is shown above with James Dinsdale, a union leader at Moon Run, who is pointing out the camp of the strike-breakers. "They've taken our homes and our jobs. We are living in barracks," Dinsdale told Miss Hurst.

OPERATOR URGES MINE PROBE BY CONGRESS

"The worst thing that could happen to the coal miners of Western Pennsylvania would be for the operators to renew the Jacksonville wage scale of $7.50 a day," said R. Templeton Smith, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the Lawler Gas Coal Company, Ontario Gas Coal Company and Poland Coal Company, in an address before the Hungry Club at the Fort Pitt Hotel today, "for it would immediately result in the suspension of all mines."

Smith argued that the companies virtually would be committing suicide if they paid the wages demanded by the striking miners, because, he said, they could not sell coal at a profit and would be forced into bankruptcy.

The English room of the Fort Pitt, where the meeting was held, was jammed with people. Standing room was at a premium. The attendance was estimated at 500 and included many of the prominent business and professional men of Pittsburgh, coal operators and high officials of the United Mine Workers of America, including Patrick T. Fagan, of District

ONCE HELD AS INSANE, MOTHER OF 'FOX' ADMITS

Blackhand Suspects Caught

SPURNED SUITOR KILLS GIRL IN SIGHT OF FAMILY

BOMBED

Threatened by two alleged agents of the Black Hand society Saturday, James Cuccarese, 68, of 51 Fraser street, Stowe township, and his two sons, Tony and Nick, stood on guard at the windows of their home and when, early Sunday morning, two men attempted to bomb the house they were routed by buckshot, chased and captured. The bomb exploded, damaging the house.

TONY CUCCARESE

ON GUARD

Tony Cuccarese who waited until the two men, who said they were Ross Ficaria, of 73 McKinney avenue, and Tony Rugara, of 107 Highland avenue, Stowe township, had placed the bomb on the porch, before he opened fire. The dynamite exploded as he descended the stairs.

On guard in the rear of the house were James and Nick Cuccarese. The agents were captured by the men after a chase of several blocks. The house was damaged to the extent of $300. Cuccarese said the men demanded $2,000. Cuccarese received a similar threat two years ago

PORCH WRECKED

The charge was placed under the porch and lighted by one of the blackmailers, while the other stood on guard at the gate with a shotgun. The bomb exploded a few seconds after the wick was lighted. Windows in the Cuccarese home and adjacent houses were shattered. The men, uninjured by the several shots fired at them, are in the county jail.

MOTHER TO SAY "FOX" INSANE

By ARTHUR L. MAREK
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 30.—Awaiting its cue to tread the boards, the specter of insanity stood in the wings today as the scene was set for the second act of the Marian Parker court drama.

Witnesses, depositions and musty records to show that William Edward Hickman was crazy when he stole and slew little Marian Parker were assembled off stage as the curtain was ready to lift for a second time on the kidnaping and murder trial.

Defense attorneys announced they were prepared to trace a strain of hereditary insanity back through three generations of the Hickman family in an effort to save the confessed kidnaper-killer from the gallows.

A deposition, showing that Hickman's grandmother, now dead, was insane, is in possession of the defense, Jerome Walsh, the youth's chief counsel, disclosed. The affidavit was obtained at West Hartfort, Ark., where the grandmother lived.

Hickman's mother, Mrs. Eva M. Hickman, who came here from Kansas City to aid in defending her son, is ready to testify that she was once confined in a hospital for the insane, according to defense attorneys.

Boyhood friends and former schoolmates of Hickman have sworn that they noticed in his actions in earlier years, the outcropping of insanity. Their testimony has been obtained in depositions taken in Arkansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

The first of these witnesses by proxy is Donald Johnson, former Kansas City High School student. His deposition heads a list of 27 typewritten documents to be read to the jury which must decide the question of Hickman's sanity, the sole issue at stake in the trial.

Three women and nine men sat in the jury box last Friday when the trial was adjourned until this morning.

POLICE SCENT ROMANCE

JOHN M. WILL MRS. ELSIE MITCHELL

Mrs. Elsie Mitchell and John M. Will, who deserted their partners in Akron's younger married set at the same time, are said police of the Ohio city to have eloped together. They are being hunted in Pittsburgh by the police missing persons bureau.

Convict 2 In Arson Plot

Harry Frank of Webster avenue, and Meyer Letwin of Harvard street, alleged members of a nation-wide arson ring, were convicted on six charges of conspiracy and one charge each of arson and attempt to burn a building to defraud an insurance company, in a sealed verdict opened today in Criminal Court.

The verdict was reached Saturday evening about 7 o'clock after five hours' deliberation by a jury selected last Tuesday to try the charges after a jury on December 18 was discharged for failure to reach an agreement on the same charges. The latest trial was preceded by an unusual proceeding, trial of a plea of former acquittal because of the allegations of the defense that discharge of the former jury on a Sunday morning, without a sitting judge or court clerk, constituted an acquittal, which was denied by visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Kittanning, who sat during both trials. A motion for a new trial will be made, according to defense counsel, Attorneys William H. Coleman and Louis Little. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, assisted by Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, conducted the prosecution.

Frank and Letwin were accused of conspiring to burn the millinery store of Mrs. Carrie M. Deverts on East Ohio street and the rooming house of Miss Mabel Yocum on Pressley street, both on the North Side.

Samuel Friedman, of Beechwood boulevard, and Simon Rosenthal, of Arthur street, indicted on the charges with Frank and Letwin, entered pleas of guilty at the former trial and were state witnesses.

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC ONLY

Most of the main roads were opened at least to one-way traffic this morning. This accomplished, highways crews with snow plows went about the task of opening parallel lines.

Counties most seriously affected by the snowstorm, the worst in Central and Eastern Pennsylvania this winter, were Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Lancaster, Lebanon, Montgomery and York.

A number of electric traction lines reported interference with schedules. Reports indicated they suffered more than steam lines.

FIRST COLD CASUALTY

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—The first casualty of the cold wave in this region was Joseph Lutz, 60, of Lavelle, near here, who was in the Ashland State Hospital, expected to die from exposure.

Extremely low temperatures followed the snowstorm here.

STATE POLICE CALLED TO RUSSELLTON

State police were called into Russellton this morning at the request of Sheriff Robert H. Braun on behalf of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, whose properties are guarded by coal and iron police wearing deputy sheriff badges.

The action, it is believed, is an indication that plans are underway to open the mines with non-union labor, and the strikers at both No. 1 and No. 2 camps at Russellton are in a state of excitement over the rumors.

First indications of the company's rumored intentions came last week when union leaders say efforts were made to recruit miners from the ranks of the strikers. An alleged agent of the company was beaten by several union men as he approached the home of a former union man at Superior. Four union men were arrested, including John Szrodnick, president of the local.

On the heels of this outbreak, more coal and iron police were placed by the Republic company and a detail of deputies was stationed at an outpost along the public highway between mines No. 1 and No. 2.

Dissension has crept into the ranks of the union during the last week and the strikers have taken sides against each other in the matter of food distribution.

Certain factions among the strikers complain of discrimination in the matter of relief distribution. They say that families who have no immediate need for relief are getting it and more deserving families are not receiving help. Officers of the local union and the ladies' auxiliary have been in charge of the relief and it is these against whom the accusations are being made.

RETAIN PASTOR, BOARD FIRED

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 30.—A congregational meeting lasting until the early hours of the morning voted to retain the Rev. Joel Lee Jones, pastor of the Central Christian Church, whose resignation had been asked by the official board of the church. The vote was 249 to 137.

Financial policies are said to have led to a rupture between the board and the Rev. Jones, active in the recent ousting of the Rev. Andrew G. Lemke, "sprinkling pastor" of the Tower Hill Christian Church.

Eight members of the church board, among them M. M. Cochran, millionaire business man, announced their resignations at last night's meeting and that they would not reconsider their action notwithstanding a congregational vote not to accept the resignations.

The congregational session convened following the Sunday night preaching services. From 9 o'clock until after midnight the discussion waxed warm. Finally the vote on retention of the pastor was taken over the wishes of the deacons and trustees.

Another congregational meeting likely will be held next week. The Rev. Jones today declined to discuss the situation.

Drag Pond For Smith Heiress

By International News Service.

NORTHAMPTON, Jan. 30.—State detectives attempting to solve the mysterious disappearance of Miss Frances St. John Smith today interviewed Miss Joy Kimball, the missing girl's chum, and student at Milton Academy, where the missing Smith College freshman was a student last year.

Meanwhile, other detectives searched Paradise Pond, near the college campus, and watched rivers in the vicinity.

Brig. Gen. Alfred F. Foote, state commissioner of public safety, called together several state investigators for a conference at his office in the State House, Boston.

At the same time other detectives were searching in restaurants and motion picture theaters on the chance that Miss Smith may be trying to make her way alone by taking a position as a piano player. She was a talented musician.

As for Miss Kimball, she had been questioned before, yet she might furnish more information, detectives thought.

The detectives are centering their investigation on two theories—suicide or amnesia. They are checking up every available incident of the missing girl's school life to discover if the criticism of her law scholastic standing was the only thing that harassed the "poor little rich girl." Today the detectives began at Milton Academy with Miss Kimball. It was at Milton Academy, where Miss Smith was an honor student, that she wrote a thesis entitled "Unalloyed Bliss," in which she expressed a desire to run away, an almost uncontrollable impulse.

The only reason that she did not do so, she wrote, was because there was no indisputable reason for so doing, and there was also the possibility that there might be some measure of regret and fear, alloying the happiness of flight.

LOST IN SEVERE GALE

The gale which blew up the Atlantic coast Saturday afternoon and night was one of the most severe of the winter. It lashed the sea to mountainous waves, and it was during the height of the gale, which was accompanied by rain and snow, that the S-3 became separated.

Naval officials admitted it was possible that the vessel might have suffered injuries to her motor equipment. The most mystifying aspect of the disappearance, however, is her failure to communicate with either the ships or shore stations. The only explanation advanced for this silence is that her radio apparatus may have been disabled.

THINK RADIO WRECKED

The S-3 carried only one radio set, which could be operated either from the storage batteries or from the main generator.

Submarine experts at the Navy Department declared that in all probability the storm had carried away the antennae from the S-3, and that it would be impossible to rig up an emergency antennae while the sea was rough. Most Navy officials expressed the view that this accounted for the nearly 48-hour silence of the S-3.

SPURNED MINER KILLS GIRL IN HER HOME

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Jan. 30.—(Special.)—Because she spurned a suitor, Miss Emma McTigue, 22, of Van Voorhis, was slain in her home yesterday as members of her family looked on. Pat McTigue, 18, her brother was wounded slightly by one of the bullets meant for her.

John Pop, 40, Russian coal miner, who is said to have become enraged when Miss McTigue turned a deaf ear to his marriage proposals is in county jail here. He made no attempt to escape following the shooting which occurred after he had followed Miss McTigue from the porch of her home into the kitchen.

Miss McTigue reeled and fell to the floor dead as the second shot struck her in the head. The first had struck her brother. Two other bullets were fired into Miss McTigue's body before the enraged Russian was overpowered.

PROBE URGED BY OPERATOR

No. 5, and ex-President John Brophy, of District No. 2.

DEMANDS PROBE

Smith came out squarely for a Congressional inquiry into the situation.

"What this coal industry really needs," he said, "is a thorough-going investigation by the United States Senate with a committee of Senators who have no political axes to grind and a fearless chairman of the type of Jim Reed. It ought to be a committee that would get everybody down there and put them through their paces, operators, mine union leaders and anybody who knows anything about the coal business. You want a chairman who will make everybody tell the whole story and you want a reporter who will get the truth into the newspapers."

Smith declared the coal industry in Western Pennsylvania was in bad condition because it was unable to meet the competition of the non-union fields of Southern West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky.

He went at length into the subject of freight rates to the Great Lakes and the Northwest, as well as to tidewater. He exhibited charts showing that the Western Pennsylvania operators have been discriminated against by the Interstate Commerce Commission in favor of the southern fields. He mentioned incidentally that a hearing on the subject is to be held at Washington Wednesday. Smith appealed for greater public support for the operators in their fight for fair rates. At a previous hearing, he said, 150 citizens of West Virginia were present, while only three from Pittsburgh were at hand.

and Tony Rugara, of Stowe township. They are accused of dynamiting the Cuccarese home after having failed in an attempt to extort $2,000 from Cuccarese.

County detectives describe the case as "more of that Mafia stuff."

Cuccarese and his two grown sons told detectives the two prisoners had paid him a visit Saturday with a serious request for $2,000 and a threat or two when the money was not forthcoming.

Cuccarese and his sons, Tony, 48, and Mike, 28, lay in wait early yesterday. Their patience was rewarded when they saw two men approach the house and place a bomb under the front porch.

From the second-story windows the Cuccarese boys opened fire, while the father rushed downstairs to snatch away the bomb. It exploded before he reached the porch and while the bombers were fleeing ahead of a barrage of lead. No one was injured, but the porch and part of the house front were wrecked.

Detectives arrested Ficaria and Rugara at their homes and said they found three sticks of dynamite at Rugara's place.

KIDNAP-BANDITS LOOT BANK

THE DAILY PICTORIAL
THE SUN-TELEGRAPH
GENERAL NEWS SECTION
MONDAY, JANUARY 30, 1928

$35,000 IN CASH TAKEN

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The "kidnaping" system of bank robbery, used for the third time within a month in Chicago, today netted its practitioners $35,000. James Dillon, a teller of the Industrial State Bank of Chicago, told police that he was held a prisoner in the bank all night while his four captors waited for the time lock in the bank vault to open at 7 a. m. The quartet escaped after looting the vault, leaving the cashier bound and gagged in the bank.

Dillon, 26 years old, said he was kidnaped while returning from church at noon yesterday by two men who forced him into an automobile, threatening to shoot him if he made an outcry. He said he was taken to a small garage and kept for six hours, then was forced to call his landlady and inform her that he would be out for the evening playing cards, after which he was taken to an apartment and finally to the bank, which he was forced to open at 6:30 o'clock last night.

OVERPOWER PORTER

He was taken inside and a Negro porter was seized, the robbers standing watch over the couple until the time lock was released. The robbers bound their victims before leaving, but Dillon crawled to a telephone and knocked the receiver from the hook, which resulted in the police being notified.

It was the third such robbery here in the past month, eight robbers by a similar ruse obtained more than $80,000 from the Ravenswood National Bank. Last week men believed to be the same robbers obtained several thousand dollars after kidnaping the president of a small West Side bank.

Condemned Dog Will Go Into Vaudeville

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 30.—(INS.)—"Kaiser Bill" is going into vaudeville.

Not the graying old gentleman from Berlin and Doorn, but a three-year-old German police dog who was recently condemned to death after he had been found guilty of sheep killing. "Kaiser Bill's master, Henry Gay, who is fighting the decree of the Fayette county courts, expects the earnings of the theatrical tour will enable him to carry the fight into the State Supreme Court, and the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

Present arrangements are for "Kaiser Bill" to appear on the stage with his master, Henry Gay, and the latter's three-year-old daughter, Ann Gay, intends to tell the history of "Kaiser Bill's" court fight.

CHICKEN-THEFT RING BROKEN, NAB 5 BOYS

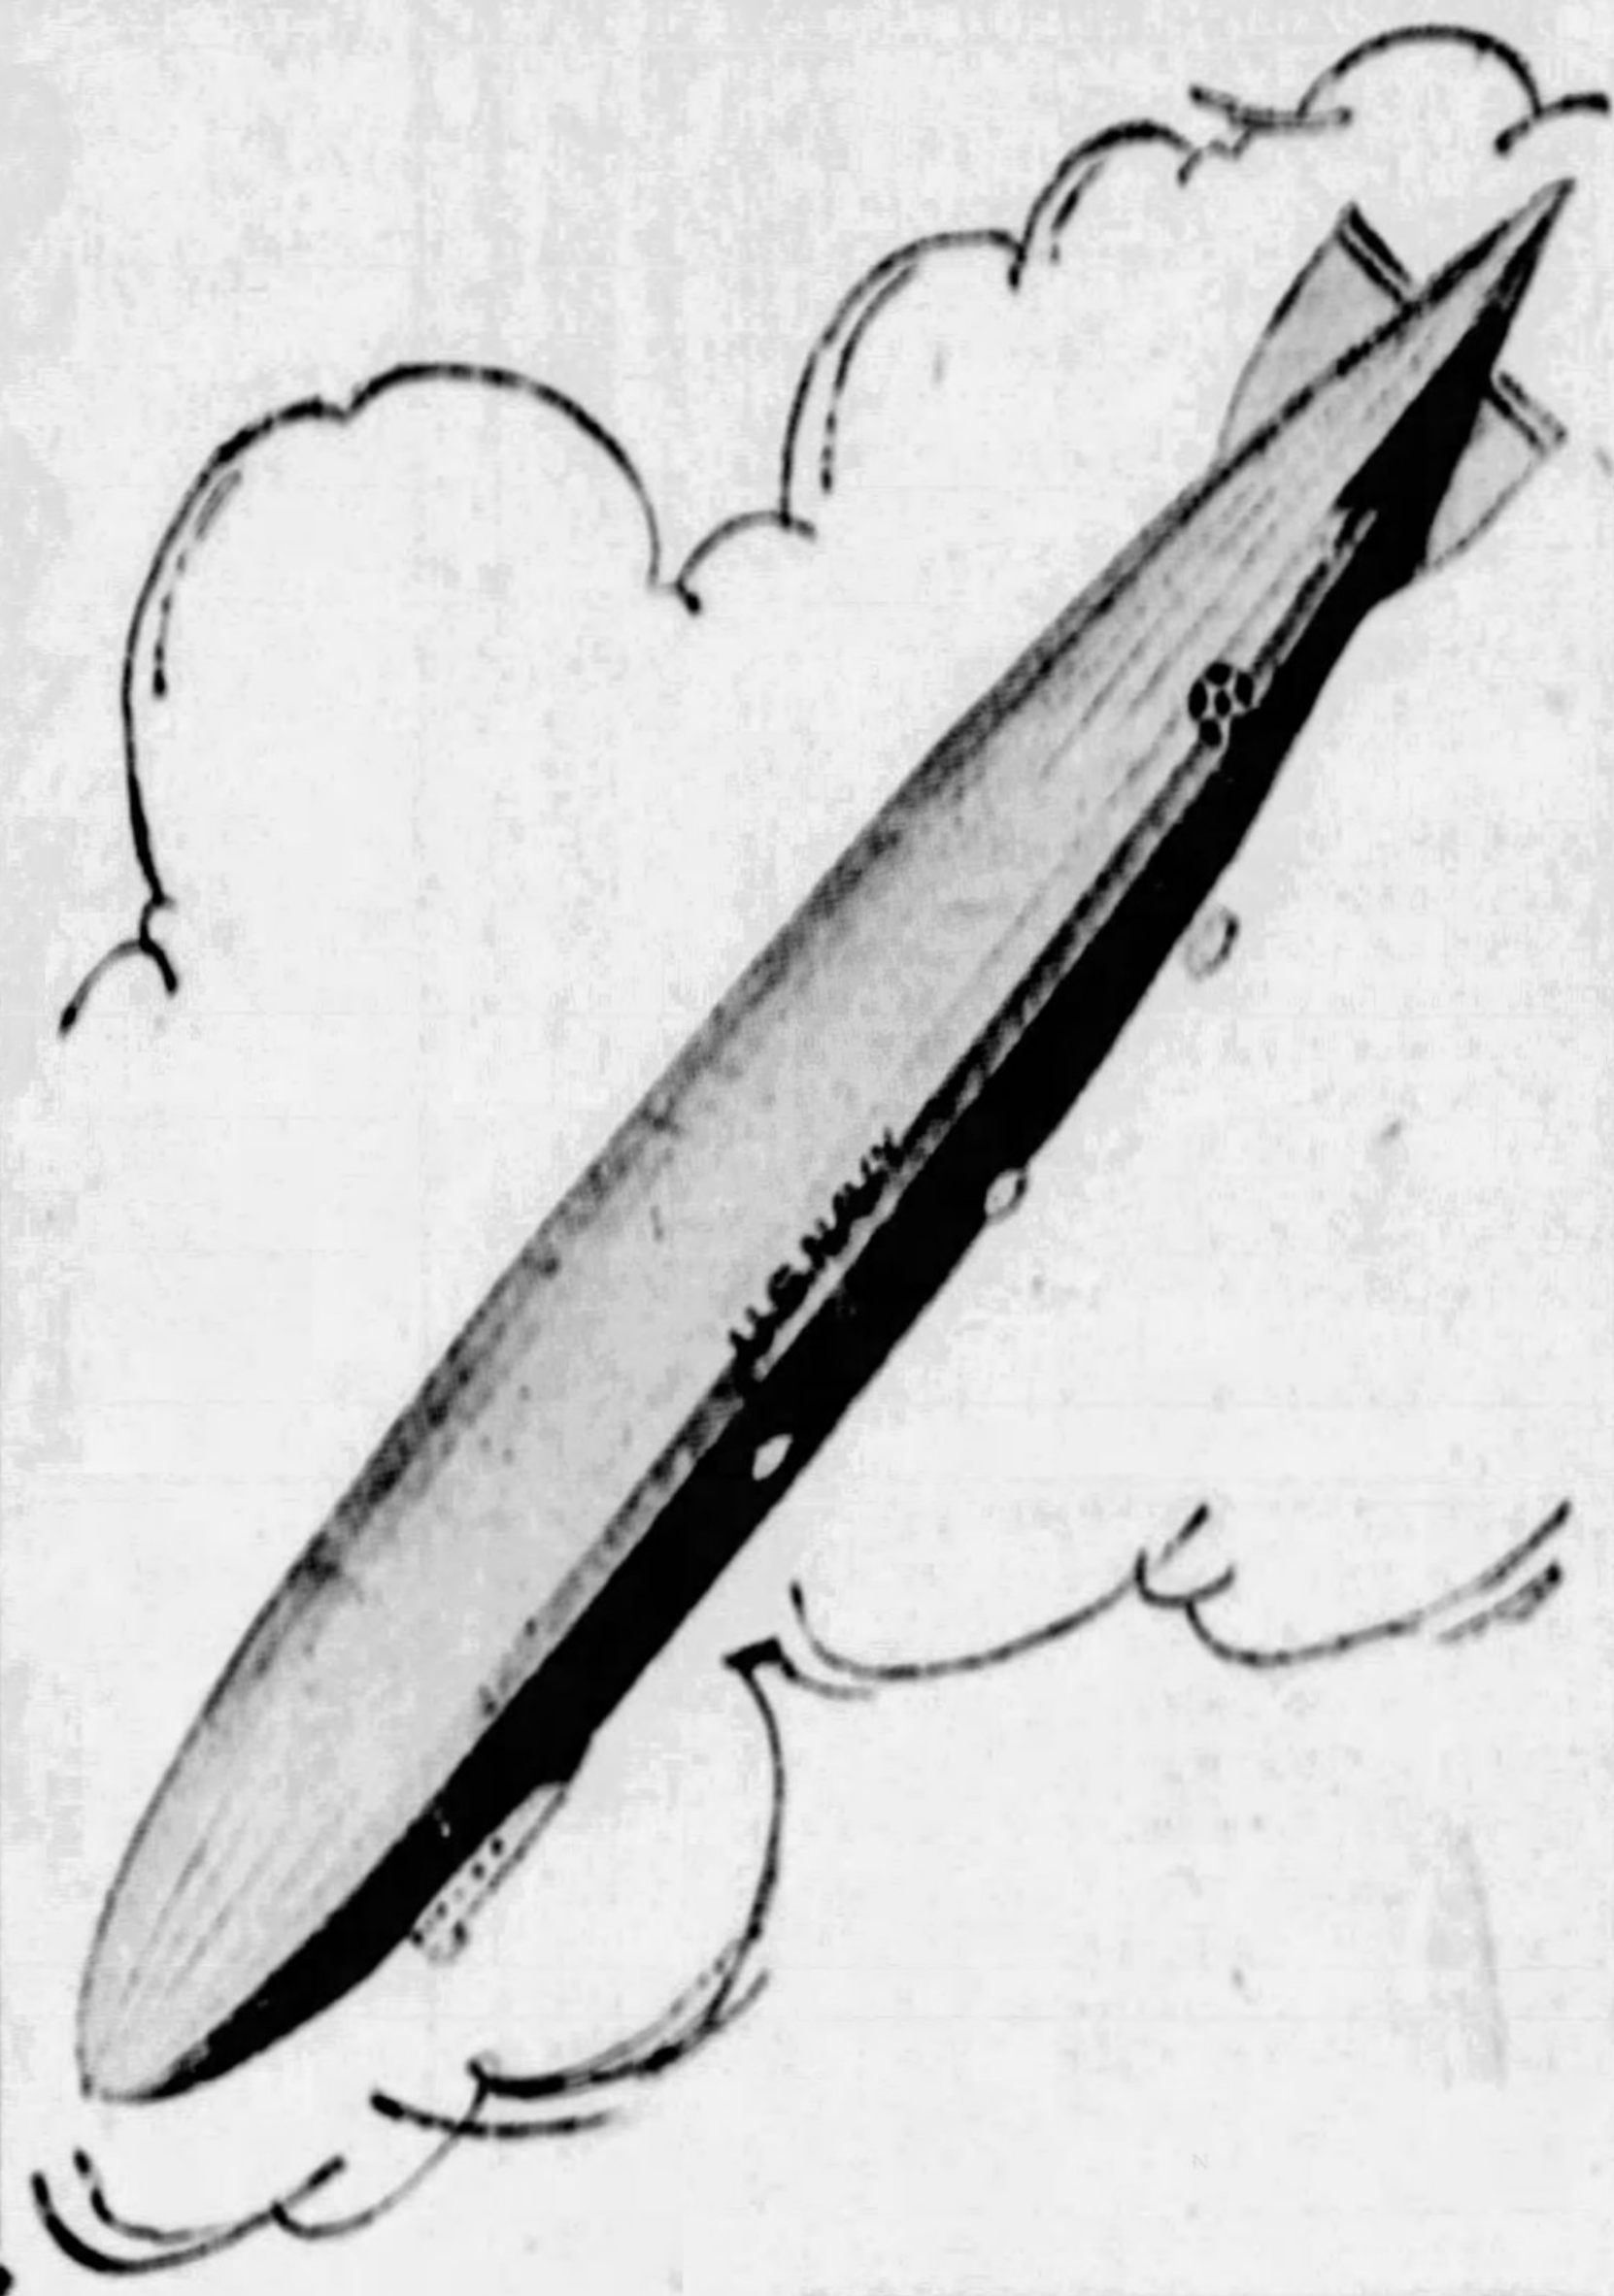
GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 30.—County detectives announced today that they had broken up what they described as a ring of chicken thieves, to say nothing of turkeys, with the arrest of five boys. According to the sleuths, the boys, Negro, stole chickens and turkeys in the Frick coke region and sold them to Perry Bell, 42, Negro, who was arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods.

MINE TOWN SCENE OF RAIDS

Acting on complaints of officials of miners' unions that bootlegging flourished in some of the non-union mining quarters here, prohibition agents Saturday night raided three houses said to be in the quarters of non-union employes of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's Montour Mine No. 10 at Library, and arrested three alleged proprietors. Eight other houses were visited by the raiders who say that the proprietors had been "tipped off."

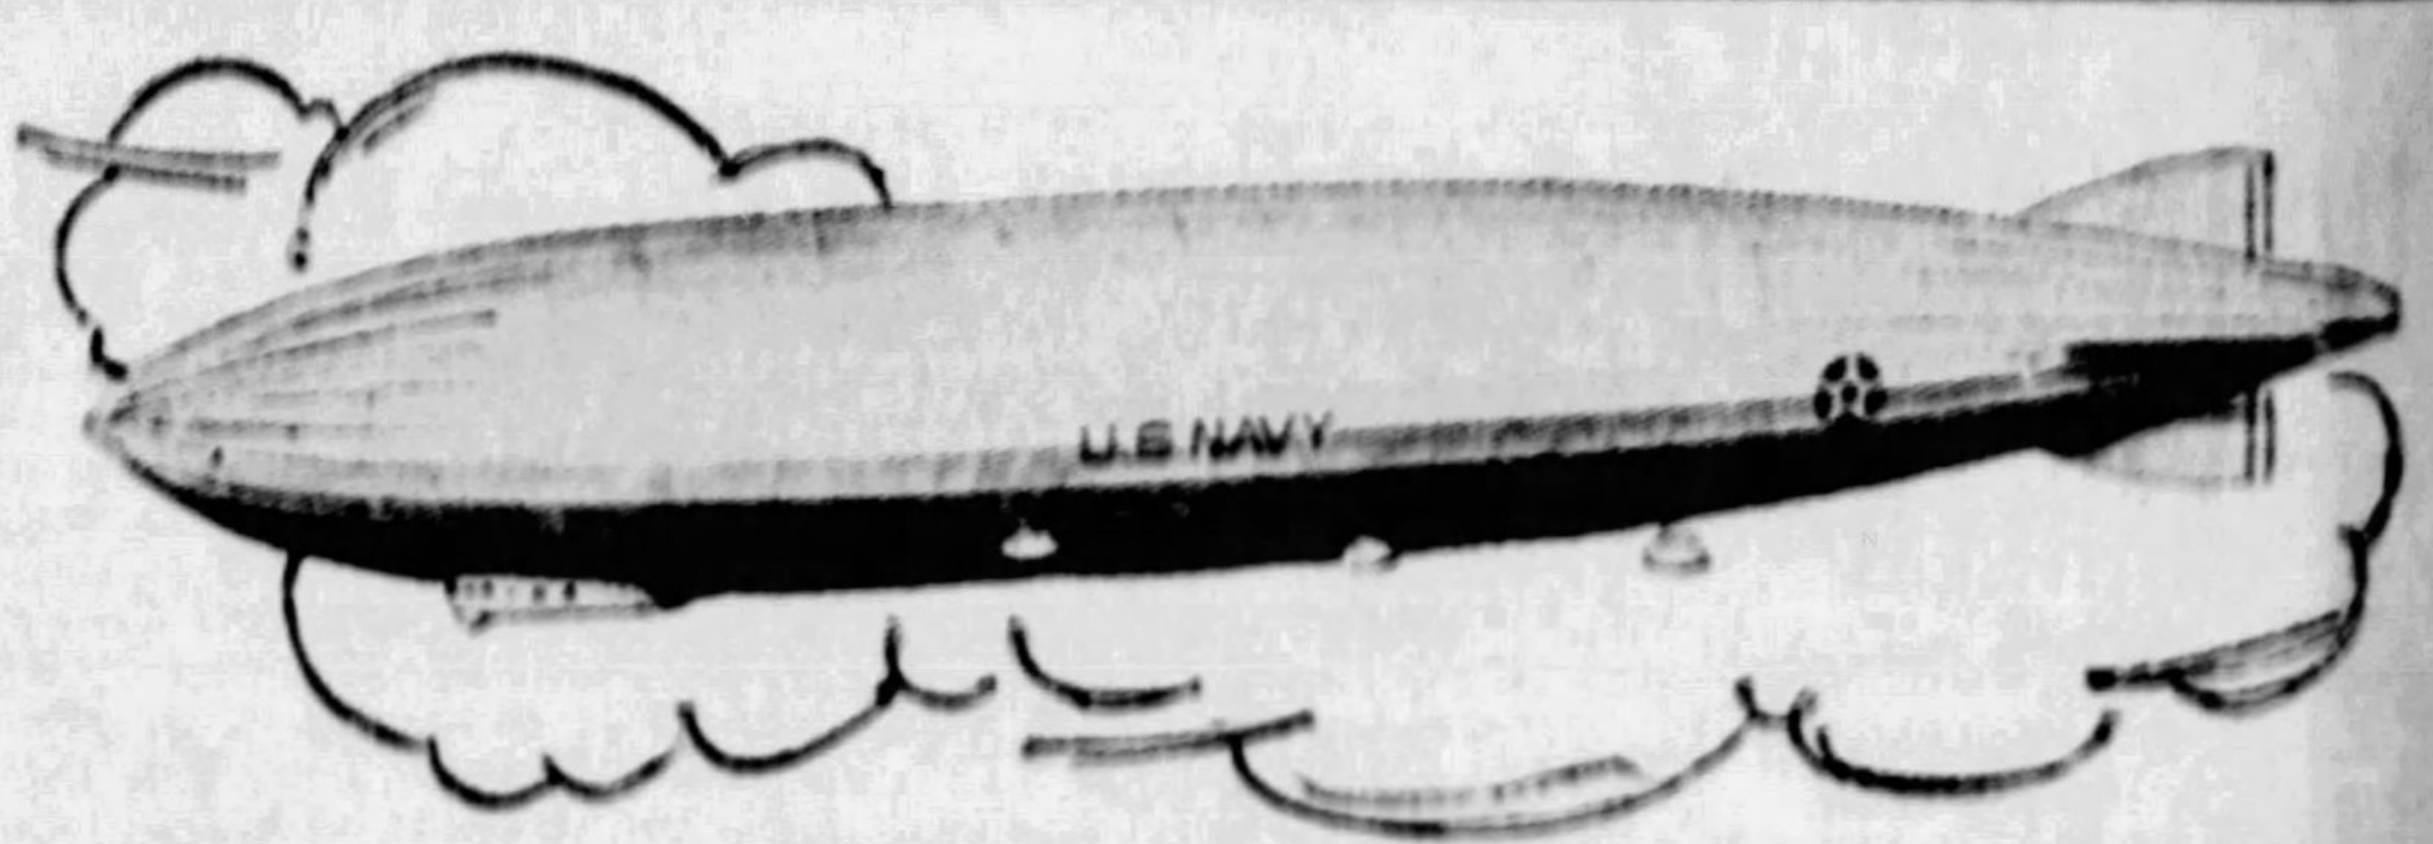
Those arrested were Martin Povolich, Raymond Smith and Salvador Buttice. They were lodged in the county jail in default of bonds of $250 each, and will be given a hearing Wednesday night before Justice J. M. O'Rourke of Broughton. Several constables assisted the dry agents in making the raids.

A rectifying plant in Penn avenue was raided Saturday night by prohibition agents, who reported seizing 500 gallons of alcohol, 22 barrels of whisky barrel chips and four barrels of liquor.



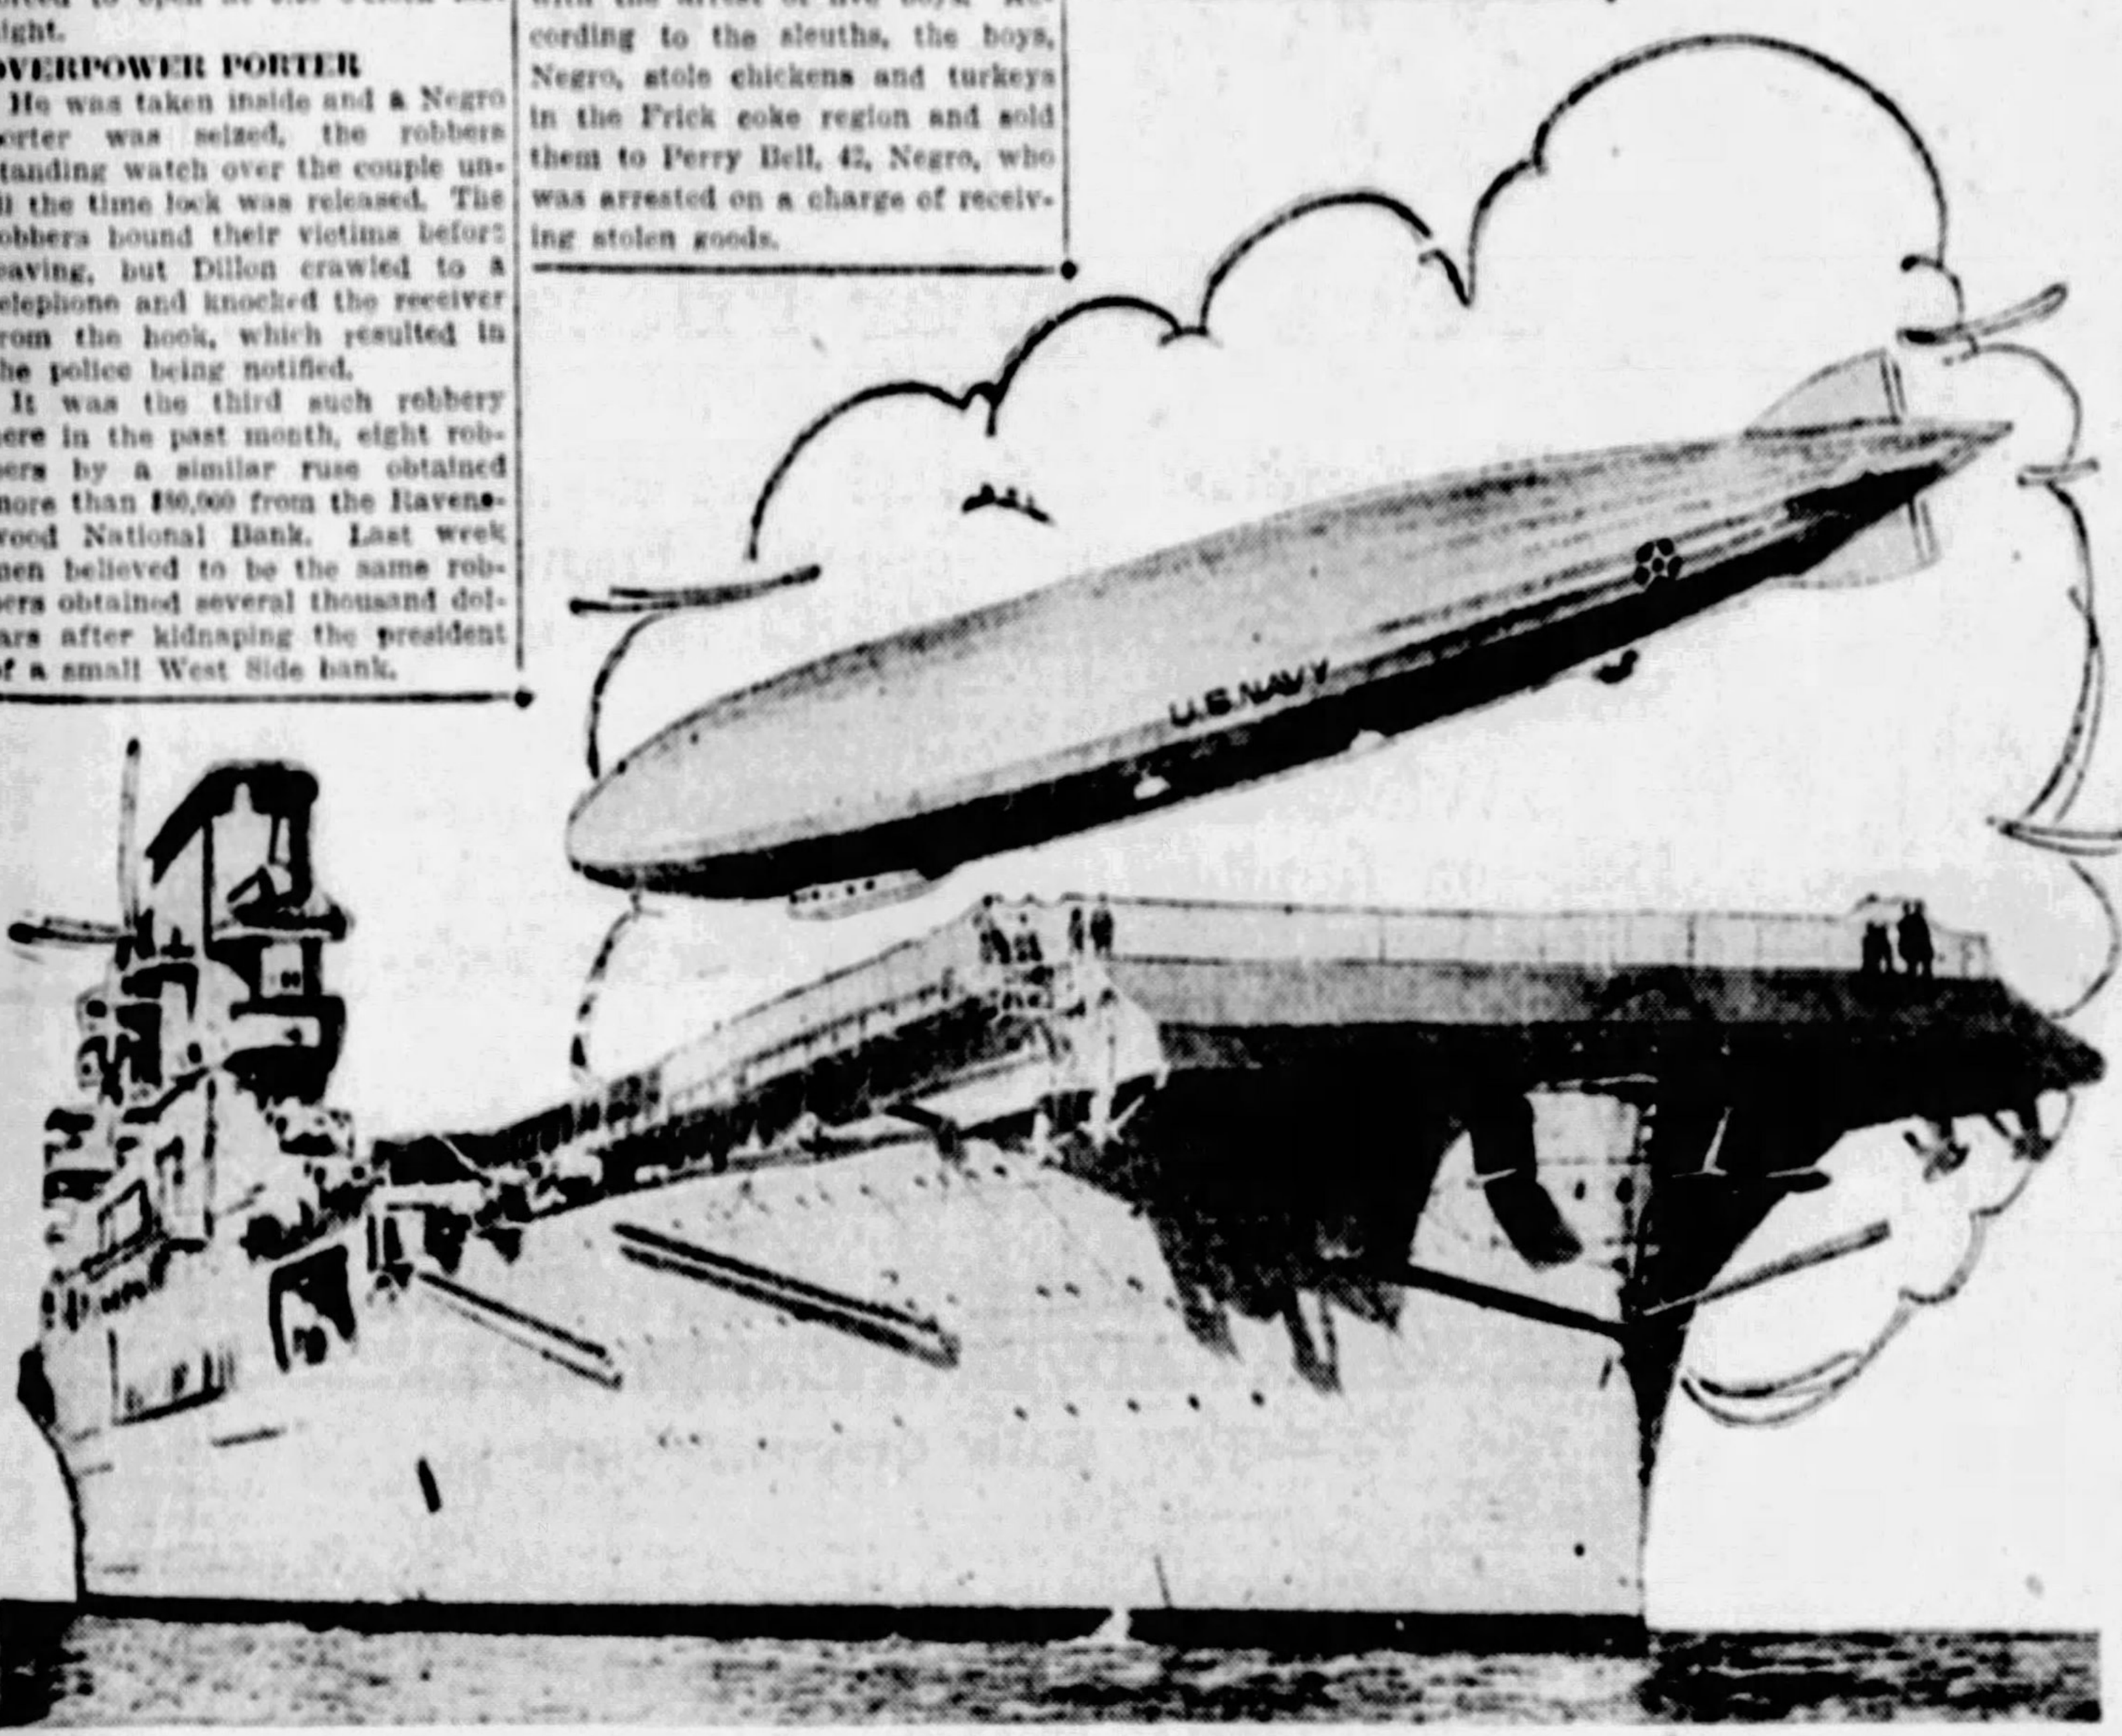
"LOS ANGELES" LANDS ON DECK OF AIRPLANE CARRIER AT SEA

Feat of "Blimp" First in Aviation History



SETS NEW RECORD

For the first time in the history of aviation a "blimp" landed on the deck of a vessel at sea. The giant Los Angeles, pride of the United States Navy, alighted on the deck of and moored fast to the airplane carrier Saratoga while the latter was making between 20 and 30 knots an hour off Newport, R. I.



TEST SUCCESSFUL

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, although non-committal, obviously was pleased with the results. He kept his ship moored to the Saratoga until satisfied the test was a success and then cast off, returning to Lakehurst hangars. The Los Angeles nosed down to the Saratoga, was made fast with its bow to the carrier's midship and then hauled into trailing position by ropes, the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics at Washington announced. The Los Angeles measures 680 feet over all to the Saratoga's 880.

PREACHER AND GIRL MISSING

By International News Service.

PATERSON, N. J., Jan. 30.—Mystery today surrounds the almost simultaneous disappearances of the Rev. Luther Latham Holmes, 43, former pastor of the First Baptist Church here, and Miss Katherine De Brulye, 20, former choir singer in the same church.

Holmes came here from Boston in 1926. He was asked to resign from the First Baptist Church in May, 1927. At that time it was said his resignation followed charges of inefficiency but other rumors of a different nature were current. He dropped from sight Thursday, leaving his wife behind him, penniless, police said. She is now en route for Boston to stay with relatives. Holmes is being sought by the police on a charge of desertion.

The girl was last seen when she left a silk mill here where she was employed late Thursday afternoon. Her parents, who live in Fairlawn, N. J., have asked the police to search for her.

At the time Holmes was asked to resign from the First Baptist Church the girl left the congregation also and both joined the Broadway Baptist Church here although not in an official capacity.

On the night of the girl's disappearance, her mother received a typewritten note which was unsigned and which stated that her daughter had gone away and that all efforts to trace her would be useless, she told reporters today.

The minister's wife received a somewhat similar note, also typewritten and unsigned, stating that her husband had been called out of town suddenly. No mention of the girl was made in this note.

Mrs. Holmes immediately entered a charge of desertion against her husband and then notified her parents in Boston that she was returning home.

Local police admitted today that they had no clues as to the whereabouts of either the girl or the minister.

Pistol Ace Of Force Held

Clurg Shelton, crack pistol shot of the Pittsburgh police force, was held for court on charges of pointing and discharging firearms by Magistrate George H. England in Central Police Court today.

Shelton exhibited his talent early Saturday morning in the Pittsburgh Parking Garage at Fifth and Sixth avenues, much to the surprise and consternation of garage attendants, witnesses testified. It was told that Shelton had just returned from a shooting contest at Greensburg and fired one or two shots that impelled Albert Gettel, garage attendant, to drop unharmed to the floor.

Shelton already was under suspension by Traffic Inspector Ben. R. Marshall. Detective Guy Daley, who accompanied Shelton to Greensburg, was exonerated at the hearing.

LIFT FAKE DRY AGENT'S PAROLE

Prison sentence again faces Robert ("Red") Crystal, Turtle Creek saloonkeeper, convicted in Federal Court May 13, 1927, of charges growing out of alleged "shaking down" of bootleggers under guise of a prohibition officer. In United States Court today, Judge W. H. S. Thomson handed down an opinion and signed an order vacating the order of court May 16, 1927, granting Crystal probation for three years, following his sentence to serve 14 months in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta.

In the opinion, it was held that the court had erred in granting a parole while the defendant's appeal for a new trial was awaiting action by the Circuit Court.

PURITAN MAN DEAD 2 DAYS; BODY FROZEN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 30.—Believed to have died from a heart attack, Anthony Pelchar, 66, of Puritan, today was found frozen stiff sitting in his bed. He is believed to have been dead two days.

ARREST GIRL IN CLOTHES THEFT

"Just blame it all on me," 12-year-old Frances Pazucsko, under arrest at the Munhall police station, told officers today when they began an investigation of the discovery of several hundred dollars worth of women's apparel, said to have been stolen, at the girl's home.

Frances was arrested early today after, police say, she and a sister, Margaret, 12, and a brother, Michael, 10, had taken clothing from the home of G. B. Osborne, 2015 West street, Munhall. The three had been invited into the Osborne home to get warm, and after leaving are said to have re-entered through a window.

2 Children Burned to Death

By International News Service.

BRADFORD, Pa., Jan. 30.—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Parkhurst, this city, 5 and 6 years of age, were cremated today when fire started from an overheated stove destroyed the Parkhurst home at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Parkhurst was severely burned when she tried to reach the children, trapped on the second floor of her home.

The fire was started on the second floor where the chimney from the kitchen stove on the floor below passed through the room in which the children were asleep.

The small charred bodies were found under the bed. It was believed they had suffocated to death, before the fire reached them.

Mrs. Parkhurst was reported in a critical condition at the hospital here.

Slugger Beats Woman

Battling with an intruder who attempted to overpower her in her home last midnight, Mrs. Charles Minagot, of 7331 Butler street, was fighting a losing battle when her husband attracted by her screams came to her rescue.

Mrs. Minagot was struck on the head and the side of the face and knocked to the floor before her husband, who was in another part of the house, heard her cries for help.

Gas Fumes Put 5 "To Sleep"

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Jan. 30.—Five persons were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from a new oven in the Ekert bakery.

The victims all lived on the second floor, above the bakery. When Mrs. William Newton staggered through a corridor and collapsed in front of a neighbor's door, friends, investigating, found Mrs. Newton and two sons, Paul and Robert, semi-conscious in their apartment, and George Ekert, baker, overcome in the bakery. At Ellwood City Hospital it was said none of the victims was in serious condition.

Dr. Eisenberg suffered a broken kneecap and bruises.

DEATH CLOSES DISTINGUISHED CAREER

The house is adjacent to the new American embassy building.

Members of the family were deeply shocked by the suddenness of the earl's death, remarking that all day yesterday he was in a bright and cheery mood.

Earl Haig was 66 years old. He achieved great renown during the World War, through which he served successfully as commander of the first army in 1914 to 1915 and commander-in-chief of the expeditionary forces in France and Flanders from 1915 to 1919.

In 1919 he was appointed field marshal and commander-in-chief of the forces in Great Britain. He held this post until the following year.

For his services during the war Earl Haig was cited many times and received decorations from several other governments besides his own.

He is survived by Lady Haig and one son and three daughters.

By Associated Press.

The military achievements of Lord Douglas Haig consummated seven centuries of military service by the ancient and aristocratic family of Haig of Bemersyde, in Berwickshire. Like so many other clans they rose from the quarrels of Bruce and Baliol and once established they were represented whenever the history of Scotland was being made.

They reared their sons for the service of Bruce and his Stuart successors and when their country took on the obligations of union with their southern neighbors, the Haigs fought under Clive, Marlborough and Wellington. In more peaceful times they were distillers and as such the family fortune was made and increased through several centuries.

From the day he was born, June 19, 1861, the third and youngest son of John Haig, J. P., of Cameronbridge, Fifeshire, a military career was planned for Douglas Haig. His father, a member of one of the younger branches of the family, gave his sons a thorough academic education, a necessary part of the make-up of Her Majesty's officers of those days.

STARS IN DRAMATICS

Accordingly, young Haig went to exclusive Clifton and later read at Brasenose College, Oxford. His work there failed to attain for him any distinction beyond class dramatics and he left there in 1883 to enter the army staff college. Here he threw off the family traditions to the extent of entering the cavalry in preference to the infantry because of his fondness for riding and his belief that this branch of service offered greater chance for advancement.

He obtained a commission in the Seventh Hussars in 1885 and then settled down to the dull existence of an army officer awaiting war. In the ordinary course of events he had attained the rank of a captain in the Seventeenth Lancers when he was ordered to the Soudan to serve under Kitchener. He accompanid that officer to Khartum, his distinguished service winning for him the admiration and friendship of his commander. Capt. Haig's fortune changed with this friendship and from then onward his advancement was meteoric. He is said to have the record for rapidity of promotion in the cavalry.

For his service at Atbara and Khartum he was made a brevet-major. In the next war, the Boer War, under Gen. Sir John French, his successful commanding of several cavalry columns again won the praise of his commander and he was made a brevet-colonel and added to his store of medals.

These campaigns were a basis upon which the colonel was able to build a reputation as a strategist and leader. The friendship of Kitchener soon gave him the command of inspector-general of cavalry in India from 1903 to 1906 and he was gazetted as a major-general in 1904, just eight years after he had been a lieutenant of cavalry.

KNIGHTED IN 1911

He was knighted in 1911.

When the war started he was director of military training at the war office. He trained and sent the first contingent to France, but at the urgent request of Field-Marshal French, he was sent to France to command the First Army Corps.

It fell to Gen. Haig to command the English divisions at the first battle of the Marne and this he did with such skill that his work was singled out by Lord French in his report to the war office. For this service Haig was made a full general, and despite the fact that there were older and more experienced officers in the field he came to be recognized as the ablest of the English commanders.

His knowledge of the strategic importance of the cavalry and his faith in that branch of service caused him to use it more than most commanders in the great conflict were inclined to do. The retreats from Mons and Ypres covered by the cavalry have been known as the finest examples of military science produced in the war. This brought more commendation for the commander of the First Corps, and when on December 15, 1915, French was relieved of the supreme command of the English forces and raised to peerage, the nation in one loud acclaim welcomed the appointment of Haig to the command of his friend. After the appointment of Foch as generalissimo, Haig's service was so brilliant as to win his further renown.

NAMED FIELD MARSHAL

He had been appointed field marshal in 1917 for distinguished service and when he returned to England after the war the mantle of Wellington, by popular desires, was thrust upon his shoulders. In 1919 he was received by the king on relinquishing his command and retiring from the army, when his majesty raised him to the dignity of an earl. He was later called before Parliament, publicly thanked and voted a gift of $500,000.

A public subscription was taken and when a fund of $1,430,000 was raised the ancestral estates of Bemersyde were purchased and presented to him as a gift of the people. Before retiring to his estates he received the freedom of all the large English cities and was made chancellor of St. Andrews University.

In 1922 he accepted a directorship combine in Scotland, which at that time absorbed the distilling interests of the Haig family.

In most of his characteristics Lord Haig was typically the Scotchman. His reticence and natural aloftness caused him to be accused of a frigid personality but his silence was not the result of a lack of sympathy, his friends say—it was because he used words as he used men, sparingly but always with method.

Lord Haig married in 1905 the Hon. Dorothy Vivian, a daughter of Lord Vivian. They had four children.

MISTRIAL HALTS BALM SUIT

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The $100,000 damage suit of Anna Palmer Cochran against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Cochran, came to an abrupt end today when Judge I. G. Lazzelle declared a mistrial and dismissed the jury.

The court said that a story about the case, appearing in a Sunday newspaper, had been read by at least three of the jurors. He held that this story was prejudicial to the interests of the defendant and seemed to have been inspired by counsel for the plaintiff. He indicated he believed certain parts of the story came from counsel for the plaintiff, and he objected also to other news stories concerning rumors of a compromise.

Attorneys for the plaintiff denied they had inspired or were responsible for any part of the story.

The plaintiff in her suit claimed that the defendant had alienated the affections of her husband, William Cochran, son of the defendant, who had entered divorce proceedings at Reno, Nev. The Cochrans are well known throughout Western Pennsylvania.

Court attaches said the Cochran suit would not be retried at the present term.

SUSPECT HELD IN WINE PARTY SHOOTING

A wine party that Joseph DeLucca, 25, was giving in his home at 630 Whittier street early today was at its height when DeLucca asked to be excused. He was followed from the room by a guest, Joseph Ionadi, 26, of 2 Rapidan way, the others say.

In a few minutes DeLucca returned and calmly announced, "I've been shot." His guests laughed at what they thought was a joke, but when he persisted and showed a bullet wound in the right hip they rushed him to Pittsburgh Hospital.

Police came and arrested Ionadi. In Frankstown Avenue Police Court today he admitted ownership of a gun found in the house after he had denied it was his, but he protested that he hadn't shot his host. He was held pending developments in the condition of DeLucca, who is expected to recover.

The woman told authorities that she rose from a sick bed, obtained a pistol and shot and killed her mate, John Kasey, at their home near Eccles, Sunday.

Baltimore Tests Ban on Sunday Movies

BALTIMORE, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Accompanied by the hoots and jeers of nearly 2,000 prospective patrons to a Sunday night movie show, police last night arrested three persons, one of them a member of the Maryland Legislature, in Baltimore's attempt to test the Sunday blue laws.

John G. Callan, a member of the House of Delegates in the state Legislature from Baltimore, who is president of the Liberty Defense League, a second member of the league and a moving picture operator were arrested and released for a hearing today.

The crowd had gathered in the theater, and sponsors of the show attempted to outwit the letter of the law, which prohibits the selling of tickets, by selling programs for the show when police halted the performance.

JUDGE DREW WARNS JURORS AGAINST "GOSSIP"

TELLS PANEL NOT TO TALK ABOUT CASES

Jury tampering having been hinted at for several weeks, Judge James B. Drew today cautioned jurors not to discuss court cases with anyone.

"Many of you jurors probably were never in a courtroom before," said Judge Drew from the bench in Common Pleas Court, "and you should not discuss cases with anyone so as to keep your minds free and open. You are the judges in many cases. Avoid discussing with anyone proceedings involving the outcome of cases you may be called upon to hear and render verdicts."

It is reported that many persons loiter in the corridors of the City-County Building, where the Common Pleas Courts are situated, for the express purpose of getting the ears of jurors. It was also rumored today that several cases which were tried last week in which the jury was unable to agree caused considerable criticism.

Judge Drew did not refer to any of these matters in cautioning the new panel of jurors which reported today.

Against Law to Sell Rum on Sunday

Dan Raichek, 20, learned today in Allegheny Police Court that it was against the law to sell moonshine on Sunday.

Dan's saloon at 328 Preble avenue was raided on the Sabbath day and seven visitors, four gallons of moonshine and a slot machine taken by Lieut. John Jones' squad.

Magistrate John J. Sweeney assessed Dan $100 and discharged the visitors who assured the court they were in the saloon merely to keep warm.

Town Halls Studied

PITTSBURGHERS WANT ONE HERE

Sentiment toward the erection of a town hall in Pittsburgh will be crystallized at a dinner to be held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce at the William Penn Hotel, Monday, February 6. The hall pictured is at Springfield, Mass., and has an auditorium with a seating capacity of 4,000 and equipped with a $35,000 pipe organ. It is in constant demand for a wide variety of meetings and entertainments. The cost of erecting this and several other municipal buildings was taken care of by public bond issues.

CHARLIE STOOPED, OLD MAN NOW

By WILLIAM H. PARKER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 30.—Not so long ago Charlie Chaplan, the film comedian, used to be a spry young fellow with black curly hair and a ready smile. Now he is a little old man with drooping shoulders and more white hair than black.

The discovery was made by Hollywood friends of Chaplin last night when he made his first public appearance at Grauman's Chinese Theater, Hollywood, when a new Chaplin picture had its premiere showing. Chaplin, has been more or less in retirement since his recent domestic difficulties.

Chaplin walked slowly from the wings, rather wearily, as though life had placed a burden on his shoulders and bent them down. He said very little. The thought of the audience was not on what he said. It was on his changed appearance. Women and men looked again at the Chaplin photograph on the program and looked again at the stage where Chaplin, with obvious embarrassment, was saying he appreciated this great welcome.

"How old he looks?!"

This was the feminine comment in the audience.

"He's had a lot of trouble."

THIEVES GET WATCHES VALUED AT $200

Two gold watches, valued at $200, were stolen from the residence of John Healey, West Run road, West Homestead, last night, it was reported to County Detective Michael McDermott. Entrance was gained through a rear first-floor window.

STREET RAISING COST SET AT $547,000

The cost of raising the streets in the North Side flood section, west of Federal street, if the material is obtained by leveling Monument Hill, is estimated at $547,000 in a letter received by Council today from Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang. If the Monument Hill razing is abandoned and the contractor permitted to get material wherever he chooses the cost to the city will be reduced $63,000, the Director said.

An additional reduction of $65,000 will be possible if Hypolite and Corry streets are vacated in order to permit the construction of the river and railroad terminal planned by the Point Improvement Company and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, he said. The Director estimated at $29,530 the cost of raising area in the district used by the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

BUILT AIRPLANES FIRST

Henry Farman, Santos Dumont and Gabriel Voisin, three pioneer builders of airships, were outstanding heroes at anniversary dinner of France's Aero Club, held to celebrate the first scheduled flight made January 13, 1908. M. Painleve, French Minister of War, lauded the fliers.

MAN IS HURLED DOWN STAIRS, ARRESTED

Roused from sleep by his wife's call for help, City Fireman Frank Gribble, 30, leaped from bed on the second floor of his home, 515 Lockhart street, this afternoon, and sent a prospective roomer into a rib-fracturing tumble down the stairs.

Frank Cindrick, 45, of Harmarville, the object of Gribble's onset, landed at the bottom of the stairs with a probable fracture of two ribs, a cut on his nose that required four stitches to close, severe bruises of his head and shoulders and two black eyes. He is under arrest.

Cindrick had entered the Gribble home ostensibly to seek a room, police said. As Gribble's wife, Maud, was showing him a room on the second floor, she told police, the visitor made an improper proposal.

"Come quick, Frank!" called Mrs. Gribble.

Gribble did that very thing.

TWO SHOT, CALL IT MERE SQUABBLE

A shooting in the home of Vincent Magrino, 558 Wyola street, last night was only a clothesline fight, Magistrate A. D. Brandon was told in Morals Court today. But the magistrate didn't think it a petty affair, for he held eight participants for a hearing to be given when two wounded victims are able to leave hospitals.

Mrs. Marie Magrino testified that her husband recently had received Black Hand letters. So the stage was all set for a fight when Patrick Black, his brother, Joseph Black, both of 182 Wyola street, and George Coperelli, of 202 Merrimac street, entered the Magrino home and one of the party announced, "We are here to kill the whole Magrino connection."

The battle started. Lawrence Travaglino, roomer in the Magrino home, and Patrick Black both fell from gun fire. Others were beaten.

At the preliminary hearing today, Joseph Black said he had gone to the house to inform Travaglino that he would have to stop circulating stories about a sister, Mrs. Frances Sparrow.

The magistrate held Vincent Magrino, his wife, Marie, and their son, John Magrino; Ralph Quintier, 21; Guy Coperelli, Joseph Black and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sparrow.

The victims in the hospital are Travaglino and Patrick Black.

To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

All Druggists Make This Offer

Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You think perhaps you are suffocating.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

With this wonderful medicine you can overcome indigestion or dyspepsia, or any abnormal condition that keeps the stomach in constant rebellion and one bottle will prove it.

Over 6,000 bottles sold in one small New Jersey town in one year—and the best druggists the country over concede that its phenomenal sales are due to the fact that the most stubborn chronic cases are promptly conquered. Ask for Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a pleasant-to-take, health-building stomach elixir that regular pharmacists anywhere in America guarantee.

CROWDS HONOR LINDBERGH AT CARACAS

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Rested after his perilous 650-mile flight from Bogota, Colombia, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today was being honored by thousands of admiring residents of Caracas.

Col. Lindbergh arrived at Maracay Field, 50 miles from here, last evening, after being delayed for more than two hours when he was caught in a fog and storm over the Colombia-Venezuela border. Because of the fog, the young aviator was forced to change his course and approach Caracas from the north.

Meanwhile the thousands who had gathered at the field to welcome Col. Lindberg spent anxious hours scanning the skies for sight of his plane. Finally he was sighted and shortly afterward landed safely.

Bands played the American and Venezuelan national airs when Col. Lindbergh landed, and within a few minutes after climbing out of his plane, the flying colonel was decorated by President Gomez as Commander De La Orden Del Libertador.

The crowds who had waited for him went wild with joy when Col. Lindbergh landed, and thousands of automobiles formed a mighty procession to escort the young flier to Caracas.

SHIFT TACTICS IN BLUE LAW FIGHT

DOVER, O., Jan. 30.—Mayor P. J. Groh varied the monotony of having managers of three picture shows arrested yesterday for the operation of shows on the eighth successive Sunday by barring the Tunney-Dempsey fight film. Groh and Safety Director Earl A. Nist held that the fight picture was not suitable for Sunday exhibition. The managers of the three theaters will appear before Groh today for hearings.

ELKS TO STAGE MINER BENEFIT

Doing its bit to allay the striking miners' destitution, Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. Elks, tomorrow night will give a charity dance and vaudeville entertainment for the benefit of the sufferers. Sixty performers and 20 acts will comprise the all-star program.

The entertainment will be given in the Elks Temple, Seventh street and Duquesne way, will be open to the public and will have an admission charge of $1.00. The entire proceeds will be turned over to the suffering mine families.

On the program are Bill Hollins' Original Blue Ridge Orchestra, the Black Bottom Revue, Beau Arts Quartet, Eight Liberty Girls, Hearts, Flower and Hearts, the Hey-Hey Trio, Miss Virginia Watson, Miss Elinor Schad, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Virginia Whalen, Dick Ware, Moreette Sisters, Shaffer and Roberts, Miss Ester Rohm, Miss Nellie Dixon, Miss Patricia Cooper, Mansfield and Saunders, the Three Vagabonds, Miss R. Fairgraves' Revue, Juggling Cooper.

The committee in charge comprises John A. Freyvogle, exalted ruler; Joseph W. Brandner, William A. Hillgrove, A. W. Liebler, Monte Getz, Peter Dagnal, Fred Moyer, George J. Anderson, F. N. A. Riefer, L. Claire McLaughlin, Charles Bragg, George Walsh, Heber McDowell, A. H. Maass, Robert Hendel, Theodore Guenther and Henry Loud, club manager.

FIRE DESTROYS HIGH SCHOOL AT DENNISON

DENNISON, O., Jan. 30.—Dennison's 40-year-old high school building was destroyed and the entrance to the new $270,000 high school, now in course of erection, was damaged by fire yesterday. Fire started in the boiler room and caused $25,000 damage. The old building would have been abandoned June 1. The 340 students will have class rooms in other school buildings. All seats, books and fixtures were burned.

Delegates' Jobs Due to Revolts, Says Will

WILL ROGERS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 30.—Somebody at the Havana conference Saturday brought up the question of revolutions, what, when and how to treat 'em. The delegates want to vote to make revolutions unlawful. That is while they are in, but when they are out, have them declared legal again. It's rather embarrassing, for all the delegates are there by grace of a revolution at some time. Even Mr. Hughes. But he settled the argument in his usual tactful way, by announcing, "We are not here to deal in realities. What kind of a conference do you think this is?"

OHIO SHEET TIN PLANT CUTS WORKING HOURS

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Jan. 30.—Two hundred and fifty day laborers at the local works of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company today were reduced from a 10-hour day to one of nine hours, with a five-day week. Most of them have been working six days. No change in the wage scale was made.

Here's GOOD MORNING that means Good All Day

A sparkling drink that tastes so good and sets you right

For the acid stomach that disturbs digestion as well as temper we recommend this effervescent pleasant drink from Italy. Its appetizing, pure white crystals spring into instant life when poured into a half glass of cold water. You'll like its really delightful taste and you'll marvel at the quickness with which it neutralizes the excess acid in your system.

Known since 1880 by Italians here and in Italy.

BRIOSCHI
is now available for everyone.

DRINK TO YOUR OWN HEALTH

Gently laxative, when taken before breakfast Brioschi will start your day right. A glass of Brioschi before retiring gives you not only a pleasant tasty "night cap" but also corrects the acidity that is largely responsible for the early morning ill tasting mouth. Try Brioschi tonight and see how much better you'll feel tomorrow.

75 cents the large can of 24 drinks at all Italian stores, your favorite druggist or any May Drug Store.

FRANK & SEDER

Sale will begin promptly tomorrow, Tuesday morning, at 9 a. m., in our Second Floor Fur Department.

Stop! Look! Read!

If you have any intention of buying a Fur Coat, we will give you a bargain tomorrow that you won't forget for the rest of your life. That sounds like an extravagant statement, but in all the years we have been selling Fur Coats, never in any season, any year, any sale, have we featured so sensational a sacrifice of

FUR COATS at $50
Taken From Our Regular $150 Assortments

FUR COATS at $75
Taken From Our Regular $150 and $200 Lines

FUR COATS at $100
Taken From Our Regular $200 and $300 Grades

Why are we doing this? Because we got caught with big stocks in the mildest winter that has been known in 30 years. And we are prepared to take our medicine. It's too late for us to do anything but take the biggest loss we ever sustained, and to SELL THESE COATS!

If you are not interested in a bargain like this, in a Fur Coat, please turn the ad over to some friend who will be anxious to buy one. If we could only show these Fur Coats to the women who are reading this ad, we would have ENOUGH customers lined up in front of the store when the doors open, to clean off every coat on every rack.

When the defense accused Judge Carlos Hardy of prejudice against William Edward Hickman, fiend-slayer of little Marian Parker, Judge Hardy turned trial of the case over to Judge J. J. Trabucco.

REAL FOOD IN THURSTON BENEFIT

Bushels of potatoes, cabbages, turnips, etc.; boxes of canned beans, milk and other staple foods; hams, flour, cakes and other wholesome victuals—five big truck loads, with a total weight of about 16 tons—were distributed to needy miners' families at Acmetonia, Harwick, Indianola and Russellton Nos. 1 and 2 yesterday afternoon by Howard Thurston, philanthropic magician and man of mystery, as part of the relief fund being raised at a benefit show to be given at the Pitt Theater Friday afternoon.

WIFE, DAUGHTER HELP

Accompanying Mr. Thurston, who personally supervised the distribution yesterday, were the magician's wife and daughter, Jane, who have become known to thousands of miners and their suffering families in the Pittsburgh district as angels of mercy. During the two weeks Thurston's show has been at the Pitt Theater, the man of magic and his family have visited a number of camps where evicted union miners and their women and children are forced to live in flimsy wooden barracks. A week ago yesterday they distributed blankets to needy mothers and baby dolls to little children Santa Claus overlooked last Christmas.

At every camp visited, Thurston has talked to the strikers and their families, handing out cheer and welcome gifts of food and blankets with a lavish hand. His coming has been a Godsend in many instances, leaders of the strikers declare and each visit has ended in a din of thankful voices raised in cheers of thanks.

ADVANCE ON BENEFIT

Yesterday's relief expedition was an advance from the fund to be raised at Friday's benefit matinee at the Pitt Theater. Thurston's entire company of mystery invoking Hindus, captivating girls who vanish in thin air at a word from the master, bewitching young women who are made to pass through insurmountable barriers and float in the air and all the magical power at Thurston's command will be amassed in one of the greatest exhibitions ever seen. Every cent taken in at the box office will go to the relief of stricken miners' families.

Thurston is supervising the purchase of food which will be turned over to reliable relief agencies throughout this district for immediate distribution.

ALL GOES FOR FOOD

"Food is what these needy people say they want—food they shall get, for I shall personally see to it that every penny taken in at Friday's show is turned into groceries which will be sent direct to the miners as fast as we can make the purchases," declared Mr. Thurston.

"I only hope that everyone who can afford to buy a ticket will do so whether they have already seen my show or not," he continued. "There are many people, I know, who will support a worthy cause such as this and I want them to know that I will be very grateful for every bit of help that I can get in putting this fund over.

"Buy a ticket and give some hungry woman or child a square meal!" was the magician's closing plea.

THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

ZIEGFELD GIVES FIGURES ON COSTS

By JOSEPH MULVANEY,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.

FLORENZ ZIEGFELD talked to me about figures—now wait a moment! These were figures with which you are not so familiar and which are associated seldom with Ziegfeldian activity. They were figures of finance instead of flesh, but they were quite as eloquent and appealing. They were the figures that are written on the seamy side of the curtains of Ziegfeld productions and some of them were in red ink, too!

Some of them were incredible and I told him so. He met my doubts by spreading out the fiscal reports for weeks and months and years and permitted me to pick out the numerals that I preferred to garnish a story. What I sought first was a nice, fat seven figured total, for there's nothing more arresting to a reader than seven figures in a single rank, marshaled by a dollar sign and with a "one" acting as sergeant for a row of cyphers. Ziegfeld laughed and pushed over pencil and pad, saying:

"Try the production costs of 'Show Boat,' 'Rio Rita,' 'The Follies' and 'Rosalie' and you'll add up way above a million."

I did and he was right. The amount approximated $1,250,000, a healthy investment for one man in that ethereal, intangible thing made up of mirth and melody and maids and called entertainment. With the four shows in action a fifth, "The Three Musketeers," in rehearsal, and a sixth, the Eddie Cantor musical comedy, in preparation, Ziegfeld is committing himself to the largest program he ever planned.

Why? I asked him that and he couldn't answer definitely. He has been producing shows for 21 years. The thrill of the thing should be gone, the novelty worn off, long ago. He has earned the right to be tired and to retire, and he admitted all that, but retorted:

"Maybe I keep on because after that 'No Foolin'' show and 'Betsy,' a lot of my dear young friends in show business remarked loud enough for me to overhear: 'The old boy has shot his bolt and is all through—he's down and out and doesn't know it.'

"Maybe I keep on because I'm so old that I'm getting crazy or I'm entering second childhood and beginning all over again. But I'd rather pass out with four of a kind in my hand, as at present, than with nothing.

"Anyway, why quit in any circumstances? All any of us can get out of life is the ability to buy enough things for his family to keep them comfortable; preserve a roof over their heads and his own; make sure of three meals a day and enough clothes; hold on to health and keep a clear conscience. All the money in the world won't get anybody any more."

When I asked him what the four shows attracted in one day, he thrust over the figures for a recent Saturday, when, with "Show Boat" taking in $12,100; "Rosalie," $11,600; "Rio Rita," $9,500, and "The Follies" in Newark, $9,600; the total was $42,800—quite a fair day's return.

"Show Boat" played to $48,400 that week, leading all Ziegfeld productions, but this production cost $24,610.50 to operate and the other attractions equally high. "Rio Rita," playing to capacity, required 41 weeks before Ziegfeld got the cost of the production back and began to ride on velvet. The producer's plan is to get—or try to get—10 per cent of the production cost each week, but this can be done only when the weekly receipts approximate $50,000.

The items that enter into production costs are endless. As an illustration, shoes cost $16 a pair and stockings $7.50, and there are 503 girls in the four shows, with several changes of shoes, all of which are worn out in a few weeks. Exclusive of the cast, "Show Boat" cost $14,677.21 to operate for a week. As he ran an eye over the report, Ziegfeld commented:

"Do you remember 'A Parlor Match' long ago with Hoey and Evans in it? Mrs. Hoey and Mrs. Evans lived in Brooklyn in adjoining houses and one morning they met, over the back fence, as they hung out the week's wash.

"Mrs. Hoey in some excitement remarked that Charlie and Bill, their husbands, had opened in the Old Montauk and the show grossed $1,800. Mrs. Evans responded:

"'Yes, that's $900 for Charlie and $900 for Bill.'"

Ziegfeld chuckled at the recollection and remarked:

BUDGET INCREASE O. K.'D

GRANT $67,000 FOR REPAIRS TO JAIL

The County Commissioners in budget session today were thrown for a loss. Estimates totaling $37,-661 were pared from the Department of Public Works' budget. This amount was quickly dissipated, however, when the commissioners had to add $15,966 to the works department budget to take care of repairs to the jail and City-County Building. Repairs amounting to $67,000 were recommended by the State Welfare Department and cots, a ventilating system and a new sanitary arrangement in 200 cells are included in alterations.

The commissioners approved $51,-600 for repairs to Memorial Hall. Water seeping through the roof has damaged the walls. A new roof will cost $10,000; painting the main corridor, $12,000; plaster repairs, $3,000, and repairs to heating system, $6,500.

An expenditure of $5,000 for an air washing system in the Courthouse building was refused. "Some of the systems I have seen bring in more dirt than they eliminate," Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong said.

2 KILLED, 2 HURT IN AUTO DIVE

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Two persons were killed, one was probably fatally injured and another less seriously hurt when an automobile plunged through a bridge approach and fell 25 feet into a small stream near here yesterday.

Mrs. Ola Baldwin, 43, was killed, and her son, Lewis, 17, died of his injuries in a hospital here. The husband and father, William Baldwin, 43, is in the hospital and his injuries may prove fatal. Baldwin's 7-year-old daughter, Wilma, was hurt, but not critically.

The family's plight was not discovered until an hour after the automobile left the road. Baldwin's cries were heard by persons living nearby. Baldwin said the steering gear of the automobile was faulty.

NAB 2 CAPONES WITH GUNS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 30.—(INS.) — "Scarface Al" Capone, super-gang leader of Chicago, and his brother, Ralph Capone, lieutenant, were arrested here today in the Roosevelt Hotel and were found to be carrying three revolvers and rounds of ammunition.

Significant to the appearance of the Capone brothers in New Orleans, according to police, it was revealed that Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and his party were expected here Wednesday.

The homes of two politicians in Chicago were bombed recently by men believed to be members of the Capone gang.

FRUIT SHIELDS RUM DEN

The newest disguise for an up-to-date saloon: A fruit store.

Police testified in Allegheny Police Court today that when they were called to the fruit store of Frank Benevento, 3151 McClure avenue, yesterday, to quell an argument, they found in the rear, instead of apples and oranges, moonshine and all modern appurtenances. It cost Benevento $50.

DIVORCED WHILE IN ARMY, HE PROTESTS

TILTONVILLE, O., Jan. 30.—Alleging his wife, Rose, obtained a divorce in Jefferson County Court without notice to him while he was serving in the army at Honolulu, Calvin Kreuger, of Martins Ferry, today had on file a petition requesting relief from a court order requiring payment of $20 alimony.

SIX MISSING; ASK POLICE AID

Police today were searching for six persons, one a 10-year-old girl, whose disappearance was reported to the Missing Persons Bureau Saturday night and Sunday. Police were called in after relatives of the missing had exhausted efforts to locate them.

Eleanor Jimerson, 10, of 5 Bennett place, East End, disappeared while playing near her home. She was wearing a green coat and a brown hat when last seen.

The others reported missing were: Mrs. R. J. Amiano, 22, of 33 Boggs avenue, was last seen yesterday morning. She was wearing a brown dress and brown hat and coat. She is very dark, with bobbed hair and brown eyes.

Margaret Conley, 25, of 3034 Woolslair alley.

Edward Wlodarski, 18, of 245 Forty-fifth street.

Margaret Kennan, 20, of Cecil, Pa.

Selma Bostant, 15, of 464 Camelia street.

PROPOSE FETE FOR OPENING OF SHRINE

Anticipating favorable action by the County Commissioners in designating the historic Gen. John Neville farm at Bower Hill, scene of the famous Whisky Rebellion, as a public park, residents of the South Hills and Chartiers Valley are looking forward to a national celebration in the dedication of the site. The property is owned by the county as a reserve tract for the county poor farm at Woodville, but recently it was offered for sale. The people contend that due to sentiment the tract should be preserved for a park and historic shrine.

On this site on July 17, 1794, occurred a clash between the government forces and the insurrectionists in the Whisky Rebellion which marked the climax in America's first civil war. Several were killed and wounded and the mansion of Gen. John Neville, revenue collector and friend of President Washington, was burned. When the news reached the seat of the national government, President Washington at once organized an army of 15,-000 men and at the head of the troops, proceeded to the seat of the trouble. This show of force by the Federal authorities snuffed out the rebellion and the act has since been referred to as significant of the government's strength when exercised by a capable executive.

STATE TO MARK SITE

The Pennsylvania Historical Commission has chosen the site for a state marker, including the Episcopal Parish Church of St. Luke's of Chartiers, oldest church edifice in Western Pennsylvania, which stands on the edge of the Neville farm and was a sanctuary for fugitives from the Neville home. The farm covers the whole shoulder of Bower Hill and is regarded as a place of great natural beauty and ideal for a recreation ground of several hundred acres.

The Chartiers Historical Society, with more than a score of other organizations is urging the County Commissioners by a simple act of bookkeeping to transfer the land from the County Poor Board to the County Department of Parks. A. G. Smith, president of the society, in a letter today points out that the people of the southern part of the county are ready to join county, state and national officials in a dedicatory ceremony which it is proposed to hold July 17, on the one hundred and thirty-fourth anniversary of the battle.

SOMERSET HOTEL FIRE CAUSES $10,000 LOSS

SOMERSET, Pa., Jan. 30.—Fire from an overheated furnace last night caused $10,000 damage to the Vannear Hotel Annex. Three stores on the first floor were badly burned. Four families on the second floor were forced to flee.

ZIEGFELD GIVES FIGURES

me for the rest of my life. You see, I was supposed to own the show. Folks didn't think a producer had any more right to take money out of a show then than now. His job was and is supposed to be to put it in, let it stay there and add more to it when necessary."

Oh, yes, he has had failures, lots of them. He has been thrown for a heavy loss several times, but he has always battled back. There was "Betsy," for instance, that Belle Baker show. He opened it prematurely to fill the New Amsterdam Theater and in a week the receipts ran to $47,000. Then they fell to $25,000 in a few weeks and he snapped the show shut, to the air of $127,000 loss. Yet he said emphatically:

"Yet, I'm not sorry I lost that and I'll tell you why. After the book was written, I asked Jerome Kern to write the music for it. He balked because he said the book was no good and he did not want to hook on to a flop. I told him that I had Miss Baker under contract and intended to go through with it, but he insisted that he couldn't make music for it. So I got Rodgers and Hart to do the job, and we went through—$137,000.

"But Kern asked me if I'd ever read 'Show Boat,' the Edna Ferber novel. I said I hadn't and he told me to read it and see what a riot of a musical show could be built from it. He was so steamed up that I got it started after 'Rio Rita' was set, and see what I've got now—the most successful production possible, that's 'Show Boat,' and the $137,000 was well lost."

Will there be another Follies? I asked him, and he said that it was doubtful. He has announced before that the big revue would be allowed to die and has then revived it gloriously, so perhaps the Follies is immortal. He said he would hate to give it up, yet the fact that a revue's life is only a year, that there is no profit from foreign rights, and that public taste is turning toward musical productions with a story made him hesitate about staging another.

But for Eddie Cantor there will be a musical comedy, when the present Follies ends its tour. It will follow "The Three Musketeers."

After that, Ziegfeld said he would take a long rest—but I don't believe him. He knows nothing about the art of resting. He has tried it annually and instead of ease he has found irritation; instead of calm, he has found gloom—the nearest approximation of peace he has ever found has been in producing plays. He belongs on Broadway and he could not live long anywhere else.

cludes J. M. Kerrigan and Edward Wever.

Today begins the final week of the engagement of Howard Thurston in the Pitt, where he has entertained and amazed thousands of people during the past two weeks. There will be three matinees—the regular Thursday and Saturday, and a special matinee Friday for the benefit of the destitute families of miners.

When George Jessel comes to the Alvin next week he will celebrate his one thousandth performance as "The Jazz Singer" in the comedy drama of that title. Mr. Jessel is supported by the same cast that played with him here before.

Beginning Monday evening, February 6, the Nixon will present an American comedy, "Tommy."

The farewell tour of Anne Nichols' "Abie's Irish Rose," the comedy which has shattered all world records, will bring this comedy to the Pitt for the week of February 6. In the cast will be Ted W. Gibson as Abie and Patricia Quinn as Rosemary.

JEANNETTE MOVES TO AID MINE STRIKERS

JEANNETTE, Pa., Jan. 30.—A mass meeting of citizens of Jeannette and vicinity was held in Turner Hall Sunday afternoon sponsored by the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of obtaining aid for striking union miners. John Stark, secretary of the Jeannette Trades Council, presided. This week was made Bundle Week and the fire engine houses were designated as depots for donations. Ministers and churches are co-operating.

Springtime Silk Frocks

Just Arrived—Offer a Diversity of Tempting Fashions for Madame and Mademoiselle to Wear Immediately—Modes of the Daytime or Afternoon Type

$25.00

Created in crepe Georgette or flat crepe, new versions of the one or two-piece frock. Each mode has its own appealing features that date it of the new season. For instance:

Georgette frocks of the dress type take deep cream lace yokes simulating capes and matching cuffs.

Flat crepe frocks in the two-piece manner have V shaped motifs and new fagotted collar and cuffs of the eggshell tone sponsored by Patou.

Georgette crepe frocks in two-piece design show skirts with groups of fine pleats and tailored blouses trimmed with bright braids.

Quintettes of silk embroidered arrow points mark a chic design in flat crepe. Its skirt in effective group pleats.

Georgette frocks in the pastels rely upon a shirred and picoted panel skirt and a self jabot at the left side for an effect of chic.

New! Mallinson's American Indian Silk Prints

Designs native to the Zuni, Arapaho, Pueblo and Iroquois tribes have been carefully collected by the Mallinson artists and done into four stunning spring Pussy Willow Silks—each bearing the name of the Indian tribe on the selvage.

Predominant tones of blue, beige, red, etc.—with the Indian symbols in varicolors. Silks that will be chosen for frocks or for ensemble blouses.

$4.95 Yard

(McCreery—Second Floor)

In the Modern Way

The davenport and chair to match, covered in green mohair and imported figured linen frieze, are an adaptation of a Louis Quinze design, noticeable in the flowing lines, cabriole legs and hand-carving.

The desk is after an English origination—as is the sumptuous easy chair with tied seat and button back.

The carving on the glass-top coffee table doubtless was inspired by the lavish ornaments of the late Renaissance.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Gen. Pershing Honors Two Pittsburghers With Invitation to Dinner at Capital February 21

PITTSBURGH society folk are frequently entertained in New York or Philadelphia or in the South, but rather infrequently in Washington with the exception, of course, of Andrew W. Mellon and David Aiken Reed and their families.

Two Pittsburghers, however, in addition to the Secretary of the Treasury are to be guests at the dinner Gen. John J. Pershing will give Tuesday, February 21, in the Carlton Hotel, Washington. They are the Henry B. Rusts.

Gen. Pershing is giving the dinner for the men and women of prominence throughout the country who have associated themselves with him on the National Committee and the National Executive Committee for Washington Cathedral. The guest list, we have been told, includes 127 men and women.

The distinguished general is national chairman of the campaign in behalf of Washington Cathedral. The afternoon of the dinner the guests will visit the Cathedral.

One of the notable weddings of the week will be that of Katherine Deming Clapp, daughter of the George Hubbard Clapps of Woodland road, Edgeworth, who will wed William Ayres Galbraith on Saturday afternoon. The ceremony is set for 5:30 o'clock in the Clapp home with the Rev. Dr. H. R. Brown, pastor of the Shields Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dr. Alleyne C. Howell, rector of St. Stephen's Protestant Episcopal Church, Sewickley, as officiants.

The bridal party is to be quite small. Katherine's only attendants will be two flower girls, Marion Collin and Mary Lee Galbraith. Marion is the small daughter of the junior William W. Collins, of Edgeworth, and the prospective bride's niece. Mary is Mr. Galbraith's daughter.

Hanson Thomas, of Edgeworth, will be best man.

As one might expect, a number of entertainments are being given for Katherine. On Thursday Mrs. Hanson Thomas will give a buffet luncheon for Miss Clapp. Recently Dr. and Mrs. Howell gave a dinner in their home for the bride-to-be.

Virginia Corbus Patterson, daughter of the Harry H. Pattersons, of Beechwood boulevard, left Wednesday, I hear, to join Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wenman Hicks, Jr., at the Seaside Hotel, Atlantic City. Last evening she joined Mrs. William C. Fownes, Jr., and Louise Fownes, of North Highland avenue, at Washington, and left with them for Pinehurst, where she will remain two or three weeks.

Virginia's engagement to J. Murray Bell Grimes, son of William Dermitt Grimes, of South Negley avenue, was announced, you will recall, last July.

The Harry Darlingtons, always seen at all the leading social events in the city, often take part in brilliant social affairs in other cities, including New York. After a busy season, during which they presented to New York society Mrs. Dar[illegible]on's sister, Anita Shields, of Philadelphia, they have gone to New York. After a stay of a few days in Gotham, they will sail for Bermuda. There they have taken a cottage for the season.

Miss Emily Lippincott, of Sewickley, entertained at a tea in her home on Friday afternoon.

Eleanor Gillespie has been spending some time at the shore. Recently she was entertained at an informal tea given by Rachel, Clara and Grace Aiken at their home in Atlantic City. The Aiken girls are well-known in the city, of course, for they are former Pittsburghers.

* * *

Interesting to many Pittsburghers is the announcement of the marriage of Anita Quinby, daughter of Mrs. Amelia C. Quinby, of Zanesville, O., and Henry S. A. Stewart, of this city, which was solemnized on Saturday night at 7 o'clock in the bride's home. Anita is a sister of Mrs. Thomas O. Cowdrey, of Denniston avenue, the former Eleanor Quinby, whose small daughter, Eleanor, was flower girl. Stanhope S. Goddard, of New York, was best man. The Cowdreys as well as Mrs. Samuel Severance, of Westminster place; the Robert Lynes and the William Quinbys, all of this city, went on for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart will sail next Saturday on the Paris to spend two months abroad.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Rebecca MacMillen, of South Carolina, and the Rev. Donald C. Beatty, son of Mrs. W. W. Beatty, of Aspinwall, which was solemnized January 21 in St. Mark's Methodist Episcopal Church, Brookline, Mass., by the Rev. William Leslie, assisted by the Rev. Anson Boison, chaplain of State Hospital, Worcester, Mass. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Beatty will be at home at State Hospital, Worcester, where Mr. Beatty is assistant chaplain and musical director.

Mrs. Carl J. Saupe, of the Berg apartments, Carrick, entertained Thursday night in honor of Miss Katherine Haehn, of Florence place, Mt. Lebanon, whose marriage to Elmer C. Winter, of this city, will be solemnized in the early spring. There were 16 guests.

* * *

Miss Hazel M. Whitesell, of the North Side, entertained with a bridge-luncheon Saturday to announce the engagement of her sister, Miss Ruth I. Whitesell, of Greensburg, to Blaine Clarke Curry, of Dayton, O.

* * *

The marriage of Miss Isabelle Israel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Israel, of North Negley avenue, and Charles J. Loevner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Loevner, of Dalzell place, will take place tomorrow night at 6 o'clock in the Hotel Schenley. A dinner for the immediate families will follow the ceremony, and a reception will be held from 9 to 12 o'clock. No cards have been issued.

* * *

St. Stephen's Sodality of Hazelwood will hold a card party and reception February 10 in the Moose Temple, Penn avenue. Miss Margaret C. Duffy is chairman, with Miss Catherine Vetter in charge of the reception committee; Miss Mary Niland, cards; Miss Mae Ward, prizes; Miss Anna Murtha, refreshments, and Miss Catherine Henry, invitations.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the German Club of Allegheny will hold a bridge, "500" and euchre party Thursday night in the club parlors, Madison avenue and Pressley street. Mrs. Irene Weiterhausen is in charge, assisted by Mrs. Adolph Steffen, Mrs. William Meyers and Mrs. John Kettle.

* * *

Martha Chapter No. 88, O. E. S., is to hold a dance and card party on February 17 in the Hotel Roosevelt. Mrs. Mary L. Lord is in charge of publicity; Mrs. Sara Kelly, music, and Mrs. Carrie Hehnig, cards.

* * *

A card party for the benefit of the Miners' Relief Fund will be held Friday afternoon by the Tuesday Bridge Club in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium. Mrs. E. F. Rusch is president of the club.

* * *

Court Duquesne No. 630, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a card party for the benefit of the Miners' Relief Fund Wednesday night in St. Mary's parish hall, Third avenue and Ferry street. Mrs. John A. Donahoe, grand regent, has appointed Miss Rose Kennedy and Mrs. Charles J. Byrnes to be in charge.

AIDE FOR PROM

MISS ELIZABETH CLARK

Miss Elizabeth Clark is a member of the committee in charge of the University of Pittsburgh junior prom to be held February 17 in the William Penn Hotel.

BUSINESS GIRLS PLAN MID-WINTER MEETING

Details of the mid-winter conference for business girls of Western Pennsylvania will be planned at a meeting of the local committee in the East Liberty Y. W. C. A. Wednesday night. The conference is to be held in the East Liberty "Y" February 11 and 12, the Pittsburgh business girls being hostesses to girls coming from Altoona, Bradford, Butler, Hollidaysburg, Johnstown, McKeesport, Meadville, New Castle, Oil City, Titusville, Warren, Washington and Wheeling, as well as from the various city branches. The conference theme is to be "Deep Keels for the Open Sea."

The local committee consists of Miss Georgia Binder, East Liberty League; Miss Sylvia McClaren, Moni Club; Miss Goldie Martin, Triangle Club; Miss Ann Barker, Y's Ones; Miss Helen Waters, Center avenue; Miss Elsie Waugaman, Turtle Creek, and Miss Elsie Bonnell, of Lawrenceville. The conference committee includes Miss Georgia Binder, Pittsburgh, chairman; Miss Louella Lindsay, Titusville, vice chairman; Miss Edna Loughman, Washington, secretary; Miss Edith Otto, Johnstown, treasurer. Miss Jane Harrison, Pittsburgh, is both a committee member and a member of the National Council of Business Girls.

The Rev. James R. Cox will be the speaker at the Mothers of Democracy luncheon meeting in the Congress of Clubs Friday afternoon. Mrs. James A. Sendall and Mrs. Julia D. Mayer will sing. Mrs. Albert Oskin is luncheon chairman and will take reservations until Wednesday.

The Woman's Diocesan Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church will meet in Trinity House Thursday morning. A class on missionary current events will be conducted by Mrs. Homer A. Flint. The special speaker, the Rev. Drury L. Patchell of St. John's Church, Donora, will discuss "Work Among the Foreign Born in the Diocese of Pittsburgh."

* * *

The chairman of all committees, directors of departments and division heads will be entertained at luncheon following a board meeting of the Woman's Club of East Liberty, in the home of the president, Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., Ivy street, tomorrow. The luncheon hostesses are Mrs. Thomas Davies, Mrs. O. J. Schaffet, Mrs. Harry McCabe and Mrs. W. E. Ferree.

Miss Rose L. Hissrick will read before the Quota Club at a dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight. Singing by Miss Aileen Murray and cards will be other entertainment features.

"Is the Majority Always Right?" will be answered by Ralph Boots in an address before the Oakland Woman's Club Friday afternoon in the Hotel Schenley. Mr. Boots is associate head of political science at the University of Pittsburgh.

ARRANGE FETE FOR FRENCH BIRDMEN

By Universal Service.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 30.—New Orleans is putting up its flags and bunting in preparation for the arrival Wednesday of Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Le Brix, French good will fliers, who will make their first United States stop here.

During their 48 hours in New Orleans the fliers, who have completed a long tour through Latin America, will be entertained with all the pomp of royal visitors.

The fliers will be escorted into the city by Army and Navy planes, which are expected, if present plans mature, to meet the visitors at the Mexico-Texas border. They will be met at the landing field by a committee of city and state officials, the French consul general and his staff and representatives of various societies which date back to the days when New Orleans flew the flag of France.

Two great public receptions, one at the City Hall and another at the French consulate, have been planned, with several luncheons. The fliers come here from Mexico City, with one stop at Tampico.

GEN. RICKARDS HEADS DISTRICT WOOD FUND

SPEED RELIEF EFFORTS FOR MINERS

The Central Relief Committee administering the clergymen's fund for the destitute miners will open a station at Russellton tomorrow.

It was announced that the Burgettstown Theater will give a show on an undetermined date week after next for the benefit of the striking miners in that vicinity.

The destitute miners at Castle Shannon were aided Sunday by members of the S. O. S. Club of the Sunday school of the Concord Presbyterian Church of Carrick, who distributed baskets of groceries under the leadership of Miss Edna Barchfeld.

The Central Relief Committee of social workers and the Clergymen's Committee held a joint meeting at the Fort Pitt this afternoon. It was stated that the work of co-ordinating the various relief movements in the city was progressing satisfactorily.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, addressed a huge mass meeting in the interest of the striking miners in the auditorium of the Cass Technical High School, Detroit, yesterday. He is expected to return to Pittsburgh tomorrow.

THOMPSON NEAR DEATH

COL. JOE FIGHTS AGAINST WAR WOUNDS

Col. Joseph H. Thompson, veteran of the World War, is critically ill at his home, Patterson Heights, Beaver Falls. He has been in ill health for more than a year. He became unconscious three days ago. He is reported to be suffering from heart trouble caused by being gassed in the war. Besides being gassed, Col. Thompson was wounded several times while with the American Expeditionary forces.

Thompson, a star football player at Pitt, and later coached that team. He rose to the highest rank in his command during the war and after the close of hostilities was elected State Senator.

WOMEN FIGHT PROWLER

Captured by police after a battle with two women who surprised him in the act of looting a home on the North Side, Saturday night, police say, Francis Cody, 23, of Fulton street, was held for further investigation at a hearing yesterday in Morals Court.

Mrs. Mabie Glover, 28, of Cedar avenue, and Miss Frances Nelson, 24, fought with the man when he was discovered by Mrs. Glover in the house. Miss Nelson is a roomer in the house. Cody wrenched loose from the women, but ran into the arms of a policeman, in an attempt to escape.

OFFICER HURT IN CAR CRASH

When an emergency police car he was driving sideswiped a truck in Beaver avenue, near Pennsylvania avenue, yesterday, Patrolman Leo Fitzgerald, of Metropolitan street, was injured seriously. Patrolman Nick Battis, who also was in the machine, escaped uninjured.

The men report to the Woods Run station. Anthony Marena, 24, of Wabash avenue, driver of the truck, was released on $500 bond pending a hearing on a charge of reckless driving.

SIX RESCUED IN NATRONA FIRE

Six persons were rescued by firemen early yesterday when they were overcome by smoke from a fire in their home at 51 Fourth street, West Natrona. They are Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kusky and their four children. Fire Chief Frank Brucker and three other firemen made the rescue. The damage was estimated at 30.

The Death Roll

Vivian Kirk Johnston.

Vivian Kirk Johnston, 37, former Pittsburgh newspaperman, died Saturday in the Walter Reed Hospital at Washington. He was born on the North Side and spent most of his life in and around Pittsburgh. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted with the Fifteenth Engineers and served overseas. Prior to the war he worked for The Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph, and after the armistice he returned to work there. Lung trouble which he contracted during his war service necessitated his going to the government hospital at Saranac Lake, N. Y. After leaving there he went to Washington. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, the Masons and the Elks. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Nora Johnston; a son, Joseph M. Johnston III, and a brother, Joseph M. Johnston, Jr.

Mrs. Phoebe McKee Dravo.

Mrs. Phoebe McKee Dravo, widow of A. Clarke Dravo and the last surviving member of one of the prominent pioneer families of this city, died last night at her residence, Forbes street and McKee place. She was the daughter of Samuel McKee, one of the group of men who developed the glass industry of Pittsburgh in the then borough of Birmingham, now part of the South Side, where Mrs. Dravo was born in 1844. In 1863 the family moved to Oakland, the homestead being located on a large tract of land which has since been built up and through which McKee place was later open and given the family name. Mrs. Dravo was active in religious and charitable work. She was a charter member of the Oakland M. E. Church and a member of the original board of the Children's Hospital. She was also for many years an active member of the governing board of the Home for Incurables. She leaves two sons, Christian McKee Dravo and N. Stuart Dravo, both of this city.

Mrs. Catherine Donoghue.

Mrs. Catherine O'Keefe Donoghue, 71, widow of Robert Donoghue, died Saturday in her home, 6043 Willard street. She was born in Pittsburgh and was a member of St. Bedes' Catholic Church. She leaves four sons, three daughters, two brothers and one sister.

Thomas Coutts.

Thomas Coutts, 67, of the Cathedral Mansions, Ellsworth avenue, died Friday. Mr. Coutts was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, May 20, 1860, and was in the contracting business in Pittsburgh for the past 40 years. He was a member of Duquesne Lodge No. 546, F. & A. M.; Pittsburgh Consistory, Duquesne Commandery and Syria Shrine. He was a trustee of the Third United Presbyterian Church, a member of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, Edgewood Country Club, Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange and the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Coutts leaves his widow, one daughter, one brother and two sisters.

William McFetridge.

William McFetridge, 77, pioneer coal producer, died Saturday in his home at Tarentum. Born in County Derry, Ireland, he was brought to this country at the age of 6. With his brother, William, Mr. McFetridge founded the McFetridge Brothers Brick Company and McFetridge Coal Company.

Mr. McFetridge was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Tarentum; Pollock Lodge No. 302, F. & A. M.; Shiloh Chapter, R. A. M.; Tancred Commandery, Knights Templar, and Syria Shrine.

Mr. McFetrdige leaves his widow, three sons, two daughters, one sister and one brother.

Mrs. Frank Schlesinger.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Hirsch Schlesinger, 51, wife of Dr. Frank Schlesinger, former director of the Allegheny Observatory, who died in her home in New Haven, Conn., Wednesday, January 25, were held at her home, 477 Prospect street, New Haven, Friday, last. Mrs. Schlesinger was born in Ukiah, Cal. She resided in Pittsburgh from 1905 to 1920. She leaves her husband and one son.

TWO FIREMEN OVERCOME

Firemen Wilbur Sheets and Albert Bolton of the Aspinwall fire department, were overcome by smoke last night while fighting a fire that caused $3,000 damage to the two-story home of W. Taylor, Eleventh street, Aspinwall. They were able to go home after receiving treatment. The fire is believed to have been started from an overheated furnace.

CHAMBERLIN TO TRY THURSDAY

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 30—(AP)—Next Thursday morning is the day fixed by Clarence Chamberlin for his third attempt to bring back to America the world's endurance flight record. It is possible, however, that a 24-hour postponement will be found necessary, Chamberlin said just before boarding a train for New York last night.

"I expect to be back to the Richard Byrd Field Wednesday," the New York-to-Germany flier said, "and we want to start as early as possible. We'll take off Friday at the latest, for I've got to resume my tour next week."

Roger Williams, co-pilot in Chamberlin's last two attempts to establish a new record, and A. R. Martine, who is backing the two airmen, arrived here with him yesterday afternoon. Williams said he probably would start the fuel lifting tests tomorrow.

SHOT INTO AIR, FINED $25

There was "a little game" at Louis Meckelin's home at 2159 Brighton road, last night, police say.

W. Draper, 23, of Dormont, played a hand or two and when he left he forgot his scarf. At 2:30 a. m. today he returned and rang the Meckelin bell.

A window opened on the second floor and Meckelin fired a shot toward the skies because, he explained in Allegheny Police Court, somebody was pounding the door violently.

Meckelin was fined $25 for the shot and Draper was discharged.

He was appointed when Judge Arlington Reynolds, preliminary judge, announced he was reluctant to preside at the trial of the woman, who is accused of having beaten her husband to death with a hammer as a prelude to a bridge game.

REPAIRS BADLY NEEDED AT HANCOCK

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Housing conditions at Fort Hancock, on Sandy Hook, one of the most important coast artillery posts in the country, constituting with Fort Tilden, on the opposite shore, the primary defenses of New York City, were found by the investigating committee, headed by Congressman Loring M. Black, yesterday to be in a state of neglect due to insufficient funds for repairs and upkeep.

Most of the buildings on the reservation, permanent structures, substantially built of brick and stone, are, nevertheless, the committee found, greatly in need of repairs. The heating, plumbing and sanitary equipment in these structures is more than 25 years old and is rapidly corroding and going to ruin.

MONEY IS NEEDED

Money for maintenance, the committee found, is the all-important need, if the buildings are to be saved from utter ruination.

There are also approximately 25 war-time shacks remaining on the reservation. The condition of these, the committee found, is the same as that of similar structures at other army posts within the metropolitan area—broken down, gloomy, insanitary firetraps, unfit for human habitation.

The committee found housing shortage to be as acute at Fort Hancock as at the other posts investigated. Noncommissioned officers, entitled to separate quarters, were found to be forced to live in tumble-down, war-time hovels with broken porches, leaky roofs, inadequate heating and rapidly decaying woodwork. Even the headquarters battery's barracks building, a permanent, brick structure, was found by the committee to be sadly in need of repair.

Everywhere were found leaky and drafty windows, worn out floors and stairways, leaking gutters and rusty and worn-out plumbing and sewer pipes. Much of this, the committee found, was beyond saving. In some places the rain seeped through from roof to basement. The furnaces were broken, rusty and antiquated.

The post theater, operated by the War Department, is housed in a war-time, frame building of flimsy construction. It is heated by large, antiquated sheet iron stoves that are a constant fire menace. This is also true of the heating in other war-time structures.

W. J. L. Banham summarized the committee's impressions in this way:

REPAIRS NEEDED

"Fort Hancock has fairly permanent buildings if they were kept in a proper state of repair. Repairs must be done promptly if the buildings are to be saved. Either that or tear them down. Unless there is prompt repair work done and continuous upkeep the structures will go to ruin.

"There should be more opportunity for social life at the post. That theater might as well be at the North Pole. A first-class social center is badly needed. It would improve discipline among the men. The location of the post is at a lonely, dreary spot out at Sandy Hook, where the men are cut off from the social attractions of the city. This should be remedied at once.

"The plumbing and heating at the post are bad. The war-time structures are unfit to live in and should be removed. The officers' quarters are only in a fair condition. They are badly in need of repairs. The officers and enlisted men are not taken proper care of."

The post roads are also in a bad condition due to lack of funds. The post wharf, where Army boats from New York land supplies, is slowly rotting away.

Long Jump in Fog and Snow, Landing on Barbed Wire

Lost Again With "Gas" Running Short on the St. Louis-Chicago Route

In the Sunday Sun-Telegraph yesterday Col. Lindbergh completed his official report of his being lost in the fog at night and being compelled to abandon his plane in the air and jump for his life. While floating downward supported by his parachute "Lindy" discovered the plane was "chasing" him. But he managed to maneuver out of its path, landed safely and discovered his battered machine, the mail, however, being undamaged.

Perils of Poor Visibility

By COL. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH.

CHAPTER XXIII.

WHEN the wreck was inspected a few days later it was discovered that a mechanic had removed the 110-gallon gasoline tank to repair a leak and had replaced it with an 85-gallon tank without notifying anyone of the change. Consequently instead of being able to return to our field at Peoria, Ill., and clear visibility, I ran out of fuel still over the fog bank.

The circumstances surrounding my fourth emergency parachute jump were almost similar to those of the third. I took off from the Lambert-St. Louis field at 4:20 p. m., made a five-minute stop at Springfield, Ill., an hour later to take on mail, and then headed for Peoria.

Weather reports telephoned to St. Louis earlier in the afternoon gave flying conditions as entirely passable. About 25 miles north of Springfield darkness was encountered, the ceiling had lowered to around 400 feet and a light snow was falling.

At South Pekin the forward visibility of ground lights from a 150 foot altitude was less than half a mile, and over Pekin the town lights were indistinct from 200 feet above.

After passing Pekin the plane was flown at an altimeter reading of 600 feet for about five minutes, when the lightness of the haze below indicated that it was over Peoria. Twice I could see lights on the ground and I descended to less than 200 feet before they disappeared from view. I tried to bank around one group of lights, but was unable to turn quickly enough to keep in sight.

Forced to Choose

After circling in the vicinity of Peoria for 30 minutes I decided to try to find better weather conditions by flying northeast toward Chicago. I had ferried a ship from Chicago to St. Louis in the early afternoon, at which time the ceiling and visibility were much better near Chicago than anywhere else along the route.

Enough gasoline for about an hour and 10 minutes' flying remained in the gas tank and 20 minutes in the reserve, hardly enough to return to St. Louis even had I been able to navigate directly to the field by dead reckoning and flying blind the greater portion of the way. The territory toward Chicago was much more favorable for a night landing than that around St. Louis.

For the next half hour the flight northeast was at about 2,000 feet altitude and then at 600 feet. There were now numerous breaks in the clouds and occasionally ground lights could be seen from over 500 feet.

After passing over the light of a small town a fairly clear space in the clouds was encountered. I I pulled up to about 600 feet, released the parachute flare, whipped the ship around to get into the wind and under the flare which lit at once. Instead of floating down slowly, however, it dropped like a rock. I could see the ground for only an instant and then there was total darkness. Meantime the ship was in a steep bank, and being blinded by the intense light I had trouble righting it.

Jump of 13,000 Feet

An effort to find the ground with the wing lights was in vain, as their glare was worse than useless in the haze.

When about 10 minutes of gas remained in the pressure tank and still not the faintest outline of any object on the ground could be seen I decided to leave the ship rather than attempt to land blindly.

I turned back southwest toward less populated country and started climbing in an attempt to get over the clouds before jumping. The main tank went dry at 7:50 p. m., and the reserve twenty minutes later. The altimeter then registered approximately 14,000 feet, yet the top of the clouds was apparently several thousand feet higher.

Rolling the stabilizer back, I cut out the switches, pulled the ship up into a stall and was about to go over the right side of the cockpit when the right wing began to drop. In this position the plane would gather speed and spiral to the right, possibly striking the parachute after its first turn. I returned to the controls, righted the plane and then dove over the left side of the cockpit while the air speed registered about seventy miles per hour and the altimeter 13,000 feet. The rip cord was pulled immediately after clearing the stabilizer. The Irving chute functioned perfectly.

Lands in Barbed Wire

I left the ship head first and was falling in this position when the risers whipped me around into an upright position and the chute opened. The last I saw of the DH was as it disappeared into the clouds just after the chute opened. It was snowing and very cold. For the first few minutes or so the parachute descended smoothly and then commenced an excessive oscillation which continued for about five minutes and which could not be checked.

The first indication of the nearness of the chute to the ground was a gradual darkening of the space below. The snow had turned to rain and, although the chute was thoroughly soaked, its oscillation had greatly decreased. I directed the beam from my 500 ft. spotlight downward, but the ground appeared so suddenly that I landed directly on top of a barbed wire fence without seeing it.

The fence helped to break the fall and the barbs did not penetrate my heavy flying suit. The chute was blown over the fence and was held open for some time by the gusts of wind before collapsing.

GAS MAIN FIRE HALTS CARSON STREET TRAFFIC

Traffic in West Carson street near the Corliss tunnel was tied up for more than a half hour this morning when gas from a leaking main beneath the street at Glenmawr avenue caught fire. Flames shot high in the air and a pedestrian sent in a fire alarm. Firemen kept a watch on the blaze until the gas supply was shut off.

MAYOR WALKER SWEARS OFF

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Mayor James J. Walker has stopped drinking and his health has improved.

The Rev. Dr. Christian F. Reisner, pastor of Chelsea Methodist Episcopal Church, said in a sermon yesterday:

"Mayor Walker, in his generous way, gave me permission on Friday to tell you:

"'I no longer drink champagne nor alcohol in any form, nor have I since last September. My health is very much better without it. Then, too, while I enjoyed the exhilarating high spots from alcoholic stimulants, the low spots of the next morning collected a heavy toll. I find it more agreeable, as well as healthier, to walk on the even pathway with no stimulant.

"'Any, by the way, the most enjoyable dinner I ever attended in New York was the one you invited me to one year ago, given by 2,200 Methodists. It proved to me that people at a dry dinner could be hilarious and jovial and that all prohibitionists were not long-faced.'

"What a fine testimony from our capable and deservedly popular mayor, whom I am proud to call my friend. The Mayor is to address the Methodist preachers' meeting on March 5, when Bishop Wilson will introduce him. Admired public officials little realize how their ideals and habits affect American youth, who are so prone to imitate their idols."

The New York World today says that Mayor Walker verified Dr. Reisner's statements and explained he had been for more than four months on a diet prohibiting the use of alcohol in any form. He said his meals usually consist of a little chicken and a cup of tea. He added that his physician has also forbade the use of coffee.

SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

ROBERT MANTELL, famed Shakespearian actor, comes to Pittsburgh this week to give his repertoire at the Nixon. Were it not for such brave men as Mr. Mantell, who stand the ordeal of the road, we provincials would get but a slight taste of that exhilaration coming from a Shakespearian program.

• • •

ALTHOUGH the famous actor, we feel sure, is quite unaware of the fact, it is true we once supported him on the boards. In those days Mr. Mantell came to the Alvin, presided over by John Reynolds. It was in King John as either a soldier of the king or as a noble courtier, we forget which now, that we supported the great Mantell. We distinctly remember, however, that we carried a long spear, wore a plumed hat, tight breeches and a coat that fitted snug at the waist. Our particular line which shook the rafters was: "For Frawnce, for Frawnce."

IN THOSE days actors didn't enjoy the benefit of high pay. Equity was in embryo. Our pay per performance totaled fifty cents.

Our work brought the usual secret lament coming from the ancient quarrel between the actor and the critic. The next morning the late Charles M. Bregg, whose every line we used to read with great delight, mentioned Mr. Mantell, Fritz Lieber and Genievieve Hamper, but, unfortunately, never once mentioned the stirring performance of the young man who cried out with such great passion: "For Fraunce, for Fraunce."

A COLLEAGUE in that play was a boy who, when not trying to do something in behalf of the sacred memory of the Bard, was a lunch counter boy in a local dairy lunch. Fortuitous circumstance allowed him to be a dilettante in the arts, as the time required to pass out the ham-and at the white counter in no way conflicted with his stage performances. The two important acts blended nicely.

HE WAS one who wanted to give a finished performance. After we had been well drilled as to our parts the lunch counter boy, missing our trainer, approached Mr. Lieber, who was walking back and forth back-stage gesturing and repeating in a stage whisper his lines.

"Say, doc," said the lunch counter courier to Mr. Lieber, "do we walk in ahead or behind you? I kinda forget—and that other geezer isn't around." Mr. Lieber straightened out the momentous arrangement with good humor.

THERE may be one or two ready to sneer at the pretensions of a lunch counter boy, yet among the historians who disagree violently on many points about the man who wrote the immortal plays there is a pretty general agreement that he, when a boy, performed a task as menial as lunch countering—he held horses for a pittance while his superiors went in to see the plays of men he was destined to make the world forget.

* * *

MR. MANTELL, growing old, and only lately recovering from an illness, possibly may get some satisfaction out of knowing that beyond the inadequate returns from his art, contrasted with the returns received by lesser persons, he gets an indefinite yet very important return arising from the fact that many a small boy in a fearsome, darkened gallery has found something through the arts of the Mantells that will stay with them long after the tinsel and dross of lesser things have worn away.

This has descended a little into the sentimental, but when an old actor sees the man he once supported come along what other turn can he take?

Lily and Pat Quarrel About the Ertz Girl. Pat Leaves

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

LILLY LEXINGTON, spoiled daughter of the CYRUS LEXINGTONS, is engaged to marry STALEY DRUMMOND, a rich bachelor much older than herself. She is fond of him, but realizes she does not really love him the day after she accepts him, when she becomes instantly and violently infatuated with a taxicab driver whom she sees down town when she goes to meet her chum, SUE CAIN. Forgetting all about Sue, she jumps into his cab and he drives her home. She learns that his name is PAT FRANCE and that he owns his own cab in a company headed by his friend, ROY JETTERSON. She marries Pat. Lily tried, and their domestic ship sailed smoother for a few months. One day Lily met SUE CAIN, an old friend, on the street. Sue invited her to a card party. Lily, without funds, went to a store and tried to charge some clothes to her father. She was informed her mother had left word that "Mrs. Patrick France could not charge things to Mr. Lexington." Staley Drummond pays her bills. Sayde finds Drummond's card. Pat goes to a party without Lily.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE looked around the cream-colored walls of the little room—the picture of "The Hanging of the Crane" between the windows—the smoking stand beside Pat's easy chair. And, looking at them, her gray-green eyes hardened until they were like pieces of jade. . . . She had looked at them for so many months, day in and day out, night in and night out, that the very sight of them made her feel cold and unhappy.

"What a dreary life I do have," she thought, and she put her head down on the arm of Pat's easy chair and began to cry because she was lonely and poor and blue and jealous.

Suddenly she jumped up, dashed the tears out of her eyes, and went back to the little bedroom. "Pat!" she called, going down the narrow hall. "The Jettersons are having some people to supper tomorrow night, but we aren't going— Pat! Did you hear what I said?"

He did not answer, and standing in the doorway, she saw that he had fallen asleep without turning out the bed lamp above his dark, handsome head.

Pat knew about Sadye's Sunday night supper.

"I'll go straight from the garage," he told Lily on Sunday morning. "I told Roy I'd stay there today—and I may be late, but he'll be over to get you tonight about 6. It's all arranged."

Lily said nothing. "Go ahead and arrange all you want to!" she thought, glaring at his innocent back as he ate his breakfast in the tiny kitchen. "But I'm not going to that party!"

That night when Roy came for her she told him she couldn't go with him. But she offered no excuse, and she closed the door of the flat in his face while he was still talking.

When he was gone she sat down and waited for Pat to come home. She waited until 9 o'clock. Then she went to bed, but she could not sleep.

She heard the clock in the sitting room strike 10 and then 11.

Upon the stroke of 12 she heard him open the front door and she rushed in to him, holding her kimono tight around her. Her face was white with anger and her eyes blazed at him.

"Well, this is a fine time to come home to me, after your evening's pleasure!" she said. "I thought you'd come home to me when you heard I was here. . . . Where have you been until this hour? Playing the saxophone with that Ertz creature?"

Pat shook his head. "No, I got there too late to play anything," he said. "But I took Elizabeth Ertz home, if you want to know. . . . I hope you won't mind. I couldn't very well escape. Roy asked me to, and it's only a couple of blocks."

Lily stared at him. She forgot that she had been driving and lunching with Staley Drummond, and that his roses were scenting the little room where she and Pat stood. She was frantic with jealousy.

CHAPTER XL.

THERE never yet was a woman in love who was not actually beside herself with jealousy at times.

And Lily France was exactly that as she stood facing Pat, her husband, in the doorway of the flat that Sunday night. She was jealous to the point of frenzy. Her face was white, and her eyes looked black as they blazed at him. Her breath came unevenly.

"Do you mean to say that you've just left that Ertz creature—and then dared to come home to me?" she asked him, putting her hands to her throat. It felt tight, and as if it were filled with fluff; her heart beat suffocatingly.

"Where else would I come but home to you?" Pat asked, reasonably enough. He was very calm. "This is my home, isn't it? And you're my wife, after all."

Lily gave a laugh that sounded like a sob. "Yes," she said bitterly, "but I don't know how long this is going to be your home—or how much longer I'm going to be your wife."

She let that sink in, and then she rushed on:

"Don't fool yourself into thinking that you're the only one of us who's sick and tired of this marriage, Pat France! Don't think that I'm not just as attractive to other men as you are to that Ertz lemon! Don't think that I haven't plenty of chances to step out, myself, because I have!"

Pat frowned—not angrily, but in a thoughtful, puzzled way. He closed the hall door behind him and stood with his shoulders against it. He took her by both of her wrists and pulled her close to him, looking hard at her.

"Now, what do you mean by that?" he wanted to know.

Lily smiled at him scornfully. "That, my darling husband," she said, "is some more of my own business!"

And, with a sudden twist of her shoulder, she wrenched herself away from him and flew into the bedroom, slamming and locking the door behind her.

She threw herself down across her bed, sobbing hysterically into the pillows. Above the sound of her own crying she heard Pat knocking on the door and begging her to let him come in.

Now and then she caught bits of what he was saying—"at least throw me my pajamas and a comforter"—"sleep on the couch, but I've got to sleep somewhere—"

And then more knocking.

Lily paid not the slightest bit of attention to him. She went on sobbing quietly into the pillows, and presently she heard him go down the hall.

She sat up then in the shaft of moonlight that lay across the bed in a wide band of silver . . . Pat and that Ertz walking along in that silvery light, under the leafless trees, side by side! She thought of them that way and her sobs broke out again. . . . Pat and that horrid little woman!

Then the whole flat seemed to shake with the sound of the front door being violently closed. Through the thin walls came the faint echo of footsteps on the stairs— then the dull thud of the street door being slammed.

"Pat's gone!" Lily said to herself, hardly believing it. Like a shot she was off the bed and out in the tiny sitting room.

She flung up the window and leaned out into the night. . . . Yes, there he was, going down the street, a gray shadow against the deeper gray shadows of the darkness.

But where was he going? "To his father's house, I suppose," Lily decided. "Or else back to the Jettersons!" She hated the Jettersons more at that moment than she ever had known she could hate anyone. She loathed both of them—Sadye and Roy—simply because they were friends of The Ertz.

She closed the window and turned back into the silent room. All at once she was afraid to be there, alone in it.

The kind of wild, unreasoning terror that sometimes comes to women alone in houses at night, swept over her like an icy wave, leaving her cold and shivering.

It took every bit of her courage to walk back down the hall and into the dark bedroom. When she had turned on the light she felt better, but she knew she could not stay in the place all night.

"I'd die of fright—and they'd find me with pure white hair in the morning," she said to herself, and began to pack an overnight bag with panic-stricken haste. "I'll go to a hotel if it takes my last penny."

In five minutes she was dressed and out in the street. Then, just as she started for the corner, she discovered that she had forgotten her handbag with all her money in it—all of her money being the $15 that Pat had given her the night before.

For an instant she thought of running down to the janitor and asking him to go into the flat for the handbag. Then something else far simpler flashed into her mind. Why not go to the France family for the night? Their house was only a few blocks away, and it would do them all good to know what a rotten trick Pat had played upon her.

"They think he's so wonderful," she said to herself, scornfully, starting along the sidewalks under the October moon. "I'll just show him up."

All Set for the Great Dinner at the Farm, Dicky Dictating Much

WHATEVER the hidden knowledge which had amused Dicky while he was assuring me that Eleanor Lincoln's uncle and aunt would not embarrass me by accepting my invitation to dinner, and that I was perfectly safe in inviting them, his amusement had vanished as quickly as it had appeared. I realized that when I heard the almost venomous accent of his tones as he told me that I wouldn't have to worry about entertaining Eleanor Lincoln at all, that he would take her off my hands so that I could devote all my time to "dear old Phil."

There were limits to my patience, I told myself, and one of them had been reached. My voice was icy as I replied to his crude and insulting jest.

"Don't you think you have said quite enough?" I asked. "If you especially wish to have Miss Lincoln included in my list of dinner guests, I shall of course ask her at once. Of course I cannot guarantee her acceptance. This is rather late in the day to ask her, and it may be impossible for her to come at such short notice. But I will extend the invitation, nevertheless."

"That's very sweet of you," Dicky drawled, ignoring my frigidity. It is an old trick of his, that drawl, one which I instantly recognized. He employs it when he knows he has transgressed the bounds of courtesy, and yet is not contrite enough to apologize for his rudeness. But I knew that he would not offend again.

"But I don't think you need worry about Miss Lincoln's acceptance," he went on. "If you just mention to her that the famous Philip Veritzen will be at the dinner she'd leave her dying father to go. Don't you remember how excited she was when she heard his name? She's a stage-struck dam-sell if ever there was one."

"I'll use that inducement if I find she needs one," I promised docilely, for I had no desire to quarrel with Dicky before the time of the dinner. It promised to be a difficult enough function to manage even with him in the good humor which makes him the ideal host. "But I hope I won't be condemned afterward for making false representations. As I told you, I have no idea that Mr. Veritzen will stay at the dinner when he finds that Noel is to be one of the party."

"On the contrary, I have an idea that he will be present with bells on," Dicky retorted. "Let me tell you a sure way to keep him. Just manage to have Miss Lincoln present when the automobile party arrives. Introduce him to her and let him have a talk with her before you slip him the low down about Noel. I'll bet he'd rather stage a reconciliation, a 'Come to me arms, me beamish boy,' than to pass up the dinner."

There was a ring of confidence in his voice which astonished and bewildered me. It was not a theory which he was stating, that was apparent. He was making an assertion based upon knowledge of his own. Yet how on earth could he prophesy Philip Veritzen's reaction to Miss Lincoln's charms?

Glad indeed was I that Dickey chose to end our telephone interview upon this astounding assertion.

"Then it's all settled?" he queried. "You'll ask her, and tell her that Philip Veritzen is coming?"

"Yes," I answered. I do not believe I could have added another word, and at his laconic "Goodbye," I hung up the telephone, racking my brain for an explanation of Dicky's assurance concerning Miss Lincoln's expected behavior as well as that to be anticipated on the part of Philip Veritzen.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, January 31

ALTHOUGH there is a sign discouraging new ventures and dealings with certain closed corporations or secret societies, yet generally the day should be lively and interesting in an unexpected manner. Speculative enterprises may result better than looked for, and renewed contracts should prove advantageous.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of unexpected benefits and profits, possibly through speculation or investment. But be careful in new projects or in negotiating with secret orders or trusts.

A child born on this day should be versatile and clever in many directions, either culturally or commercially. It should attain success and possible renown.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 12, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hopes, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's food."—ARTHUR SKILES, 323 N. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HARD WATER PLUS MELO MAKES SOFT WATER

Washes woolens and blankets!

WHEN you wash with hard water there's a dirty ring around the edge of the basin, but that's not suds. It's scum. The hard water is doing that. It's mixing with the soap to form a dirty curdle. Can't wash woolens and blankets in that water.

There is a way out, though. Soften the water. Add Melo. Then add soap. Ah, there are suds for you! White, full, fluffy. Melo did that. Get a can today at your grocer's.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Rid Yourself of Rheumatism

Why suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, sore inflamed joints and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poisons that make thousands helpless and kills hundreds years before their time?

If you want quick, gratifying relief take one teaspoonful of Rheuma night and morning. Almost from the first day you should realize that when Rheuma goes in rheumatic agony goes out.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You should know in a few days after beginning the treatment that the dangerous poisons are leaving your system through the natural channels. Rheuma should please you in a day and make you hopeful of quick recovery in a week or money refunded. May Drug Co. and druggists sell Rheuma with this guarantee.

Housewives Can Buy, But Can They Sell?

If the man of the house were left with the buying of household goods and foods, would the home be run economically?

Mother would say "absolutely no." And father would agree good-naturedly.

The fact is, housewives do know how to buy economically.

But can they sell with equal profit to themselves? How many housewives are wasting space on *"White Elephants" that clutter up the attic, the cellar, the storage closets?

And yet, these same economical housewives know that these articles would be very useful to some "invisible" neighbor.

ARMY'S NEW HOWITZER SHOOTS OVER 6 MILES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—The War Department has approved a new type of 105-MM. Howitzer for use by the light field artillery, which has a shooting range of over six miles, it is announced. The gun is similar in some respects to the Howitzer used by the Germany Army during the World War.

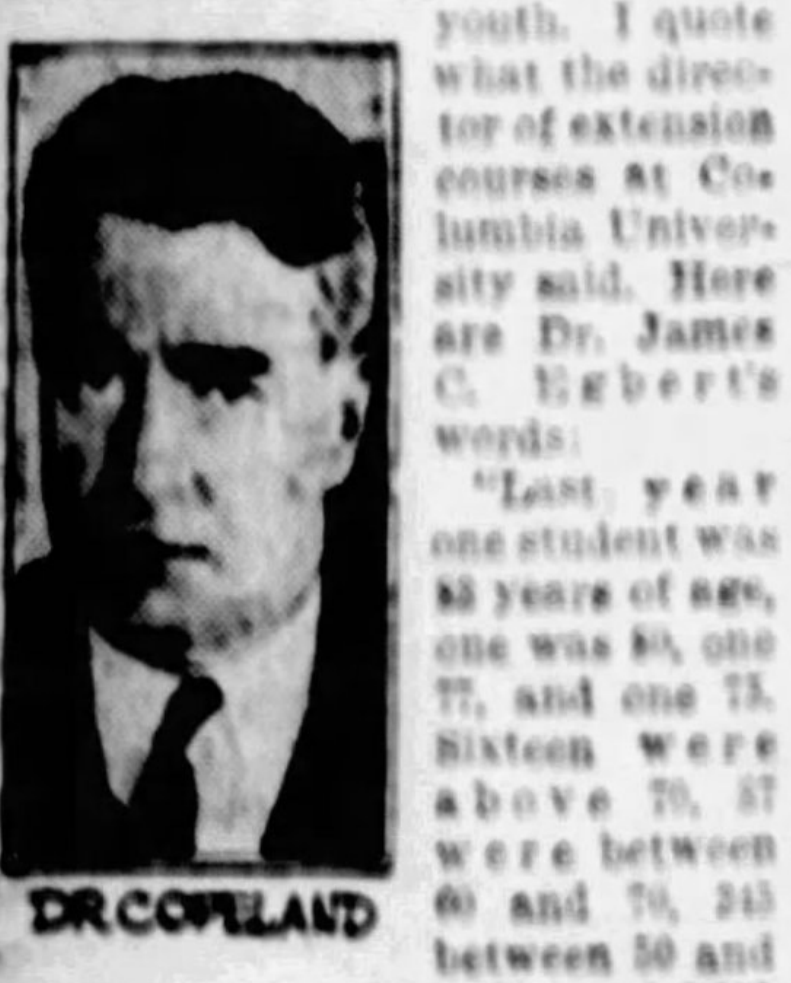
HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.

U.S. Senator From New York

Old Age Not a Matter of Years These Days



DR COPELAND

OLD people need not give up study. They are even better prepared to profit by reading and education than they were in early youth. I quote what the director of extension courses at Columbia University said. Here are Dr. James C. Egbert's words:

"Last year one student was 83 years of age, one was 80, one 77, and one 75. Sixteen were above 70, 87 were between 60 and 70, 245 between 50 and 60, 878 between 40 and 50, and 1,822 between 20 and 40."

In contrast to this remarkable record, it was found that only 192 were under 20.

Commenting on these figures an editorial writer said: "And the 'old' men and women showed just as much facility in learning as youngsters. Age isn't what counts—it's the interest in things and the desire to learn."

I often look at my father, aged 90, and note his interest in serious things. He has just completed the last of 32 volumes, extracts from the literature of the world. He won't read modern fiction—says he hasn't time. I wish I knew how many ponderous books he has carefully studied since he was 75 years of age.

I wouldn't have anybody miss the splendid novels with which the authors present us every year. But to give us an outlook on life, breadth of view, sympathetic and understanding knowledge of men and nations, we must study the history and literature of the world. To do so keeps us young.

Study does not bring on old age. Late hours, midnight suppers, over-eating, over-indulgence of every sort—these are the short cuts to old age. Needless self-indulgence is the fault of faults.

Was it Carlyle who said, "Many a man has dug his grave with his teeth?" Whoever said it, told the exact truth. It is pathetic how many persons eat too much, not too much of this or that, but too much of everything.

You should linger at the table, not for the sake of eating an enormous meal or to coax an unwilling appetite. You should linger in order that you may slowly and deliberately consume the food. Leisurely eating is the first step in wise eating.

The more slowly you eat, the less you will eat. The appetite is slowly satisfied. If you bolt your food and crowd it into the stomach, you take far more than you need before the food has had a chance to appease the hunger.

On the contrary, with slow eating, the appetite is satisfied before the quantity of food taken is too great. That means less food and less demand on the organs of elimination.

To keep young, eat as little as possible and read and study a lot. Don't eat to get dull and stupid, but do read to keep young and alert. Human interest is the secret of youthful spirits and physical well being is essential to mental and physical happiness.

Answers to Health Questions

K. W. Q.—Is there anything to prevent an 18-year-old girl from growing taller?

2.—What will make an 18-year-old boy grow taller?

A.—No.

2.—Plenty of rest and sleep, exercise in the fresh air and plenty of good nourishing food. He has three more years in which to grow.

* * *

S. W. Q.—What do you advise for blackheads?

A.—Correct the diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple foods and avoid constipation. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

A. J. B. Q.—What would you suggest for a small mole on the face which is never noticed as a general rule, but which occasionally becomes distended and is easily cut by razor, bleeding profusely—at other times I can shave over it without results?

A.—See a skin specialist for his advice—moles may be removed in some instances by the use of the electric needle, but the work must be done by an expert in this line.

H. L. K. Q.—Will going up and down three flights of stairs several times daily reduce the hips? Would it, on the other hand, tend to develop the legs? Does it affect the heart?

2.—I am 20 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches, what should I weigh?

3.—How can I reduce?

A.—Yes, any exercise which involves the leg muscles should prove reducing. Not necessarily. If the heart is weak it would be unwise to climb the stairs so frequently.

2.—You should weigh about 119 pounds.

3.—Cutting down on sweets and starchy foods and taking plenty of outdoor exercise should keep down the weight. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

* * *

A. B. C. Q.—How can flat feet be overcome?

2.—What is the cause of and remedy for canker sores?

3.—How can I gain weight?

A.—This condition can be remedied by wearing the correct kind of supports.

2.—Canker sores are usually due to an acid condition of the system. Careful attention to the diet and regular intestinal elimination should help to clear up the trouble. For particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

3.—Proper dieting and deep breathing is the secret. You should eat nourishing foods and have plenty of sleep and rest. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. A. L. Q.—What should a girl aged 20, 5 feet tall, weigh?

2.—What do you advise for oily hair?

A.—She should weigh about 115 pounds.

2.—Brushing the hair daily, shampooing once a week, and the use of a good tonic are helpful. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for further information and repeat your question.

Itching Skin

Don't let your skin torture or embarrass you another day! Lasting relief is yours if you will use the remedy that works two ways at once. The sulphur in Rowles Mentho Sulphur clears the skin, while the menthol heals the sore, red and broken tissue. All itching stops instantly on application! Soon the trouble is cleared up and your skin is in a fine, healthy state. This is the combination you have been looking for. Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

IT DID WONDERS FOR LOCAL MAN

Ten Herbs Ended Indigestion and Improved Him in Every Respect.

"I can say with absolute honesty that Ten Herbs did wonders for me," was the statement of Mr. David L. Johnson, 5532 Graham Street, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at the May Drug Co.'s Main Store, 529 Liberty Ave., Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine. "Several years ago I began to have indigestion," continued Mr. Johnson, who is a draughtsman for the Westinghouse Electric Co. "Finally it got so bad that my food would ferment and form gas.

MR. DAVID L. JOHNSON

"I had bilious attacks and black spots would appear before my eyes. I would get so dizzy that I would have to catch hold of something to keep from falling. My liver and kidneys were not working right, and there were pains across my back. I was so weak and worn-out that just standing on my feet would tire me out. I was constipated, and my nerves were on edge. I never could get proper sleep or rest.

"It seems as though Ten Herbs benefited my whole system. I can eat heartily and food digests as it should—there is no gas or bloating after a meal. I have been relieved of constipation, and my liver and kidneys are more active. I have no more pains in my back, or spots before my eyes. Dizzy spells and bilious attacks are gone, and I have a great deal more energy and ambition. My nerves are quiet, and I sleep the whole night through. Ten Herbs gave my entire system a thorough cleansing, and I feel better in every respect."

Profit by Mr. Johnson's experience. Let this new compound benefit and invigorate your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It has a cleansing, soothing, correcting effect on the system in general.

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Co.'s Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

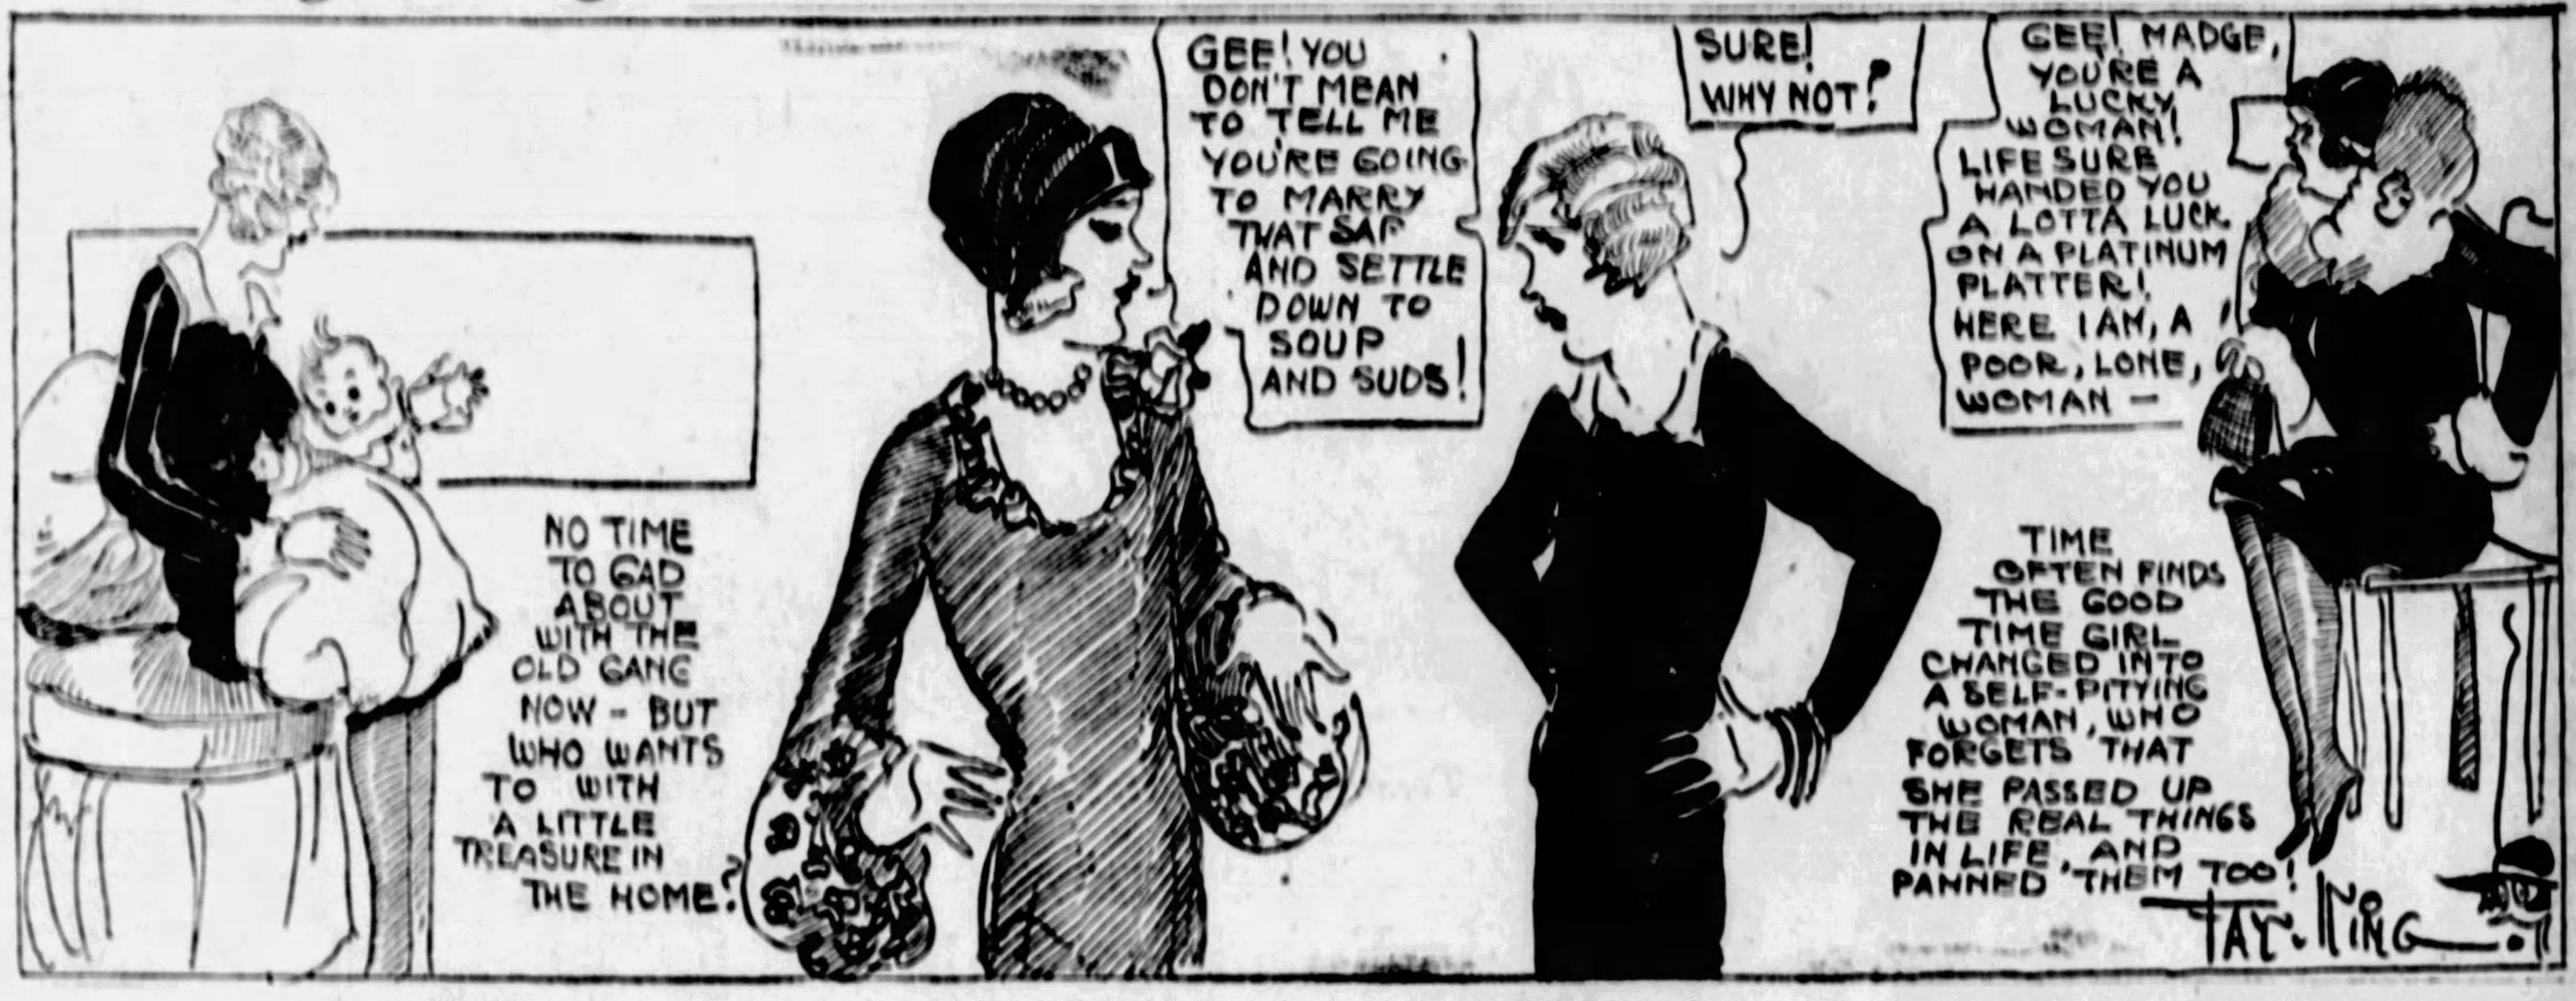
Fay King Gets Irate Over Good Time Seekers



GEE! YOU DON'T MEAN TO TELL ME YOU'RE GOING TO MARRY THAT SAP AND SETTLE DOWN TO SOUP AND SUDS!
SURE! WHY NOT?
GEE! MADGE, YOU'RE A LUCKY WOMAN! LIFE SURE HANDED YOU A LOTTA LUCK ON A PLATINUM PLATTER! HERE I AM, A POOR, LONE, WOMAN—
NO TIME TO GAD ABOUT WITH THE OLD GANG NOW—BUT WHO WANTS TO WITH A LITTLE TREASURE IN THE HOME?
TIME OFTEN FINDS THE GOOD TIME GIRL CHANGED INTO A SELF-PITYING WOMAN, WHO FORGETS THAT SHE PASSED UP THE REAL THINGS IN LIFE, AND PANNED THEM TOO!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THERE is no wail so long and loud as that of the self-pitying woman who bemoans the fact that life has given her a dirty deal, when the fact of the matter is she turned down the good things to lead a selfish frivolous life, and then expected us to sympathize with her.

Back in the days when she was the life of the party, how she panned any girl friend willing to settle down and marry some poor, but worthy young man and raise a little family.

How she used to drop in, all dolled up on the way to some party, and rave about her good times and pity the little wife and mother who was struggling along on her husband's small salary.

But time changes things around, and the poor young man of today is often the prominent and successful citizen of tomorrow.

Then the girl who is so popular with the wasters and spenders finds a lot of competition a little later and eventually is mighty glad to look up her happily married friends, and sit around telling them how lucky they are and how unlucky she is.

She forgets the time when she panned the good and real things of life and was too selfish to marry and make a home for a husband and family.

It's all in the reverse now. She used to say:

"Poor Madge, tied down to that sap of a fellow she married and the house full of squalling kids! I don't see how she stands it!"

But now Madge says:

"Poor Carrie. I remember when she was the best looking thing and always having the gayest time, and now I feel so sorry for her; she's so alone!"

Squalling kids have a way of growing up into the best looking and most devoted sons and daughters.

And good time pals have a way of disappearing out of one's life!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN all your thoughts are set to music—then it's LOVE!

Yes, dear girl, it's Leap Year, at last—and you have the right to do the proposing! You also have the right to wear two left-hand gloves, or to leap into the Grand Canyon, or to hunt butterflies with a shot-gun! But what good will it do you?

HELEN ROWLAND

Before marriage a girl closes her eyes when a man kisses her. After marriage, she will have to learn to close them when he forgets to kiss her.

Flirtation is merely pretending to take a detour, when you are really following the post-road to a man's heart. Now, as always, "the longest way 'round" the first kiss is the shortest way to the altar.

A wife, like a mustard plaster, is always around when a man has a cold in the chest. And how can you expect him to get thrilled or excited about a woman who is all mixed up in his mind with his cough medicine, his pills, his conscience and his alarm-clock?

If the statesmen of half a dozen nations had exercised one-quarter the diplomacy and discretion that the average man's stenographer uses up every day of her life, the World War might have been averted.

* * *

Instead of starting with the companionate marriage, in order to find out if you can possibly live together, why not start with the divorce and get married when you discover that you cannot possibly live apart?

* * *

When you actually feel HAPPY before breakfast—when you can't sit through the parting-scene in the play without feeling sorry for yourself—when you think of darning socks as an emotional experience—then it's LOVE!

* * *

A man's sentiment and his digestion are so closely allied that his heart never seems to work before lunch.

W. P.

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am coming to you for some of your splendid advice. Do you think a woman should live with a mean, narrow-minded man, as this is exactly what my husband is? What should a woman do that does her very best to make a success of her marriage and then when her husband takes her out he flirts with other women and also admits to her that he has a weakness for other women? I am not a make-believe, Miss Gale, but, as many people tell me and also him, I am true and honest and home-loving. I economize as much as any woman possibly can, do all my own work and also make very nearly all my own clothes, and go about my own business, as I have a reputation for that. Now, Miss Gale, we are only married a year and a half. My husband is 31 and I am 23. I keep myself and home very neat and clean, as I am very particular, and still, no matter what I do, it is not right. Please, Miss Gale, tell me what to do, so I can give this narrow-minded man of mine a lesson. Wishing you luck. W. P.

I don't quite understand just how your husband is so narrow-minded, my dear. His flirting with other women is far from narrow-minded, in my opinion. Can't you make him understand how he hurts you by his actions? Discuss it with him and explain just how you feel.

Doubtful I

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your column for some time and think the advice you give is very helpful. My case is this: I have been going out with a girl for about a year and think a lot of her. It seems as though the only time I can get a date is when I would have to spend money. When I am not flush with money and want a house date I do not get it. I do not know what to do in a case like that. Should I give her up or keep on hoping for things to turn my way? "DOUBTFUL I."

She doesn't care much for you, I believe, so I'd give her up if I were you.

Be

DEAR MISS GALE:

May I have a word with Disappointed through your column? Well, Disappointed, you say you are 20 and don't have any bad habits. You must be a good boy. Most of the young men I know don't have any bad habits but they usually smoke. Say, you're all wrong. What do you mean there are no decent girls? I am 17 years old and have seen a good bit of the world and have been going out with young men for almost three years. I don't smoke, drink, nor pet. I think a girl that pets or drinks or smokes is cheapening herself. No girl with any self respect would do anything like that. A girl can easily have a good time without indulging in any of the three I have mentioned. I have never kissed a boy in my life. I think a girl's first kiss is a sacred one and should be only given to the man she loves. Loads of luck, Miss Gale and hoping that Disappointed will soon meet a decent girl. I am, BE.

I am glad you feel as you do about petting and drinking, my dear.

Heartbroken

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl 23 years of age and have been going with a young man two years my senior. We kept steady company from the seventh of September until the first week of August and, without giving me any satisfaction he has quit calling on me. Shortly after this, I left that part of town in order to forget him but it seems my love for him cannot bear the strain any longer. He has been going with another girl, but for my part I cannot see another man. He has promised to marry me but it looks as though he was "building castles in the air." Please, Miss Gale, advise me what to do. HEARTBROKEN.

But, my dear girl, what is there for you to do but try to forget him? If he is interested in another girl, nothing you can do will change him. If he is as unstable and unreliable as he appears, you are much better off without him.

Old Sores and Ulcers Can Be Healed!

Many a person has succeeded in healing stubborn old sores and ulcers with applications of Peterson's Ointment after expensive treatments had utterly failed.

Here is a letter well worth reading and if you have a friend afflicted the same, why not send him this:

"About a year ago I contracted 15 varicose ulcers on my arm which rapidly grew worse. They extended up my whole arm, one-half inch deep. I used several salves, but instead of making my arm better they made it worse. Blood poisoning nearly set in. Doctors told me I would have to have my arm amputated. Finally I read about your Peterson's Ointment in the newspapers and began to use it. After several boxes I began to see an improvement, and within a short time the ulcers were entirely closed up and healed. I am glad to say a good word for Peterson's Ointment and you can refer to me any time."—Mrs. Patrick O'Neill, Buffalo, N. Y.

Nearly every druggist recommends Peterson's Ointment and you can get a good-sized box for only 25 cents.

Dr. Copeland Says:

"Mineral waters of the right sort are preferable to many cathartic compounds. Their power to overcome the immediate effects of constipation is unquestioned. In their effects upon the bowel and its lining membranes they are far less irritating. Indeed, many have qualities that make them soothing and healing. Sugar-coated pills are pleasant to take, which may add to their danger. They are no less habit-forming and drastic because they appeal to the taste."

Pluto Water, with its mineral content, flushes the bowels and washes away impurities. It is gentle, soothing, healing, non-habit-forming. Corrects constipation and restores normal bowel movements. Acts in 30 minutes to 2 hours.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Donie Bush.

THOUGH less than three weeks has elapsed since the Pitt football team returned home from the scene of the final game of the 1927 season, and it seems to the average fan that only a slightly longer period has glided by since the echo of the last world series died out in Pittsburgh, the swift flight of time is indicated by the fact that already the stage is being set for another pennant campaign.

Do you realize that only two weeks from next Thursday the first division of the Pirate crew will be speeding toward the training grounds in Paso Robles? Well, that's how near we are to a new campaign of the diamond pastime.

Just about a week after that date action pictures of the baseball players and news of their daily doings will begin to crowd hockey and other winter sports out of the most prominent places on the sport pages.

MANAGER BUSH'S plan for an early training start promises to turn out most favorably. Pennant success rewarded Donie for his efforts to get his team in trim for a flying start last year, it will be remembered.

True, it was a dash in the closing stages after they had been knocked out of the leadership that carried the Bucs to the top again and enabled them to cop the National League championship, but they would have been hopelessly out of the race at that stage if it had not been for the ground they gained on the other clubs during the first few weeks of the season.

This time, Bush plans an even earlier start, figuring that by being ready when the gong sounds in April he will again be able to grab off a bunch of early games that will count for just as much as games won in August and September.

Joe McCarthy.

IT WASN'T that way under previous Pittsburgh managers. Though they generally managed to get going at a fast clip in midseason their efforts were wasted because they had lost too much ground at the beginning. For years the Corsairs were notoriously poor starters, and the result of it was that from 1909 to 1926 they won just a single pennant.

Bush changed the trend of things by going after the early games in his first year

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

EVER since C. C. Pyle announced his plans to stage a cross-country Marathon race from Los Angeles to New York, to get under way March 4, the followers of sports have been wondering how the famous Cash and Carry gentleman plans to break even on his venture.

There will be no such thing as gate receipts en route and the expense will be enormous, what with the necessity for checkers all along the line and other incidentals.

Now comes the answer.

THE man who made Red Grange rich, whereas the University of Illinois merely had made him famous, has it all doped out that the leaders in the race shall place themselves under his management for a stated period and he will break out in a rash of six-day races, beginning with one in Madison Square Garden, New York. He figures that if six-day bicycle races can be such howling successes, the folks ought to turn out to see the runners who have been game enough to finish the grind across the continent.

He also has in mind movie and stage offers for the winner, who will be under his exclusive management under an agreement signed when the entry in the race is made and providing for a good-sized cut of the athlete's earnings.

BILL BUSCH, the local runner, who trotted from the Coast to New York last fall and will depart some time this week to report for the Pyle Marathon, with a good chance of winning it, says he does not think more than about six or eight of the runners will finish, and he expects to be among those at the grand windup. In fact, he makes no bones of his confidence that he will win.

"None of the other entrants has any idea of what hardships he will have to endure," Busch said in discussing the race. "I look for most of the large field to drop out early and for only the hardy ones to survive.

"I notice you had a piece in the paper the other day about Willie Kolehmainen being one of the entrants and being hopeful of winning. He'll never make the grade. Willie is too old.

SWAT STAR REFUSES PROFFERED RAISE

By LARRY WOLTZ.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Another holdout has cropped out in the Cub family. He is none other than Lewis (Hack) Wilson, the home run slugging outfielder of the Joe McCarthy forces.

Wilson dropped his unsigned contract into the Martinsburg, W. Va., postoffice Saturday afternoon. It should reach Bruin headquarters in the Wrigley Building sometime today.

Charlie Root, star pitcher, also returned his contract Saturday unsigned, making two important members of the McCarthy family who must be dealt with.

Wilson is not satisfied with the terms of his contract. He did not dodge the issue when interviewed over the long-distance telephone. He believes his troubles will be adjusted and that he will leave for Catalina Island with the Cub regulars February 23, but says he will not be among those present unless his boost in salary is more substantial than the one handed in his new contract.

VANCE, HOYT HOLDOUTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The Chicago National League club is not the only major league combination experiencing difficulty in digging up sufficient financial bait to lure its pitching ace back into the fold. Charley Root, who has refused to sign a Cub contract, has company in the holdout ranks in the persons of Dazy Vance of the Dodgers and Waite Hoyt of the Yankees. Both Vance and Hoyt are pitching giants who feel that the sum stipulated in their 1928 documents is less than it should be.

M'KINSTRY, NAVY CREW CANDIDATE, SUCCUMBS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Report of the death of Midshipman James Orville McKinstry, who had been expected to be one of the promising candidates for the Navy crew this year, was received today by Naval Academy authorities. McKinstry, whose home was in De Queen, Ark., died at the Fitzsimmons General Hospital, Denver, Col., where he had been under treatment for a month for tuberculosis. He was a member of the third class at the academy, and had rowed number six oar in the plebe boat which won at the Poughkeepsie regatta last year.

Mack Off To Sign Speaker

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Tris Speaker, baseball's gray eagle, will be a member of the Philadelphia Athletics next season if—

If, in this instance, represents a sum of money, perhaps $5,000, maybe $10,000, but if Connie Mack, astute manager of the Athletics, and the sparkling center fielder can get together on the salary question local fandom regards it as good as settled that Speaker will roam in the Athletics' outer garden the coming season.

Mack makes no secret of the fact that he wants the veteran badly to round out his outfield now that Ty Cobb and Zach Wheat, members of the club last year, are gone. He tried to get Speaker last year, but Tris had made a prior promise to the Washington club.

"I expect to be in touch with Speaker by Tuesday," Mack said today. "I leave for Florida

Hughie Jennings at Point of Death

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The condition of Hughey Jennings, famous baseball figure and former manager of Detroit, remained unchanged here today, attending physicians said. Jennings, stricken with meningitis Saturday, lapsed into unconsciousness yesterday and little hope is held for his recovery.

Jennings was taken ill last Tuesday and ordered to bed by his doctor. On Friday he had hoped to attend a bank directors' meeting here, but was again termed too ill.

Since retiring from baseball, Jennings has spent most of his time at home in a cottage in the Pocono Mountains, motoring to Scranton every day or two. His health was fairly good all this winter up until the time he was taken ill about a week ago.

Several months ago Jennings figured in an automobile accident on the Pocono road. His car was damaged, but he and Mrs. Jennings were uninjured. Only last week Hughey announced his intention to represent himself in a damage suit resulting from this automobile crash.

Jennings has been a member of the Lackawanna Bar Association for many years, but has seldom appeared in court.

TUNNEY BEGINS WORK TODAY

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 30—Gene Tunney was to begin training today for his next heavyweight championship bout.

Under the direction of Lou Fink, his trainer, Tunney was to start an active round of work, expected to condition him for the opponent Tex Rickard will pick.

Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager, is expected Wednesday, apparently for a conference with Rickard. Tex has announced he may have "something to say about a heavyweight fight" by the end of the week.

Eppa Rixey Signs Red Contract; Pay Cut

CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati southpaw pitcher, has signed a contract for the current season at a reduced salary. The announcement yesterday said that Rixey, like most of the Reds' high-salaried players, was given a stiff salary cut.

However, Pitcher Carl Mays, who also was sent a contract at a reduced rate, returned the document unsigned.

EYES FAIL JACK, HE'S THROUGH, REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—The Herald and Examiner in a copyrighted article today said that Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, has been forbidden by his physician ever to enter the ring again. The newspaper said the information was contained in a message received from Miami Beach, Fla., Dempsey having notified Tex Rickard, the promoter, who is there, of his decision.

The Dempsey telegram informed Rickard that Dempsey's eyes had gone back on him and that doctor's orders prohibited further fighting, the account added.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey today revealed that a recent injury to his left eye had retarded his work toward another attempt to regain his lost heavyweight boxing crown. He denied, however, that the ailment was serious enough to force his retirement from the ring.

The Herald and Examiner said it had been unable to corroborate the facts from Dempsey, efforts to locate him in California proving unavailing.

The newspaper's Miami Beach informant understood that as a result of the former champion's decision Rickard has finally abandoned hope of rematching Dempsey with Gene Tunney, titleholder, and is looking around for another challenger.

Continuing, the Herald and Examiner account said:

"The former champion's announcement, which upsets all Rickard's plans as well as those of Chicago promoters who were dickering for a Tunney-Dempsey bout, was entirely unexpected. Not even those close to Dempsey in Los Angeles had knowledge of it. It was only two weeks ago that Jack stated he was planning to go to New York to discuss a Yankee Stadium bout with Rickard."

NOTHING TO IT—TEX

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28.—(AP.)—Denying Chicago reports that Jack Dempsey had announced his retirement from the ring on account of eye trouble, Tex Rickard, New York promoter, today told The Associated Press "It's an old story."

"There's nothing to it," he declared.

Players Ousted Rogers

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Eight members of the New York Giants signed a petition asking Charles Stoneham, president of the Giants to get rid of Rogers Hornsby, according to a story last night in the New York Daily Mirror. The Mirror says:

After weeks of investigation the Daily Mirror has learned what Charlie Stoneham, Giants' president, meant when he said that Rogers Hornsby was traded to the Boston Braves "for the best interests of the club."

It was not, as Stoneham has maintained, because the star infielder talked too much.

Stoneham was forced to make that deal or lose the services of eight regular members of the Giants.

When the 1927 season ended, a petition, signed by eight Giants, was presented to Stoneham, it is revealed. This petition, which is said to have included the names of Fred Lindstrom, Ed Roush, Burleigh Grimes, Zach Taylor, Larry Benton, Bill Terry and Travis Jackson, informed Stoneham that these players would not play with Hornsby again, according to this information.

The petition served as an ultimatum. The players told of their troubles and is said to have declared that Stoneham either could keep Hornsby and lose them, or get rid of the slugging infielder and retain them.

Stoneham decided that the players mentioned in the petition were far greater assets to the Giants than Hornsby and it was agreed to dispose of the Rajah for as much as could be gotten for him.

The players' petition was the climax of a season, that was fraught with dissension. The trouble started in the training camp of the Giants at Sarasota and continued right until the end of the season.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

HACK WILSON, the big little man of the Cubs, gets the floor after a long term of silence. The gentleman from New York, known as Babe Ruth, together with his colleague, Lou Gehrig, has yielded to the gentleman from Illinois, who still retains his seat in the home run senate.

HACK has a justifiable complaint, inferred quite forcibly in the return of a contract without the necessary signature. In other words, Hack wants more money for playing the grand old game this summer.

IN ALL the racket over Babe and Lou it seems that Wilson was lost in the shuffle. But Hack, despite a rocket that does not appear to be as lively as the American League ball, whanged out no less than 30 homers to tie for the league honor with the illustrious Cy Williams.

IT WASN'T the fault of the slugger from the Pittsburgh district that the Bruins missed out on the flag. No, sir-ee, Hack was "in there" socking homers and other long hits. And from the early days of the spring time Wilson concentrated on winning the flag, despite the quips of one Earl Smith.

"GET ready for the city series, Hack!" shouted Earl to the slugger as the Cubs fought for the top. When the flag went down the Bruins were eligible for the city series with the White Sox, but apparently they were too sad to enter into anti-climatic affair of this nature. So the Cubs called it a day and tuned in on the Pirates and Yanks.

ON THE merit of performance, Hack deserves a star's pay. The little "fence-buster" is a good attraction; he is the type whose actions attract the crowd. Here in Pittsburgh the fans like to "ride" him just to see his responses. And, by the way, Wilson ruined a couple of games for the Buccos in the Oakland Orchard.

JOHN MILJUS' pitching exploits of last summer have excited much comment in big league cities. The handsome Serb would be a welcome addition to the slab staff of 15 other major teams, but it was left for Joe Devine, Buccos' agent on the Pacific coast, to see the new born art of Miljus' pitching.

ONE story out of the East gives a detailed but somewhat incorrect account of Miljus' experiences with the Giants. The yarn chides Charlie Dooin, former catcher, for giving John McGraw a negative report on John of Penn avenue. "McGraw turned the collegian down," the story relates. "Later he signed with Brooklyn, was released to Seattle and came up last season to star for the Bucs."

MILJUS, as a boy of 18 or thereabouts, held a harmless flirtation with the Federal League. John was a collegian when he saw a chance to hook up with the Giants. A friend arranged for the workout and Miljus, instead of being unsatisfactory, was told to leave with the Giants for Chicago. About the same time, the Pittsburgh Federal League team made him an offer that was more attractive than that received from the Giants. So John decided to go with the Feds.

PAULINO KNOCKS OUT ROJAS IN THIRD ROUND

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 30.—(INS.)—Quintin Romero-Rojas, veteran Chilean heavyweight, was a sadder and wiser man today. He missed a wild swing at Paulino Uzcudun in the third round of their bout here yesterday and the Basque boxer promptly knocked him out with a left to the stomach and a right hook under the heart while Rojas was off balance.

Ban Lifting Postponed

By LES CONKLIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Dr. Otto Peltzer wants to run in three track meets in this country, but the Amateur Athletic Union has not yet sanctioned his application and will not hand down a decision in the matter until Wednesday—and certain clubs which have advertised the fleet doctor as a coming attraction are likely to receive a verbal spanking from the A. A. U.

This was the situation today in the great Peltzer mystery, which has the athletic world by the ears. Unlike President Coolidge, the good doctor chooses to run in 1928, but if a hearing on his case is delayed much longer he may not run in this country at all.

Peltzer telegraphed from Chicago, making formal application to run in the Millrose games here next Thursday, the Illinois A. C. games in Chicago on February 10 and the Knights of Columbus meet here on February 29. In reply, Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U., declined to grant the necessary sanction and summoned Peltzer to attend a meeting of the foreign relations committee of the A. A. U. here on Wednesday.

NO PERMIT GRANTED

Pointing out that Peltzer was without a permit to compete in any meet, Ferris then broadcast a statement branding as incorrect and misleading certain published stories that the German runner would compete in meets in Chicago, Boston and New York.

Ferris then issued another statement, which may begin a war between the National A. A. U. on the one side and the Illinois A. C. and the Millrose A. A., its two richest and most powerful member clubs, on the other. He said:

"Advertising of athletes by games committees without an official entry is a violation of A. A. U. rules, and this violation has been called to the attention of the registration committee of the respective districts in which these offenses have taken place."

Joseph A. Reilly, president of the Metropolitan Association, A. A. U., intimated that the A. A. U. might publicly reprimand the Millrose A. A. and the Illinois A. C., or even withdraw sanctions issued to those clubs to hold games in which they have announced Peltzer will run.

KECK

He thinks he'll be able to keep up the stiff pace, but I know he can't do it. Running 50 or 60 miles is one thing, but keeping it up day after day for a couple of months is a young man's sport—and it's not so much sport as it is work. Kolehmainen at 40 will find himself licked before he starts."

COMES a suggestion from Carl Shatto, our hockey and billiards expert, across the desk.

"If Army insists it cannot observe the three-year rule for its football players, yet finds it must maintain football as an exercise for its students, why doesn't it join one of the pro leagues, where it won't encounter any difficulty in conforming with everybody's ideas of eligibility?" he asks.

Not a bad thought, at that.

GAMES THIS WEEK

Tuesday—Pittsburgh at Les Canadiens; Americans at Boston; Montreal at Rangers; Toronto at Ottawa.

Thursday—Montreal at Ottawa; Toronto at Les Canadiens.

Saturday—Rangers at Pittsburgh; Canadiens vs. Montreal; Detroit at Toronto.

WITH the Pirate skaters in Montreal for their setto with Les Canadiens tomorrow night, the attention of the local hockey fans will be centered on the unique attraction booked at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night when the Cree and Ojibway Indian teams clash.

The red-skinned skaters arrived in town last night from Cleveland and are quartered at the North Side Y. M. C. A. There are 17 full-blooded Indians in the squad, and from reports of games played in other cities they are proficient skaters and stick handlers, and when on the ice, it is said, their enmity is reminiscent of the days when these tribes battled with the tomahawk and arrows.

While no league significance is attached to this game, one of the largest crowds of the season is expected to turn out to see the Indians battle each other on the steel blades. The game will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock and three regulation 20-minute periods will be played.

The next home game of the Pirates will be with Tex Rickard's New York Rangers here next Saturday night. This game should be a repetition of the hectic struggle with Boston Saturday night. The local lads have been unable to get a decision over the Gothamites so far, having lost two and tied one, but with the Bucs traveling at a fast clip and playing their best hockey of the season, the tide is expected to turn in the week-end tilt.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—After a hectic game the New York Rangers today had a bigger lead on the American sextet in the National League hockey sprint.

On Madison Square Garden ice last night, the Rangers whizzed over their Metropolitan rivals of the International group, the Americans, 7 to 6.

In the final period, the players swapped punches which resulted in four major penalties and as many fines at $25 per player.

More than 17,000 patrons jammed the rink and added to the excitement by pelting programs at the players.

Burch, Boyd, Johnson and Conacher were penalized with a major punishment and a fine of $25 for fighting and the game closed with the clubs down to four men each.

The victory put the Rangers a game and a half in front of Boston.

The Chicago outfit stumbled before Detroit by 4 goals to 2, the Cougars moving to a single point from the Bruins.

In the International group, the Maroons, Ottawa and Toronto are deadlocked for second place. The Canadiens still set the pace with 40 points which is high for the entire circuit.

LYCEUM LEAGUE FIVES TO BATTLE FRIDAY

St. Michael's Lyceum of the South Side and St. Joseph's Lyceum cage teams will play Friday evening at St. Joseph's Hall. This game is very important and a victory for either club will mean the second-half Lyceum league championship. The teams have met twice before, each club winning once. Followers of the teams are anxiously waiting for this game and are assured of seeing one of the best contests played on the St. Joseph's floor this season.

TRIO OF PITCHERS SIGNED BY WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Three promising amateur and semi-pro pitchers were signed by the Chicago White Sox baseball club today. NOTES of the BOXERS

JOEY NOVAK and Tug Phillips meet in the 10-round windup at Oil City tonight. Pete Zivic boxes Ward Sparks of Toledo at Mingo Junction, O., Benny Touchstone opposes Ernie Schaaf at Boston, Pete Nebo and Tony Canzoneri hook up at Philadelphia and Joe Chaney and Frankie Schaefer mix at Chicago.

Jackie Herman of Cleveland and Red Jaderberg of Jamestown, N. Y., will top a card of bouts at New Castle tonight. Joe Curley of Cleveland and Jimmy Kirkpatrick of Ellwood City will meet in the semifinal and Tony Casper of Cleveland and Mike Schreck of Wampum are paired for another six-rounder. Luis Vicentini, the Chilean lightweight, meets Joey Kaufman in a return bout in New York. He recently dropped a decision to Kaufman.

Garfield Johnson and Frankie Mahan have been matched for the 10-round main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night. Mahan hails from the West, but recently has been making his home in Philadelphia. He has boxed Leo Lomski, Roy Moore, Owen Phelps, Al Webster and other good ones.

Sandy Seifert has begun training for his eight-round windup bout with Battling Levinsky, which will feature the reopening show at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Matchmaker Johnny Ray is at work on his preliminary card.

Jack Zivic and Luke Carney, who handled him in his bout with Billy Light at St. Paul Friday night, stepped off in Pittsburgh yesterday to visit friends on the way back to New York. Both extolled the ability of Light, declaring he is one of the fastest and best young welterweights in the country and will go far in the game, but they said the no-decision verdict in favor of Billy which was broadcast out of St Paul was unfair to Zivic. "Zivic gave Billy a bad mauling in the latter rounds," Luke said, "and certainly didn't lose the fight." Jack, who despite his long residence in New York, still insists on being advertised as hailing from Pittsburgh, where his heart remains, has bouts pending with My Sullivan at Chicago and Sergt. Sammy Baker on the Coast. Baker meets Eddie Roberts at San Francisco tomorrow night.

The Joe Dundee-Clyde Hull bout at Cleveland, originally scheduled for tonight and postponed because of an injury to Dundee, has been rebooked for February 13.

Willie Davies, Charleroi flyweight, who has beaten Ernie Peters at Chicago and Ernie Jarvis of Toronto in his last two starts, has been matched with Billy Kelly of Scranton at Chicago Tuesday night of next week and will box either Frenchy Belanger or Corp. Izzy Schwartz at Toronto, February 20. His stablemate, Young Saylor, has a match pending with Walcott Langford at Chicago, February 17.

Maxie Rosenbloom and Phil Kaplan have been matched for the 10-round semi-final to the Mike McTigue-Leo Lomski bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, next Friday night.

TONY KAUFFMAN WEDS

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Tony Kaufman, former pitcher of the Chicago Cubs baseball club, and who expects to hurl for the Syracuse International League Club in 1928, was married Saturday to Miss Frances Brewersdorf of Chicago.

SHOTS and PASSES

by JULIUS LEVIN

THE two leaders in the second round of the Allegheny County League race face strong rivals tonight, the Goose Goslins entertaining the Butler Veterans of Foreign Wars at the South Side Market House, while the Duquesne Lafayettes travel to Braddock to meet the American Legion quintet.

The Goose Goslins are in the thick of the running for the second-round title and they are showing improvement with each contest. They cannot afford to lose a league battle at this stage and will be out to add the Butler passers to their list of victims tonight.

The Lafayettes, winners of the first round title and champions of last year, are taking nothing for granted in their clash with the Braddock quintet. While Braddock has not been going any too well in the County League to date, the team nevertheless is regarded as one of the best in the loop.

TWO games are scheduled tonight in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League race, the Sianos meeting the St. Catherine's passers at Columbus Temple, while the Reliance Life quintet opposes the McKees Rocks Business Men on the Hamilton School floor.

The Sianos, the only team to defeat the Champion J. J. Mieles in the second half of the schedule, are eager to strengthen their lead in the P. & O. League standing and are set to hand the Beechview passers a lacing tonight.

St. Catherines has been coming along in fine style and may extend the Sianos tonight.

The battle in McKees Rocks brings together the two new members of the league for the first time this season.

DRIBBLES

The Knickers meet the Schneiders and Heinz House plays Trinity in the two West Penn League games tonight.

The J. J Meile Jrs. are setting the pace in their league with five victories and no defeats. George Delvicchio, star of the Siano Club, is coaching the youngsters.

The Holy Cross A. A. C. has scored 29 straight victories so far this season and is making a determined bid to win the championship of its class. William (Lefty) Allen is playing a brilliant game for the Center avenue passers, scoring 11 field goals in a recent contest with St. Johns. Teams seeking games at home and abroad, write C. E. Pendleton, 2883 Terrace street, or call Mayflower 7956 between 6 and 7 o'clock.

The Goldensons are hard at work for their most important battle of the season next Friday night when they meet the Five Horsemen of Uniontown at the South Side Market House. Although the Goldensons have failed to win a game since dropping out of the P. & O. League, they are hopeful of breaking their losing streak Friday night. The usual preliminary game will precede the main attraction.

The Y. M. H. A. teams, the Varsity and the Reserves, advanced a step in the A. A. U. tournament, the Varsity winning by a forfeit from the Springdale Amicus, while the Reserves vanquished the Harmony Club.

Heidelberg Pressed In Loop Game

By TOM BIRKS.

MUSTARD HOLLOW made a fine effort to upset the national amateur champions, Heidelberg on the champs' own lot yesterday afternoon in American League competition, and while defeated, gave the champions a gruelling battle. The score of the game was 3 to 2 in favor of Heidelberg.

The game was the feature contest of the day. The scheduled Pittsburgh Soccer Club-McKees Rocks game at McKees Rocks was called off when Referee Corns decided that the field was in no condition to be used. Neither of the teams had their full strength present, however, only three Pittsburgh players reporting and only seven McKees Rocks stars being on hand in uniform. The Rox Club had quite a number of men standing around ready to dress had the balance of the Pittsburgh players arrived.

The remaining game in the American League found the Corinthians of Castle Shannon meeting the German Sport Club at West View field. In the absence of Referee George Lumsden, who was taken seriously ill on Sunday morning, Dobler of the German Sport Club handled the game. The Germans won a hard battle by a 2 goals to 1 score.

The Corinthians stated that Dobler refereed a good game, and according to reports the McKay outfit had more than its share of luck in one of the best games of the season at West View.

Only one game was scheduled in the International League, East Pittsburgh Magyars should have played Braddock United at Yost Boulevard grounds, but the contest was cancelled at the last moment.

A big surprise was sprung on the fans up the Monongahela river when the young Monongahela City team held Donora Thistles to a 1 goal to 0 score at Donora. It was figured that the Thistles would swamp the younger team from up the river, but the youngsters played hard and a single goal cost them the game.

Long's Sport Comment

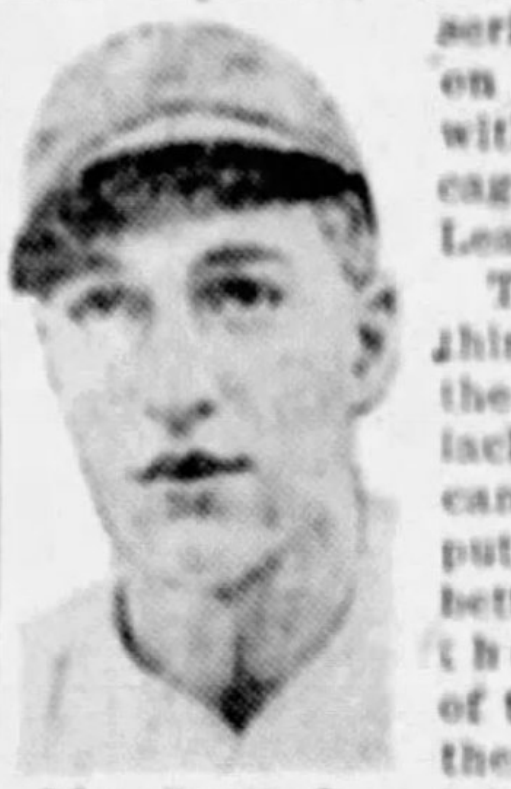
as Pirate commander, and it will not be due to any lack of alertness on his part if his team does not get away to another flying start in 1928.

ONE feature of the Corsairs' training program which has been added this year, and which promises to be very helpful to the locals and their prospects as pennant repeaters, is the scheduled series of games on the coast with the Chicago National League team.



Adam Comorosky

That's something else that the Pirates have lacked and that cannot fail to put them on a better edge for the beginning of the race than they could attain otherwise—a chance to meet some real major league opposition in the spring practice games.

It's all well enough to do the general conditioning work against minor league clubs, but to be properly prepared for the kind of opposition it must meet when the flag race gets under way a big league outfit must play against a foe of its own caliber.

THIS applies to pitching more than to anything else. That's the reason why most modern clubs send their battery men to camp a week ahead of the other players. It is desired to have the pitchers able to put something on the ball when the practice games begin, so that the batters will be facing real pitching and hitting practice will really amount to something.

Pie Traynor.

But what is gained in this way is lost later if only minor league pitching is encountered in the opening of the season.

"It is very hard for a club to show anything like its true form at the beginning of a season if it has batted only against minor league twirlers for two or three weeks," said Capt. Pie Traynor of the Pirates in discussing this feature. "If the batters have been looking at only minor league pitching they may be expected to be far below form when the season opens and they suddenly find themselves up against a far superior brand of slab work.

BY GETTING a chance to bat against such top-notch pitchers as Root, Carlson, Blake, Bush and the rest of the Cub chuckers in a series of practice games, the Pirates cannot fail to get their swatting eyes in better shape for the sort of pitching they must face when the real season opens than would be possible otherwise.

Encountering pitchers of that caliber in spring training games will serve another purpose, too. It must be borne in mind that one outfield position is open on the Pittsburgh team, and that while Adam Comorosky has the inside track for that place in the opinion of many, that youngster's chances are going to depend chiefly upon his hitting. He can field and run and throw, but no one knows yet just what he will be able to do against big league pitching for any length of time. The Cub games will be a good test for him to show how he compares in the hitting department with the other candidates for the vacant place on the picket line.

INCIDENTALLY, that Pirate-Cub series will have another feature of no little interest to Pittsburgh fans, for Hazen Cuyler will be in the Chicago lineup.

Kiki Cuyler

Cuyler's first meeting with major league opposition in his new role as one of Wrigley's warriors will be against the club that discarded him, and it is hardly necessary to say that Kiki will be out to "play his head off," not only out of a natural desire to make as good a start as possible with his new club, but in the hope of showing—for the time being, at least, though it will take the season itself to bring the answer—that the Pittsburgh club made a mistake in letting him go.

SPEAKER

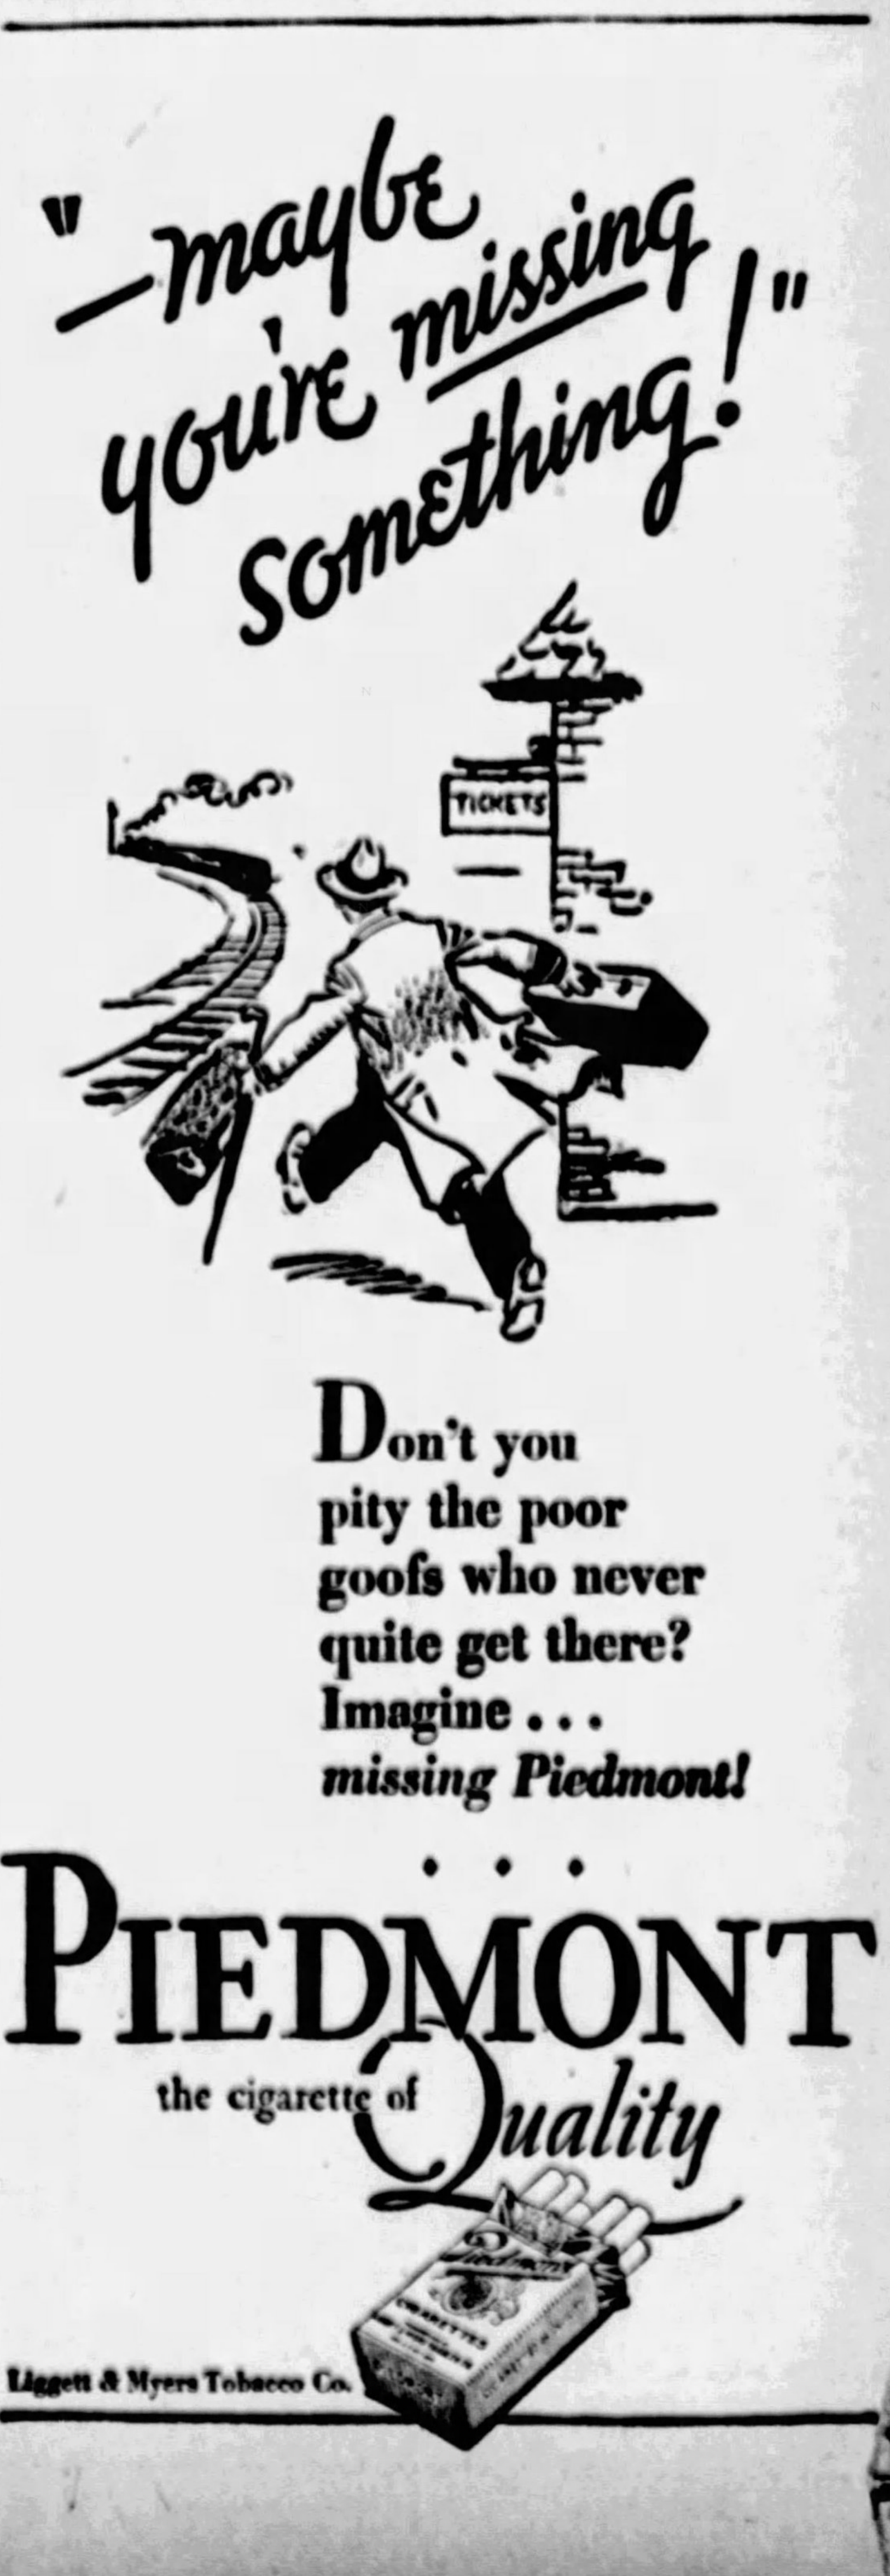
Wednesday and I would like to sign him for the Athletics before I get away.

"Whether anything comes of it or not, I am going to talk terms with him. Speaker wants to play with the Athletics and we want Speaker. It all hinges on the matter of salary. His unconditional release by Washington does not become effective until Wednesday, probably because that is the date on which the waiver period is up. For that reason there may be no announcement as to Speaker's signing, if we do sign him, until later in the week."



"—maybe you're missing Something!"

Don't you pity the poor goofs who never quite get there? Imagine . . . missing Piedmont!

Farrell In Exclusive Talk, Tells of Steel Recovery.

—By B. C. FORBES—

JAMES A. FARRELL, chief executive of the United States Steel Corporation, tells me that the steel industry has taken on a new lease of life in almost every department and that good business is assured during the whole of the first half of this year.

A modest advance in prices, about $2 a ton for steel products and 50 cents a ton for pig iron, has been made possible because, first, the industry was operating on an utterly inadequate profit basis, and, second, improvement in demand has set in.

This is distinctly encouraging news, not only in itself, but because it reflects quickening in many lines of industry into which steel enters.

MR. FARRELL is noted for the soundness and conservatism of his statements. He is not a perpetual spouter of sunshine. He believes that it is best in the long run to stick to facts, to the exact truth.

So unsatisfactory have steel profits been for some time, due to over-production, that even Charles M. Schwab, who frankly declares "Everybody knows I am always an optimist," has been emphasizing the need for improving the return of the millions of capital invested in steel plants and properties.

The moderate recovery in steel prices is, therefore, to be welcomed as a desirable economic development. No responsible steel master has been anxious to see wages reduced, a step which has been resorted to by the textile industry.

"THE cheapest thing in the modern skyscraper is the steel," observed Mr. Farrell. "And by far the biggest item in the cost of steel is wages. Notwithstanding all the raw materials which enter into steelmaking, and notwithstanding the high transportation costs, the main determining factor in the final cost is labor. Yet, in face of the tremendous rise in the price of practically all raw materials and the doubling of wages in recent years, steel is selling today at 2 cents a pound or a trifle less."

DISCUSSING the latest developments, Mr. Farrell said. "There has been substantial improvement in demand for steel. It set in last October and has already been sufficient to increase production from 65 per cent to better than 80 per cent of capacity today.

"Prices for the heavier products have advanced about $2 a ton since October and pig iron has advanced about 50 cents a ton, which is a fair relative advance.

"It had become absolutely necessary to secure better prices in order that the steel companies should live and be able to earn anything like a reasonable return to investors."

"WHAT sources has the better demand come from?" I asked.

"Construction is keeping up remarkably well—office buildings, railway stations, commercial buildings, etc." replied Mr. Farrell.

"There has been some increase in ordering by automobile manufacturers. The railroads are ordering larger quantities, especially for new freight cars, as well as for passenger cars. Oil demand is fairly good for tankage and also for pipe lines.

"TIN plate business promises to be very good. The canning industry was curtailed to some extent by small crops in certain places last year. The indications are that large acreage will be planted this year and a larger business done.

"Agricultural implement buying is running 10 per cent better than last year.

"Altogether, we are looking forward to good business during the first half of this year."

COMING from so authoritative and dependable a source, the foregoing assurances should have a very beneficial effect upon business sentiment throughout the country.

One gathers in talking with James A. Farrell, the ex-laborer who at 47 became president of the billion-dollar steel corporation and who recently succeeded Judge Gary as the chief executive officer, that he has infinite faith in the industry to which he has given his life. Jim Farrell is a solid, matter-of-fact citizen who feels safer in being connected with so basic a product as steel than if he were identified with any of the so-called "luxury" industries. Luxuries come and go in popularity, but steel, like Tennyson's brook, goes on forever. Therefore, Farrell can say, with Roosevelt when he was President of the United States, "I like my job."

MAY I add that there is no foundation whatever for the Wall Street talk of plans for a nited States Steel stock dividend anything else of the kind?

CREDIT SIGNS PUT STOCK LIST OFF

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(AP.)—Pronounced reactionary tendencies developed in today's stock market in apparent reflection of speculative uneasiness over the credit situation. Call monney renewed at 4½ per cent but advanced to 5 in the early afternoon as banks called $25,000,000 in loans, presumably in anticipation of month-end settlements. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume.

The stock market had disregarded the stiffening of time money and commercial paper rates last week. Buying operations had centered largely, however, in a limited assortment of pool specialties but the failure of small buyers to follow the advance led to heavy profit-taking and a resumption of bear selling.

Pessimistic forecasts of the quarterly report of the United States Steel Corporation, which is to be made public after the close of the market tomorrow, and the publication of additional poor December railroad earnings also were a factor in the decline. One bright spot in the day's business news from a stock market standpoint, was the advance in woolen prices of fall goods.

Operators for the advance did not entirely give up the struggle. Hudson Motors was bid up nearly 3 points to a new top for the year at 88⅞, and Bayuk Cigars advanced 4 points to a new record high for all time at 117.

WINDOW GLASS PFD. LOWER

Lower prices were in evidence during the early part of the session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. There was no noticeable pressure, however, and such recessions as were recorded were of fractional proportions as a rule,

Widest decline in the market was a drop of 4 points in Consolidated Ice preferred, which sold at 25 as against the last previous sale a few days ago at 29. On the advance a few weeks ago Ice preferred registered a high at 30 a share, its best price since 1923. According to street rumors the company is planning sale of part of its real estate, which may result in extinguishment of dividend arrearage on the preferred.

Carnegie Metals was narrow around 24½ during the forenoon, with business showing a moderate shrinkage from the volume of the last week or so.

American Window Glass preferred was a little heavy and sank fractionally below 85, the low so far on the present movement. Only small lots of the issue were handled.

The miscellaneous list displayed little inclination of breaking out of the trading range to which most of the stocks have held since the middle of the month. Slight changes on the down side were offset by equally small advances with the average of the main list showing but slight variation from Saturday's final figures.

During the afternoon session Carnegie Metals gave ground and sank lower under the weight of further profit-taking but there was urgency evident in the selling.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Underlying Conditions Sound.

Underlying business conditions are sound, but the trends "present a confused picture" and do not indicate what may be expected in the immediate future in the way of business recovery, the National Industrial Conference Board declared today. The board studied these trends "as reflected in wholesale commodity and retail price movements, volume of employment and wage earnings." Industrial wage earnings have shown "marked stability at a high level," according to the board. This level was declared to have averaged 116 per cent higher in the last three years than in July, 1914. Although wholesale commodity prices have tended upward since last April, retail prices have not followed this trend, the board said. This fact left it uncertain, in the board's view, whether the upward turn of wholesale prices is of a permanent character and reflects increasing demand for materials.

Deere & Co.

Report of Deere & Co. for year ended October 31, 1927, shows net income of $8,167,996 after interest, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equivalent to $23.74 a share earned on 315,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock, comparing with $7,442,650 or $23.22 a share on 330,000 shares of preferred in previous year. After allowing for only 7 per cent regular annual preferred dividend requirements, balance is equal to $32.97 a share on 178,644 shares of common stock, against $29.89 a share on common in preceding fiscal year. Company has now paid all dividends in arrears on preferred stock.

General Railway Signal.

Bulls on General Railway Signal received somewhat of a shock when they received their annual report, not so much from earnings of $7.74 a share, compared with $11.61 a share in the preceding year as from the comments of the president on present and future business. The statement that "volume of orders on hand is half what it was a year ago, and monthly output is now and will continue to be substantially below that of either 1925 or 1927 until a marked improvement takes place," was anything but encouraging.

Stanley Company of America.

Preliminary report of Stanley Company of America and subsidiaries for year ended December 31, 1927, shows net profit of $2,225,337 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc. In 1926 company reported profit of $2,144,909 before depreciation. Gross receipts for 1927 amounted to $27,683,024, compared with $22,949,612 in 1926.

P. R. R.'s Dividend Record.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company during 1927 distributed $34,348,599 in dividends to stockholders located in every state in the union and nearly every quarter of the globe. With the four quarterly disbursements made in 1927, total cash dividends paid since the company's organization, 81 years ago, aggregate $143,396,984.62. Including stock and scrip dividends and stock allotment rights, the total return to Pennsylvania share owners has been not much less than a billion dollars. Its total assets exceed $2,100,000,000. Its 80-year unbroken cash dividend record explains the popularity of Pennsylvania shares with conservative investors.

Vanadium Corporation.

Vanadium has been showing the influence of the accumulation in progress in the stock for several weeks. Important interests who purchased at much lower levels have not been attracted into taking profits despite the good advance already recorded. Much is expected from the company's new developments in the chemical field.

Kroger Grocery.

Kroger Grocery, one of the newcomers on the New York Exchange, has been acting well since its listing, despite the fact that many who had purchased on the curb were waiting for the stock to go on the big board to take profits. The company operates a chain of 3,744 stores in the Middle West and has been increasing its business from year to year. In 1927 sales were $161,239,424, compared with $146,009,373 in 1926. Dividends have been paid every year since incorporation in 1902. There are 1,016,423 shares of common outstanding. The present dividend rate is $1 annually.

Southern Railway Report.

Southern Railway Company reports for the year 1927 net income of $21,499,904 after fixed charges, equal to $14.40 on the common, against $23,596,721 or $15.87 a share in 1926.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—There were no sales in the raw sugar market early today and prices were unchanged at 4.40c for Cuban duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market was quieter and prices were easier under liquidation and commission house selling, evidently prompted by a disappointing London market and the failure of demand for refined sugar to improve. The market opened unchanged to 3 points lower, and continued within that range until midday, when it was net 1 to 2 points lower.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.90c for fine granulated, but demand was light and confined to nearby requirements only.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 9 to 19 points, active months selling 17 to 22 points net higher in early trading on rather active covering and fresh buying supposed to be for both trade and investment account.

Demand evidently was promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables, reports that notwithstanding recent low temperatures, there was still danger of boll weevil damage to the coming crop, and a theory that the recent decline in prices might have a tendency to check increase in acreage.

May sold up to 17.74c and October to 17.42c, and while the advance met further liquidation and southern selling, prices were within a few points of the best at the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported trade calling, covering and buying for a reaction in Liverpool, but that the Manchester cotton goods trade was depressed with business restricted.

$35,000,000

National Dairy Products Corporation

5¼% Gold Debentures due 1948

To be dated February 1, 1928 To mature February 1, 1948

Coupon Debentures of $1,000 and $500. Principal and interest payable at the office in New York of Goldman, Sachs & Co., Fiscal Agents. Interest payable February 1 and August 1, without deduction for any Federal income tax not in excess of 2% per annum. Pennsylvania 4 mills tax and Massachusetts income tax not exceeding 6% per annum refundable upon proper application. Redeemable at any time in whole or in part on 30 days' notice at 103½ and accrued interest if redeemed prior to February 1, 1934, with successive reductions in the redemption price of ¼ of 1% on February 1, 1934 and on each February 1 thereafter to and including February 1, 1947, upon and after which date the redemption price shall be the principal amount and accrued interest.

THE EQUITABLE TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, Trustee.

The Indenture will provide for a semi-annual Purchase Fund commencing August 1, 1929, in amount sufficient to redeem 1½% of the total principal amount of Debentures of this series which shall have been theretofore issued, to be applied to the purchase of Debentures of this series if obtainable at or below the current redemption price or to the redemption thereof if not so obtainable. In lieu of cash the Company may tender Debentures of this series, at the current redemption price.

Information regarding the Company and this issue of Debentures is set forth in a letter from Mr. Thomas H. McInnerney, President of the Company, copies of which may be had from the undersigned upon request. Mr. McInnerney has summarized in part his letter as follows:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS

National Dairy Products Corporation, since its incorporation in Delaware in December, 1923, has acquired (either directly or through subsidiaries) companies engaged in the milk, ice cream and dairy products business in many cities, including the following:

New York	Sheffield Farms Company, Inc.
"	Breyer Ice Cream Company, Inc.
"	Hydrox Ice Cream Company, Inc.
Chicago	*Hydrox Corporation
"	Chapell Ice Cream Company, Inc.
"	Consolidated Buttermilk Corporation
Philadelphia	Breyer Ice Cream Company
"	Supplee-Wills-Jones Milk Company
Pittsburgh	Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Company
Milwaukee	Luick Ice Cream Company
Newark	The J. T. Castles Ice Cream Company
Kansas City	The Franklin Ice Cream Corporation
Memphis	Clover Farm Dairy Company
Omaha	*Harding Cream Company
Nashville	Nashville Pure Milk Company

* 99.9% of common stock owned.
 78.7% of common stock owned.

The business of the Company and its subsidiaries includes the wholesale and retail distribution of milk, cream, butter and other dairy products, and the manufacture and wholesale distribution of ice cream, beverages, condensed milk, butter, semi-solid buttermilk, dried buttermilk, milk powder, milk sugar, casein, and other milk by-products.

ASSETS

The consolidated balance sheet as at November 30, 1927, prepared from the books of the Company and its subsidiaries by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co. (subject to completion of the examination now in progress), after giving effect to this financing and the transactions incident thereto, shows consolidated net tangible assets of $70,268,564.49, or equivalent to more than $2,000 for each $1,000 Debenture. The market value of the outstanding preferred and common stocks of National Dairy Products Corporation, based on current quotations, amounts to approximately $110,000,000.

SALES AND PROFITS

The combined net sales and net profits from operations of the Company and all its present subsidiaries (including earnings during 1925 and 1926 of an additional business presently to be acquired), after all charges (including ample depreciation) except Federal income taxes and interest on consolidated funded debt and dividends on preferred stocks of subsidiary companies to be retired, and after deducting the proportion of profits applicable to minority common stock holdings of subsidiaries, but before interest on this issue of Debentures, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Co., have been as follows:

Years Ended Dec. 31	Net Sales	Profits as defined above	Number Times Interest on the Debentures
1924	$113,905,387.48	$ 9,428,467.48	5.13
1925	138,121,575.54	12,133,227.59	6.60
1926	143,930,548.41	14,413,595.98	7.84

The corresponding figures for the year ended December 31, 1927, based on the figures as shown by the books to November 30, 1927 (subject to completion of the examination now in progress) and as estimated by the management for the month of December, are as follows:

1927	$152,350,000.00	$14,575,000.00	7.93

The annual average of such net profits for the 4 years ended December 31, 1927 amounted to $12,637,572, or 6.87 times the interest requirements on this issue of Debentures.

PURPOSE AND INDENTURE

These Debentures will be the direct obligations of the Company and will constitute its sole consolidated funded indebtedness presently to be outstanding in the hands of the public, except for certain indebtedness of subsidiaries, funds for the acquisition or retirement of which are to be provided from the proceeds of this issue. The balance of the proceeds will be used to acquire or retire the entire preferred stocks of subsidiaries, to pay in part for certain additional assets, and to increase working capital. Additional Debentures of this series or of other series may be issued subject to certain restrictions to be set forth in the Indenture. Certain terms and provisions of the Indenture may be modified with the consent of the holders of not less than 80% of the outstanding Debentures.

The Company has agreed to make application in due course to list these Debentures on the New York Stock Exchange.

A portion of these Debentures has been reserved for exchange for subsidiary companies' funded debt and preferred stocks and to pay in part for certain additional assets. We offer the balance at

99 and accrued interest, to yield about 5.33%

The National Dairy Products Corporation 6% Collateral Trust Notes, which have been called for redemption on March 28, 1928, at 103½ and accrued interest, will be accepted in payment for these Debentures on a 4½% discount basis computed on the redemption price from date of delivery to date of redemption, provided notice of the amount of such notes to be tendered in payment is received not less than five days prior to the date fixed for delivery and payment for these Debentures.

This offering is made subject to allotment or prior sale and in all respects when, as and if issued, and accepted by us and subject to the approval of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell. We reserve the right to reject any and all subscriptions in whole or in part. It is expected that delivery of temporary Debentures or interim receipts will be made on or about February 15, 1928, at the office of Goldman, Sachs & Co., 30 Pine Street, New York, against payment therefor in New York funds.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA—In the matter of FRANK ZASLOFF, individually and trading as Z-B CANDY & TOBACCO COMPANY, a bankrupt. No. 13847, in Bankruptcy.

ORDER OF COURT.

And now, to wit: January 27th, 1928, the foregoing petition presented in open court, and upon consideration thereof, and on motion of H. M. Stein, Esq., counsel for petitioner, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed that a meeting of the creditors of FRANK ZASLOFF, individually and trading as Z-B CANDY & TOBACCO COMPANY, be called at the office of WATSON B. ADAIR, referee in bankruptcy, in the St. Nicholas Building, corner of Fourth avenue and Grant street, Pittsburgh, Pa., on the 10th day of February, 1928, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the allowance of claims, the examination of said bankrupt, the preservation and conduct of his estate, and for consideration by the creditors at said meeting of such offer of composition as said bankrupt may submit to them; at which meeting the said referee shall preside; that the said referee shall report to this court, within four days after said meeting, the claims of the creditors allowed by him, the action of said creditors upon the offer of composition, his findings and conclusions upon the same, and any other proceeding had before him on said matter, and shall give notice to the creditors at said meeting, that the terms of composition, if accepted by the requisite number of creditors, will be presented to the court for final confirmation on the 14th day of February, 1928, at 10 o'clock a. m. It is further directed that notice of this order shall be given by the clerk of this court, by mailing a copy thereof to each of said creditors, and by publishing a copy thereof in the Sun-Telegraph of Pittsburgh, Pa., and in the Pittsburgh Legal Journal. It is further ordered that the action on the petition for adjudication of said bankrupt be postponed until final determination of the action of the creditors on such offer of composition.

PER CURIAM.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that on December 16, 1927, Honorable J. W. McIntosh, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, issued a certificate to "THE FORBES NATIONAL BANK OF PITTSBURGH," authorizing it to commence to do business, in the form following:

NO. 18.

AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the Franklin Refining Company, their successors and assigns, the right to construct, maintain and use a standard gauge switch track and weigh scale on Nixon Street at the Pennsylvania Railroad Crossing, end of said Street, for the purpose of unloading materials, etc., and weighing of same for the Franklin Refining Company, 21st Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Franklin Refining Company, their successors and assigns be and they are hereby given the right and authority at their own cost and expense to construct, maintain and use a standard gauge switch track on Nixon Street, extending from the south property line into Nixon Street for a distance of 26', located 9' from right-of-way of the Pennsylvania Railroad to the center line of said side track and parallel thereto and extending weigh scale on the south sidewalk located 5½' west of the center line of switch track and parallel thereto, for the purpose of unloading material, etc., and weighing of same for the Franklin Refining Company, 21st Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Said Track and weigh scale shall be constructed in accordance with the provisions of this ordinance and in accordance with the plans hereto attached, and identified as Accession No. B-322, Folder "B," in the Files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works, entitled, "Proposed switch track and weigh scale on Nixon Street for the Franklin Refining Company, 21st Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa."

Section 2. The said Company, prior to the beginning of construction of track and weigh scale, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh, a complete set of plans showing location, paving, repaving, sewering and all details for the construction of said track and weigh scale and the said plans and construction of track and weigh scale shall be subject to the approval and supervision of the Director of the Department of Public Works.

Section 3. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the city of Pittsburgh and its powers over City streets, and to the ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and to the provisions of any general ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of tracks and weigh scales on City streets and compensation for same.

Section 4. The said grantee shall bear the full cost and expense of the repaving and repair of the street pavement damaged, repair of sewers, water lines and other surface and subsurface structures which may be in any way damaged or disturbed by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of said track and weigh scale. All of the said work, including the repaving of the streets damaged, shall be done in the manner and at such time as the Director may order, and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.

Section 5. The rights and privileges granted by this ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of said track and weigh scale upon giving thirty (30) days' notice through the proper officers, pursuant to resolution or ordinance of Council to the said Franklin Refining Company, their successors and assigns to that effect, and that the said grantee shall, when so notified, at the expiration of the said thirty (30) days, forthwith, remove the said track and weigh scale and replace the street to its original condition at its own cost and expense.

Section 6. The said grantee shall assume any liability of the City of Pittsburgh for damages to persons or property, including the street and sub-surface structures therein, by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of the said track and weigh scale, and it is a condition of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.

Section 7. The foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to the following condition, to-wit:—This ordinance shall become null and void unless within thirty (30) days after its passage and approval, the Franklin Refining Company, shall file with the City Controller their certificate of acceptance of the provisions thereof, said certificate to be executed by the President and Secretary of the Company, with its corporate seal attached.

Section 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

THIS WAGGISH WORLD

by Roy K. Moulton

ALL MODERN UNIMPROVEMENTS.

OUR realty bulletin from Washington informs us that hopeful young couples are still examining the Executive Mansion at Washington, but no four-year lease has yet been signed. There seems to be some reason why a lot of them do not fancy the White House as a place of residence. There is no reason why it should not satisfy anybody. It has all modern unimprovements, excepting that you can make those cute little ice cubes in the horseless refrigerator.

THERE are a good many drawbacks to living in the White House, and some very desirable tenants do not regard it favorably. It was thought for some time that the Longworths, a prominent Cincinnati young couple, might take it, but there was something wrong with the house the day they looked at it; probably the dumb-waiter was stuck or there may have been a little wallpaper off the hall ceiling. Those things always do happen just at the wrong time.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawes, of Evanston, Ill., have called and looked the place over several times, but are understood to have reached a decision not to take it. Charlie was quite taken with the back porch and thought he would like to sit out there in the evening in his sock-feet and smoke his pipe, but the United States Marine Band plays out there then, and really, all in all, there is little privacy for a quiet family.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, the present tenants, have been very obliging about letting people see over the house, and everybody knows what a nuisance that is. A woman has to keep her housework right up to the handle and not leave any old slippers lying around nor pipe ashes on the mantle.

ONE thing that is believed to be keeping many from occupying the "old Adams place," as some old-timers call it, is that a tenant has to be pretty well recommended, and, on the other hand, the landlord is a little slow about improvements. The Coolidges had the awfulest time getting a new roof put on. It is rumored they found three or four British soldiers hidden up in the attic who had been there ever since the War of 1812.

The White House has few very modern improvements, such as radio plugs in every room. It seems as though the present occupants have something to do besides sit and listen to the radio day and night. There are also other drawbacks. The place is hardly secluded enough for the average Washington official family. People seem to think the place belongs to them, and they climb through it like a party of Cook's tourists swarming the Coliseum at Rome.

When the distinguished tenant, whoever he may be, is engaged in taking a bath or reading the Sunday paper in his stocking feet, he does not care to be interrupted by a delegation from the Oskaloosa Rotary Club or a Canajoharie, N. Y., Sunday school trooping through the apartment and feeling his lounging robe to see if it is silk or just a good imitation.

WHEN dinner is on the table and his family are rarin' to go, it does not add to the appetite to have 15 or 20 members of the Red Dog, Wyo., Chamber of Commerce standing about and looking hungry. Then sometimes the embarrassment is heightened when there is distinguished company at table, like a Greek ambassador or a Swedish minister plenipotentiary, who has something private to say to the President.

In the old days Thomas Jefferson used to throw open the doors and invite everybody in to eat a meal of vittles. Now they come in anyhow. Perhaps you have noticed that when you have been in the neighborhood of the Executive Mansion at meal time and have felt hungry.

It is hoped, however, in the best circles that some patriot and his wife will overlook all these disadvantages and will keep the old house open another four years. Even Democrats have been known to come to the rescue in such emergencies.

It certainly would be a shame to leave the mansion vacant for four years, and it is hoped no more possible tenants will back out.

Francies Incident Offers Suggestion as to Audit

County Treasurer John Francies has asked the Court of Common Pleas to enlighten him as to the ownership and distribution of about $9,000, accumulated interest on daily bank balances represented in cash bail deposited by persons during his term as clerk of the Court of Quarter Sessions, January, 1924, until November, 1927.

When Judge James B. Drew recovered from his surprise he commended Mr. Francies and remarked that he believed it to be the first case on record in which a county official "has come into court to find out how to get rid of money."

One reason Mr. Francies is puzzled is that he feels sure the money does not belong to him, personally, although it is said that similar funds have been looked upon in some county offices as a kind of perquisite of the office. Another is that, eliminating himself, he does not know whether the money should go to the county or the persons who deposited the principal on which the interest was earned. His petition requests that the judgment of the court be a guide not only for him, but for other officers in a similar position.

Let us add our commendation of County Treasurer Francies. Diogenes would surely spy him first were he to make a lantern trip through the court house. Friends of Mr. Francies say the action is typical of him. They assert he has virtually turned things upside down in the county treasury quarters and that the turn is one that is good for the public.

Incidentally, the situation contains a suggestion to the county commissioners in relation to the audit. What Mr. Francies has brought to light may have existence elsewhere. Now is a good time to find out by incorporating an investigation with the audit proceedings. Little leaks and "perquisites" here and there that are not warranted by law or morals should be stopped if they exist.

When this audit is completed the county should know where it stands and the public should know where the county stands. There should be a new set of books. They should be kept in such shape that there would be no danger of any county official ever being unable to distinguish between his own money and the county's hereafter.

And if there should be any doubt, let him do as Mr. Francies has done.

You May Travel in This

Soon It Will Carry New York-to-London Passengers

NEW YORK TO LONDON IN THIS SHIP—FARE $500.

This is no imaginary ship. The British Air Ministry is building it at this moment, and building another like it to carry passengers from London to New York and back. And it is expected that regular passenger-carrying trips will be made next Spring.

An American has already booked the first passage, paying $500 for the trip, which is expected to last only 48 hours.

Many people, buyers for big stores, business men in a hurry, will pay the $500 and save eight days at least on the European round trip. The fare as a matter of fact is cheaper than for luxurious accommodation on big ocean liners, which think nothing of charging from $1,000 to $5,000 for their best rooms.

This lighter than air ship will have 6,000 horsepower, is 700 feet long and 130 feet in diameter. It will carry a crew of 35 men and 100 passengers and go 80 miles an hour.

The trans-Atlantic airship and its sister ship have gas bags made of metal, duralumin, not silk. Three decks on the air liner include a large ballroom for dancing, a dining room to seat 50 at a time. The ships cost $2,250,000 each. If they go fully loaded they should do well, making at least two round trips and taking in $100,000 a week.

If this British program, carried out by the British Air Minister, goes through successfully, navigation across the ocean and through the air will really have begun.

The flying machine is an American invention. The British are to be congratulated on having the energy to make it a PRACTICAL invention ahead of the nation that invented it.

Great Britain has long ruled the waves, and sings about it, is proud of it. Now she means to rule the AIR, and she probably will, judging by the lack of speed in our aviation.

Who Got the Balance Of the $3,000,000 Pot?

Another step has been taken in unraveling the major political scandal of the century—Secretary Fall's corruption in connection with leasing the Naval Oil Reserves.

M. T. Everhart, Secretary Fall's son-in-law, testified that just after Teapot Dome had been leased to Sinclair under conditions which the United States Supreme Court declared collusive and corrupt, Sinclair gave Fall $233,000 in bonds. Everhart, who handled the bonds, understood that they represented payments for a third interest in Fall's ranch lands in New Mexico, to be developed as a sporting and recreational preserve.

If this was the purpose of the payment, why did Sinclair and Fall refuse to testify regarding it? Why did Everhart exhaust every recourse of law to keep from telling about it, on the ground that it would incriminate him?

Everhart's disclosure merely confirms what everybody believed: That the $233,000 of Liberty bonds traced to Fall actually came from Sinclair. The bonds were bought with part of the $3,000,000 clandestinely accumulated in inter-company oil sales by the Continental Trading Company, a phantom Canadian concern, mysteriously dissolved after these profits had been made.

What the public wants to know is the purpose for which the balance of this $3,000,000 was expended.

Moreover, the public has a fighting chance to find out, with the Senate investigation in the hands of the bulldog Senator Walsh of Montana, responsible for what we already know.

Everhart adds the latest to the Canterbury Tales told by unwilling oil pilgrims to Washington.

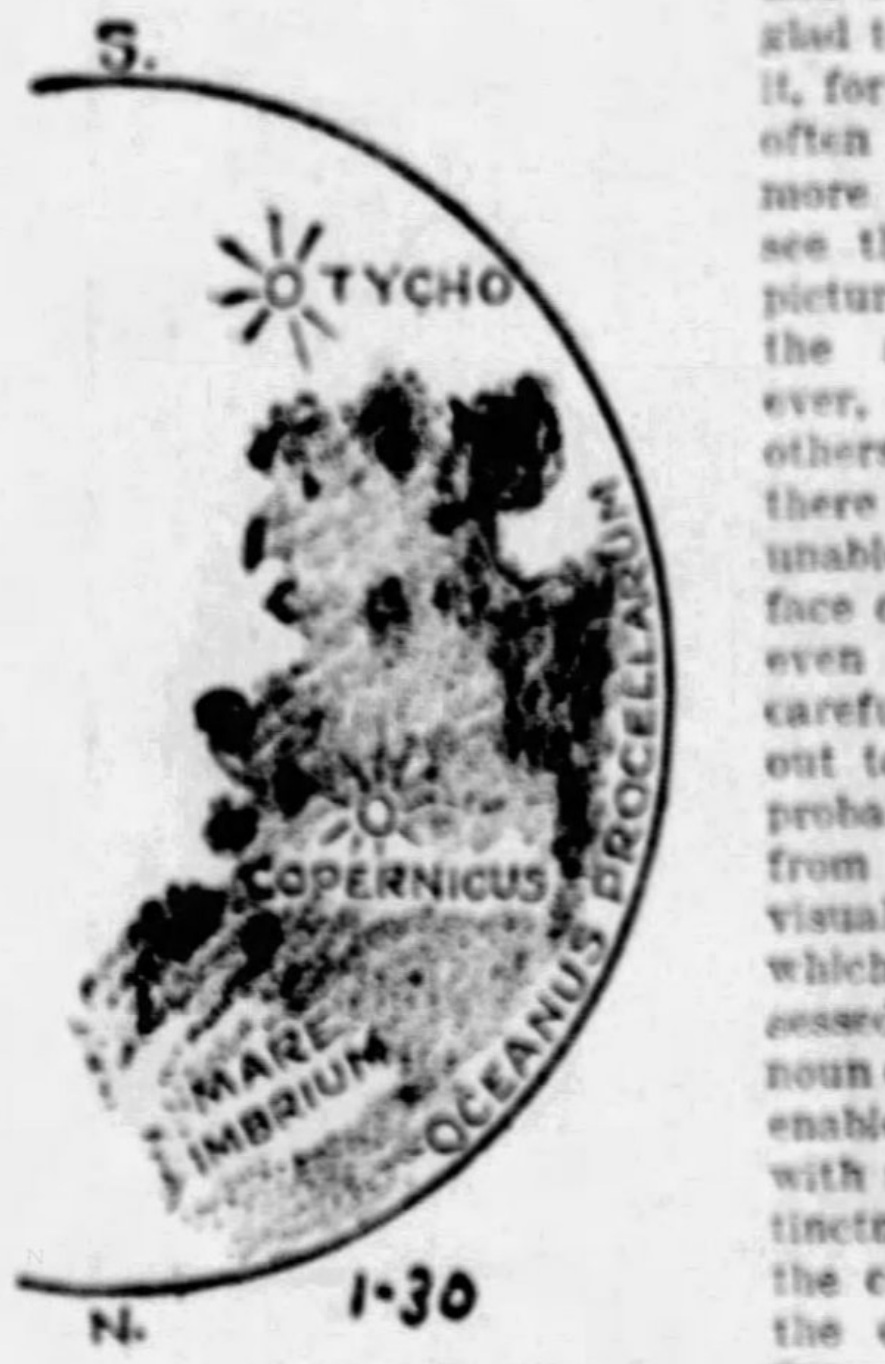
That Face in the Moon

SINCE I wrote about "The Moon Maiden" and tried to represent her in a sketch—which, I confess, was libelously unlike the lovely original—I have had a number of letters from people who have seen her, making various suggestions about her resemblance to terrestrial beauties.

"Just as Old Woman" in Cleveland writes that she was past fifty when she discovered the Moon Maiden, and that she was glad to read about it, for she "has so often wished that more people could see this beautiful picture hung in the sky." However, she finds, as others do, that there are persons unable to see the face on the moon, even when it is carefully pointed out to them. This probably arises from a lack of the visualizing faculty, which, when possessed to a pronounced degree, enables one to see, with startling distinctness, faces in the clouds and in the embers of a fire.



THE OLD WOMAN ON THE EASTERN SIDE OF THE MOON. (TELESCOPIC VIEW.)

But there is the picture of an old woman, too, on the moon. At a still greater risk of libel, though I am well backed by photographs, I offer a sketch of her. Her engaging profile, which after all is not more ill-humored than that of a barnyard fowl, is to be found on the eastern side of the moon's disk, at full moon. It fronts and in fact its outlines dovetail into those of the maiden. But its position is upside down for the naked eye, though it is upright as seen in a telescope, for all astronomical telescopes reverse the objects looked at, top for bottom and right for left. If you will just reverse the accompanying sketch you will perceive how the two outlines fit together, the old woman's hooked nose forming the maiden's merry mouth. Use a very low power with the telescope. A magnifying power of 20 is ample.

You may amuse yourself by finding other imaginary faces on the moon, and I hope you will, for the sake of the knowledge that it will give you, involuntarily almost, of the wonderful features of that little lunar world which so faithfully accompanies the earth and whose child, according to many astronomers, it surely is, having been born from its terrestrial mother's side by "tidal friction," untold ages ago.

When once you begin to study the moon with a telescope—no matter how small—you must be intellectually dull and incurious if you do not find it an absorbingly interesting occupation to watch the play of light and shade upon its great plains and mountains and the alternate advance and retreat of the line of sunrise and sunset, which is thrown into sinuous curves and broken and distorted in marvelous ways as it crawls across the uplands, climbs the steep peaks and drops to the bottoms of the mighty crater rings. Besides, there is a good chance for industrious amateurs to discover something new upon the moon.

A Worthwhile Mind

WHY are you so dissatisfied?

You feel that you have good reason to be.

There are several things you want that you cannot get.

There is a social position to attain which is always beyond you.

So you let these trifles rob your life of its sweetness.

But why punish yourself over things that really amount to so little?

There is a bigger, broader sphere of life than the petty rounds you long to make your own.

The happiest people are those who have something within their minds upon which they can draw as occasion demands—who go about day after day doing things that interest them.

If your mind is full enough of worthwhile things, you won't be dependent upon others for enjoyment.

You may have a full cup of joy by just going your own righteous way.

It is worth something to keep yourself free of obligations that are irksome.

If you are making the most of your time, you will be happy.

Tales That Are Told

A Convincing Argument

GRAMOPHONES were his line, so much down and so much a week. As he knocked at the door of a certain house he remembered that he had been there before and received a curt dismissal. This time, however, it was different.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" said the housewife cordially. "Come in, won't you?"

Two minutes later he found himself in a room with five children, howling and squabbling and creating a terrible racket. The woman had locked the door and gone off to do her shopping.

After an hour had passed she returned.

"Now," she said sweetly, "if you still think that I need more music in this house, I am ready to listen to you."

Without a word the salesman reached for his hat and quietly left the room.

Just as Good

THERE was no gainsaying the fact that Constable Roberts was on outsize. His feet covered quite a large area when placed together, and they left deep impressions where he stood.

So perhaps the little girl who was spreading sandy gravel over the garden path may be forgiven if, as the worthy officer passed the gate for the second time in five minutes, she ran across to him.

"May I ask you something?" she inquired.

"Ask away, missie," beamed the constable, and tucked his thumbs into his belt.

"Then would you mind walking up and down my path a bit—it's so uneven and I haven't got a roller."—London Answers.

DEAR K. C. B.: Some days ago I read your article on the subject of Dad's manners. I disagree with this and take exception to it. If my Dad wants to put his elbows on the table, he can. If he wants to dip his toast in his coffee, he can. If he wants to do anything that is not the exact form, he can. I, nor any other son, has the right to criticize him. He brought me up and taught me all I know, so evidently he must know what's what. Unexpected

MRS. COOPER had invited the Coles to dinner, and was waiting for her husband to come in before starting the meal.

"I say," remarked Mrs. Coles suddenly. "Let Charlie and I hide behind the curtain, and when Jack comes in you can tell him we haven't turned up. Afterwards we'll step out and surprise him.'

Soon after Mr. Cooper came in. He saw the empty chairs and the extra places laid, and he raised an inquiring eyebrow to his wife.

"The Coles couldn't come after all," she said.

"Hurrah!" yelled her husband loudly, and sat down.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay abed late listening to sleet against the panes and what with the rattle of a cocktail shaker next door, quite a commotion. This day I articled to write for newspapers for three more years.

Took breakfast with Will Hogg and he spoke not a word, being vexed with me for some good reason, but I ate heartily withal, and so home, where came Victor Polachek and Ray Long to talk awhile. All afternoon at putting autographed books in order.

In the evening with my wife to walk on the avenue and stopped to chat with Ina Claire and Gene Markey and to see the talked-about play, "Paris Bound," which I thought trivial and incredibly dull and so home, the taxi driver calling me a cheap-skate and I wondered how that got out.

What with de-wrinkling and lifting, beauty parlor experts have done about all they can for the face. They are now specializing in improving milady's hand. Expressive hands are becoming as important as a striking profile. Several processes are employed to make pretty fingers slender and graceful and give them an artistic flair. There are certain powders and cosmetics for use on the hands that make stubby fingers appear long and tapering.

Large jewelry establishments in New York in the past few years have become almost holdup-proof. (And it will be just my luck for Tiffany's or Cartier's to be held up simultaneously with this piece.) It used to be a frequent occurrence for a thief to dash out of a big jewelry store with a tray of jewels, pass them to a confederate and go whistling off in a crowd.

Today the stranger in a jewelry store is not exactly under suspicion, but he is watched. If he takes an article to the front of the store to examine it in daylight, the signal system is put to work. He is so completely under surveillance he hasn't the well-known Chinaman's chance.

Most jewelry establishments have pistol permits for salesmen and there is an elaborate system of burglar alarms, even to flashing signals to policemen on nearest corners. When a prospective patron goes into the jewel booths to inspect rare gems he is watched by unseen eyes, unless his reputation is known.

This is to prevent substituting spurious gems for the real. Small shops are still victimized, but bigger establishments are so efficiently protected, expert thieves no longer attempt to pit their strategy against them.

The battle of Broadway advertising lights added gaiety to the thoroughfare this season. One movie house began projecting its attractions on the wall of a rival movie down the street. Others took up the fanciful idea and ran it raggedy. Then, by a process of flooding walls with lights, the various movies protected themselves from the onslaughts, and the whole idea was abandoned. It was good fun while it lasted.

On lower Broadway several years ago a popular restaurant had a rival that caused it great trouble and ended in the original place buying out the competitor. The rival establishment acquired the ground floor next door and duplicated the front of the famous place, even to window decorations. The interior was also an exact replica. It was not named and thus thousands drifted in, thinking it was merely a part of the original establishment, and what is more, the food was as excellent. Legally, nothing could be done, so the place was bought at an enormous price over the original investment.

A glass-floored room which is used to display diamonds in a certain jewelry store became so tricky that customers are now supplied with slip-on woolen slippers. It reminds me of the year the slick, hardwood floor craze hit our town with its epidemic of broken hips. I emerged with a broken wrist.

Is Murder Ever Justifiable?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Some time ago a shipyard worker in England was acquitted of the charge of murder.

His child had been suffering from tuberculosis and gangrene. Doctors said even if she had not been killed she would have died of the disease in a few hours. Her father drowned her in the bathtub.

The judge held that if this poor child had been an animal instead of a human being, so far as there was anything blameworthy in the man's action in putting an end to the sufferings, he would actually have been punished if he had not done so.

We all sympathize with this father, who was probably frantic over seeing his child suffer and we have no disposition to criticize the action of the jury.

The act, however, must not be taken by itself, but, as we live under a reign of law, attention should be paid to its value as a precedent. And to make it a law that a parent, or any one else, should be justified in taking life is not good.

In all the welter of discussion about the moral of acts, one thing is clear, and that is the sacredness of human life. To put the power of taking human life into any other hands than the state would be dangerous.

Moreover, in spite of all indications, a man who seems hopelessly ill may get well. Instances have been reported of marvelous recoveries. That is another reason why no individual should decide when life shall cease.

Many of us are convinced that even the state has no right to take life and are opposed to capital punishment. If the state itself cannot remove a human being from this earthly sphere, how much less ought a man to be justified in doing so?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON.

Don't Dry Up!

THE history of life—there's the greatest drama on earth.

Chaos—darkness and storm—then a whirling core of matter. Great winds and darting fire and heaving mud—and gradually a settling and a steadying. Out of the whirlpool, quaking land and slimy sea. And, in the slime, Something moving. So life began. And the first law of life was—

DON'T DRY UP!

All life began in the water, took its body from the water. All bodies were composed largely of water. Water was essential for life. Evolution gradually adapted bodies so that they could live outside water but no body could ever do entirely without water. If a body lost its connection with water, it died.

"DON'T DRY UP," WAS THE FIRST RULE OF LIFE.

"DON'T DRY UP," IS STILL THE FUNDAMENTAL LAW OF LIFE.

We are no longer amphibians. We do not have to live in the water part of the time. We have done away with our gills and fins. But we still will die if we dry up.

And the law of the body is also the law of the spirit.

Minds must drink as well as bodies. Minds must be doused every so often in the common ocean of human experience or they dry up, become empty shells without juice.

THAT'S WHY WEALTH AND SUCCESS ARE GREATER RISKS FOR HUMAN BEINGS THAN HARDSHIPS AND OBSCURITY. THAT'S WHY TOO MUCH HAPPINESS AND SECURITY ARE DISASTROUS. THEY SHUT US AWAY FROM THE COMMON EXPERIENCE. THEY MAKE US THINK WE'RE SELF SUSTAINING. WE'RE NOT.

We need the stinging salt tides of troubles and responsibility to give us back our balance.

We need the dark floods of adversity and the fierce battering of the waves of competition to give us tolerance and humor, spunk and grit and balance.

We need to jostle against all the other fish in order to see how unimportant we are.

Bodies cannot endure on lonely mountain tops where no rain comes, nor in parched deserts. Neither can our minds flourish on mountain peaks of snobbishness and selfishness, intolerance and conceit. We cannot live for ourselves alone or think for ourselves alone, or realize how exquisite our future may be or how lofty our stands. We must partake of the common experience—renew our life in the sea.

WE MUST GO BACK TO THE SEA—

WE MUST LIVE WHERE THE TIDES GO IN AND OUT AND OPEN OUR HEARTS TO THE TIDES.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Courage

THE fading light, the falling rain
And hope's last torches on the wane!
We know, too well, my soul and I,
How hard a cherished hope can die.
And still we know the end is near,
The end of all most prized, most dear.
Yet, though from joy's swift-fading rose
The color fades, the fragrance goes,
One source of solace still remains,
One triumph that no terror stains,
That still my soul, my soul and I,
Unmoved, can watch the last hope die!
